ANSWERING THE SUMMONS.

Death, the Reaper, Leaves Sad Homes in Our Midst.

Elizabeth, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Long, was called from earth last Tuesday night about 10 o'clock after an illness of two weeks or more. She had been suffering from spinal meningitis. Friends and loved ones realized several days prior to the end that her life was flickering, but continued to do all that love prompted until death claimed her.

The funeral took place Wednesday afternoon from the home, corner Burch and Milton avenue, conducted by Rev. G. T. Adams, after which the remains were interred in Maplewood cemetery.

Miss Mollie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Scoggin, died at the home of her parents near the N. & W. dry bridge, last Tuesday afternoon at 6:30 o'clock, after having been confined to her bed for eight months or more. She was about 18 years of age and left a father, mother, three sisters and six brothers.

The funeral was conducted Wednesday afternoon by Elder J. J. Hall, after which the remains were laid to rest in Maplewood cemetery.

W. J. Clifton died at the home of his mother on McMannen street, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. He had been ill for several weeks, and a complication of diseases was the cause of his death. He was about 23 years of age and left a mother, one brother and three sisters.

Many Little Tigers Caged.

Tillet Vaughan was arrested one day this week for fighting and cursing, and when the case was called he was sworn in to give information about how to get whiskey. Although reluctantly, he furnished the necessary facts to cause the arrest of several, but in most cases it was where some fellow sold another a drink, or where he and someone else were partners in a bottle that the other secured.

Hoot Martin was tried in two cases, and bound over to court in bonds of $50 each. He went to jail.

Dick Martin was also put in jail because he could not give bond in the sum of $150 for selling whiskey.

Tom Linticum was tried on evidence furnished by Vaughan and was sent to jail to await the action of the grand jury for selling whiskey on several occasions.

W. S. Holloway was charged by Jake Hopkins with selling whiskey and the evidence was such that he was bound over in a bond of $50 by the mayor. The contention of the witness that he gave Holloway 50 cents and that he brought him a pint of whiskey was not disputed by the defendant.

G. C. Farthing gave a picnic at Patterson's mill last Wednesday complimentary to Miss Lillian Spencer, who is visiting his daughter, Mrs. D. W. Horton. There were about 50 people in the party and the day was spent in fishing, and having a good time generally. A barbecue dinner and supper was served, and all returned to the city after the moon had made its appearance.

HIS LIFE WAS CRUSHED OUT.

Charley Green Loses His Life at Carrington Lumber Co's Plant.

While at his regular work, that of attending to a blind making machine in the plant of the Carrington Lumber Company, last Thursday, Charley Green had his life crushed out by the falling of some doors that were near him. Mr. Green was about 16 years of age and was a faithful employe.

The particulars of this fatal accident as learned from some of those present are as follows: Charley Green was employed to take finished blinds from a machine that did this work. Near to one side of this were stacked a number of very heavy doors and blinds. One blind came through that was too long and caught one of the doors. In trying to get this loose the doors tilted forward and he was caught between some eight or ten doors, each weighing about fifty pounds and the machine at which he was at work. He was crushed and fell under the weight of the heavy doors.

Help reached him quickly, but it was too late. Every attention was given the dying young man and a physician was summoned. Working in the mill at the time was one brother and probably two of the young man who was dying. They were with him. In his suffering and agony he did not murmur only to utter several groans and to ask to be raised to a sitting position. This was done and he died. These are about all the facts regarding the killing of the young fellow.

The remains were carried to Brassfield Friday and interred in the family burying ground, Rev. C. J. Thompson, pastor of the First Baptist church, conducting the funeral.
