EXAMPLES.

There are few people that do not wonder that the other fellow is striving so hard to win in the race for gold and the accumulation of wealth, and are dismayed at the efforts that are made to obtain these ends; and it is also noticeable that people often remark that they never heard of so many homicides, especially people shooting their neighbors.

To the first place there is little wonder that young men grow to consider that the best thing they can do is to work for the coin as it gives so much power and so many of the best men in the land bow to its power, for there are so few that do not in any manner or another show their respect for the man that has money regardless of methods whereby he obtained it. The question is often heard of a man that is a stranger: "Has he any money?" Young men and old men men see and hear in their expressions and should wonder that they should strive for the ends that will give them this power and special notice.

In the second place it is stated frequently that the president of the nation carries with him wherever he goes his trusty revolver to be ready for any emergency. This may be necessary to defend himself and many that understand the need of such, but does the young man just attaining his majority look any further than to see the leader of a nation carries a gun and if he can do so he will only be doing what he considers his.

Is the right example set before the people of a nation by the leaders, and is principle placed above men enough for all to realize that to do something he must first be broad and charitable and allow his neighbors many privileges that he would not be only glad to take away. The idea should not be lost sight of that men of convictions and that have hearts in the work they are doing for the work's sake should come in for first consideration and that making and recommending money should be a side issue. There are things that may never be better when such things are taken with human life—more such a great effort made to do something without hope of receiving due return for money.

Count General Carr Out.

"I almost vowed once before that I would never again vote for Bryan for President, but this year I not only voted for him, but contributed money to his campaign fund. I will never do so again. I am disappointed with the interview Mr. Bryan gave out in Texas a few days ago and I think it is now time that the Democracy look to the South for her presidential candidate."

These are the words of Gen. Julian S. Carr, of Durham, who was in Greensboro last night on his way to New York.

Continuing, Gen. Carr said, after being asked what Southerner in his opinion the Democrats should nominate in 1912:

"Before Carmack's death he was my choice; now I hardly know who would be the best man. Senator Daniel, of Virginia, would make a good President. So would Senator Culberson, of Texas."

General Carr said that he was not alone in the belief that a Southern man should be the next nominee. "When I was in New York ten days ago I met several prominent Democrats who agree with me that the Democracy should look to the South for her next nominee." (Durham News.)

Wiley Gives Bond.

F. W. Wiley, who spent several days following to his failure to give bond for threatening Miss Ashley, has given bond and been released.

The case attracted considerable attention and most people are about evenly divided as regards the seriousness of the charge, some taking the position that it was a practical joke and others maintaining that it was purely a threat. However, there is little doubt expressed that we have heard but the peace bond of $500 will have the desired effect and there will be no more trouble.

The price paid by Capt. M. L. Jones for the Carolina Valley Railroad, which was sold at public auction in High Point Monday afternoon, was $37,000, this including the railroad, rights-of-way and rolling stock.

TWO MORE ARRESTS.

Police Think they Have All Connected With Smith Murder.

A Raleigh Special of December 1, says:

The police to-day made two more arrests in connection with the murder of E. W. Smith, of Richmond, one being a white man known as Tom Holderfield and the other a negro hack driver Ed Chavis. No information can be secured about these arrests beyond the fact that they were made. So far the coroner has arrested two people. He and the police are making separate lines of inquiry and neither tells the other of his work. The coroner does not know why the police arrested Earl Cotton, the white degenerate who is said to have been concerned in a number of offenses here. It is said that Smith was at Cotton's place early on the fatal Sunday morning and that he went away from there in a carriage.

Including today's arrests, the police think they rounded up all the principals and accessories in the Smith murder. It is not known when the hearing will be held, but perhaps Friday. It is said that Smith was taken to the stone quarry rather early on the fatal night and that Cotton was certainly implicated. It is intimated that insanity will be pleaded in Cotton's case so as to get him, if possible, into the criminal insane department of the penitentiary. It is asserted that the result of the trial of persons charged with the crime will show that the police have done well and that the slowness in handling the case was for the purpose of getting accurate results and that the whole story of the crime, about which there are two theories, will be fully revealed.

The crowd of people that came up from Raleigh last Tuesday night to hold an old maids convention were disappointed if they expected a crowd as very few people went to see the performance at the Academy of Music.

South Lebanon News.

We are having some fine weather now and the good farmers are preparing their lands for the next season.

South Lebanon school is progressing fine. New pupils come in every day. Thanksgiving was appropriately celebrated there and all present enjoyed the occasion.

Mr. Petty will conduct a series of singings at Rose of Sharon Baptist church beginning December 4th, and it is hoped that quite a number will attend.

A fine baby girl called at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Garrard Thanksgiving day and received a hearty welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Garrard spent a very pleasant day at the home of Mr. James Umstead Sunday.

Mrs. S. D. Cook and children visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Nichols, of Schley, Saturday and Sunday.

We are expecting another wedding in our neighborhood pretty soon, listen out for the bells.

Mr. S. D. Cook is having his residence painted, the work being done by his brother, Mr. A. W. Cook, and I think he will make a very successful job of it.

Mr. W. P. Rhew, who left his home early in the fall and went to West Durham cotton mills, has returned home and says that he likes farming best.

DEATH OF ALBERT DUNNEGAN.
Albert Dunnegan, beloved son of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Dunnegan, died November the 16th near Northside, N. C. At the time of death he was working at the saw mill of Mr. Littleton.

The night before his death he visited a friend and it was while returning home that he breathed his last. He was found by the roadside by some colored men that had been working in the saw mill with him. Albert was a boy whom every one liked and his many friends in this section are pained at his death.

After the coroner's inquest the remains were prepared for burial and brought to Rose of Sharon church, where the interment took place. Quite a crowd of friends and relatives assembled at the church to pay their last respects to his memory.

A FRIEND.

Mr. Charles H. Belvin Dead.

Raleigh, N. C., Dec. 1. Mr. Charles H. Belvin, ex-president of the Raleigh Banking and Trust Company, died at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. John W. Haldin, a little before noon today. Ten days ago he had a severe stroke of paralysis. He was 61 and he was a semi-invalid a number of years. He was a native of Greenville, S. C., and came here in 1854, to our service in the postoffice as a clerk and serving there through the war and until 1876, when he came to be keeper of the Raleigh National Bank and was its successful teller. The bank was later named, becoming the National Bank of Raleigh, and he became its cashier, holding that position until the death of his father-in-law, Mr. John G. Haldin, in 1904. Mr. Belvin retired from the presidency of the bank and from all active work in 1905. He was devoted to work at 1100 North Street Methodist church, and was a most generous man always.

He is survived by a son and two daughters, one of the latter being the wife of Mr. John W. Haldin and the other the wife of Mr. Charles W. Horrie, of Clayton.

All bank officials in Raleigh attended the funeral, and all the banks were closed.

An Episode in Court.

"You are charged with snatching a woman's pocketbook."
"I know it, judge. But I would do such a thing, hungry and broke as I am."
"Too conscientious, I suppose."
"No; I don't pretend that. But why should I snatch a woman's pocketbook? What would I want with a couple of our tickets, a powder rag, a piece of chewing gum and a dressmaker's address?"
"One more a criminal overshot his mark. His familiarity with the contents convicted him.—Exchange.

There is a probability of a military school for High Point and business men of that city are interesting themselves in the project. A gentleman from a distant State has the matter in hand and writes that he has three places in view, High Point being one of them.

Making Good.

There is no way of making lasting friends like "Making Good" and Doctor Pierce's medicines well exemplify this, and their friends, after more than two decades of popularity, are numbered by the hundreds of thousands. They have "made good" and they have not made druggarists.

A good, honest, square-deal medicine of known composition is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It still enjoys an immense sale, while most of the preparations that have come into prominence in the earlier period of its popularity have "gone by the board" and are never more heard of. There must be some reason for this long-time popularity and that is to be found in its superior merits. When once given a fair trial for weak stomach, or for liver and blood affections, its superior curative qualities are soon manifest; hence it has survived and grown in popular favor, while scores of less meritorious articles have suddenly flashed into favor for a brief period and then been as soon forgotten.

For a torpid liver with its attendant indigestion, dyspepsia, headache, perhaps dizziness, foul breath, nasty coated tongue, with bitter taste, loss of appetite, with distress after eating, nervousness and debility, nothing is so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's an honest, square-deal medicine with all its ingredients printed on bottle-wrapper—its secret, no humbug, no quackery, no "patent" or "proprietary" stuff, that the dealer may possibly make a little bigger profit, insist on your right to have what you call for.

Don't buy Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription expecting it to prove a "cure-all." It is only advised for women's special ailments. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. Less advertised than some preparations sold for like purposes, its superior curative virtues still maintain its position in the front ranks, where it stood over two decades ago. As an invigorating tonic and strengthening nerve-tonic is unparalleled. It won't satisfy those who want "bombs" for there is not a drop of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, the original Little Liver Pills, although the first pill of their kind in the market, still lead, and when once tried are ever afterwards in favor. Easy to take, as many as one to three a dose. Much imitated but never equaled.
