DR. PRETTYMAN'S SOUP FLAVORING.

By C. L. POINEER. [Copyright, 1909, by American Press Asso-ciation.]

Dr. Prettyman was a specialist in brain diseases and visiting surgeon at a hospital.

At one of these visits the regular house surgeon was temporarily absent. Dr. Prettyman was sitting in the medical office, waiting for him, when a nurse entered and told him that a patient who was considered almost cured and had been given the post of Geer school No. 3-Salary per Barbee's school No. 3-Build-doctor go down and see him? Dr. Prettyman found the cook alone in the kitchen. Indeed, he had driven every one else out. He was a large, muscular man, and it did not need the doctor's practiced eye to see the light of insunity in his eye. He was standing over a large boller which was filled with steaming soup.

"Doctor," said the lunatic, "come here and there this soup. I fear it is not flavored right."

The doctor hesitated a moment, wondering if he had not better call assist mee, then concluded to humor the patient. He went to the range, in Which there was a very bot fire. The cook indied out some soup, and the doctor tasted it. burning his tongue.

"It's all right." he said. "But, doctor, I don't think there's ment enough in it. It's too thin. should have more stock for it, but I haven't. The steward is stingy with his supplies. He gives me nothing, literally nothing, with which to feed all the mouths in this vast house. He's putting all the money they give him for provisious in his pocket. I wish I had him here. I'd chop him into bits." Seizing a cleaver, be brandished it over the doctor's bend, then went on

"There's got to be more stock for this soup, and where is it to come from? I have it. You'll do, doctor. You'll do first rate. Your bones are small, but there's marrow in them, and your tesh is "heaty, not fat."

He made a step toward the doctor. it might be expected that the dapper physician would shrick for help. He knew only too well that this would excite the patient and before assistance could arrive the big cook would be chepping him up into soup stock. He kept his eye fixed stendily on the pa-

"And don't want it to taste of assfetida?"

"And paragorie."

The doctor went through with a list of medicines, keeping his eye on the door, hoping that some one might happen in. But he was disappointed.

Those whose place was in the kitchen purposely kept out, and others had no occasion to go there. At last the doctor was constrained to conclude.

He spent as much time as he dared fumbling for his case, the cook growing impatient the while, then took it out, opened it, extracted one or two corks, smelled of the bottles and put one of them under the cook's pose. It contained either. But the doctor knew very well that he couldn't put the tunatic nsleep with either unless he could hold it over his mouth and nose. He hoped to quiet him and to gain time. The cook thought it would improve the soup and with a wild laugh poured.

"Hold on a bit." said the doctor. "Here's something else." He took a vini from his case marked

"Choral." "Taste that." he said, handing it to the cook.

The cook took a swallow. "Fine, isu't it?" sked the doctor, breathing a sigh of partial relief.

The cook turned, threw the bottle into the soup, then, again selzing the doctor, lifted him, despite his efforts, on to a table used for cutting meat. Then the maniac looked about-for his cleaver, which be had laid aside while even if it had been plentiful it dayoring the soup. The Knock-out Blow

The blow which knocked out Corbett was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the knock-out blowwas aimed for the jaw, the temple or the jugular vein. Stomach punches were thrown in to worry and weary the fighter, but if a scientific man had told one of the old fighters that the most vulnerable spot was the region of the stomach, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus. Dr. Pierce is bringing home to the public a parallel fact; that the stomach is the most vulnerable organ out of the prize ring as well as in it. We protect our heads, throats, feet and lungs, but to the stomach we are utterly indifferent, until disease finds the solar piexus and knocks us out.

Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and you protect yourself in your most vulnerable spot. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, bad, thin and impure blood and other diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" has a specific curative effect upon all mucous surfaces and hence cures catarrh, no matter where located or what stage it may have reached. In Nasal Catarrh it is well to cleanse the passages with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy fluid while using the "Discovery" as a constitutional remedy. Why the "Golden Medical Discovery" cures catarrhal diseases, as of the stomach, bowels, bladder and other pelvic organs will be plain to you if you will read a booklet of extracts from the writings of eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients and explaining their curative properties. It is mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. This booklet gives all the ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines from which it will be seen that they contain not a drop of alcohol—pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead.

It's foolish and often dangerous to experiment with new or but slightly tested medicines—sometimes urged upon the afflicted as "just as good" or better than "Gotten Medical Discovery." The dishonest dealer sometimes insists that he knows what the proffered substitute is made of, but you don't and it is decidedly for your interest that you should know what you are taking into your stomach and system expecting it to act as a curative. To him its only a difference of profit. Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If not promptly supplied trade elsewhere.

Send 31 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only on a free copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, cloth-bound. Address Dr. Pierce as above. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and strengthen Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

The American Cotton Manufacturers' Association will be held in Charlotte, May 17th and 18th.
