Sholar, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Mrs. Kate White.

MRS. J. R. POWELL ENTERTAINS. Oxford, June 28.—The home of Mrs. J. R. Powell was thrown open to receive many friends invited to an At Home given by Mrs. James H. Powell, Mrs. Lucy Powell and Miss Bettie Jordan, complimentary to Mrs. Sholar, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, who is so pleasantly remembered in the community as Miss Annie Powell.

STUFFED POTATOES WITH MEAT. Stuffed potatoes are made by paring six good-sized potatoes, cutting them in half lengthwise and scooping out the centers. Leave a wall a quarter of an inch thick. Put the potatoes into boiling water, allow them to boil for ten minutes, then drain, being careful not to break them. Fill the potatoes with finely chopped cold meat well seasoned. A bit of bread adds much to the flavor. Dust the tops with bread crumbs, place in the center of each a lump of butter, set them in the baking pan and bake in a moderate oven for a half hour.

GRETA GREEN MARRIAGE. Wilmington, June 27.—Many friends in the city will be pleasantly surprised to learn of a Greta Green affair which occurred Sunday, in which the principals were Miss Marcel Smith, the attractive daughter of Dr. J. A. Smith, a well-known druggist of this city, and Mr. D. M. Baig, circulation manager of the Morning Star of this city. While it was known that the young couple were devoted lovers, the news of their romantic wedding yesterday was received with much interest and surprise. It seems that the young couple had planned their wedding well. They left here Sunday morning on the early train and stopped at Nichols, S. C. Here they sought a minister and were soon made husband and wife. Shortly after their marriage messages were received here acquainting friends with the happy event. Mr. and Mrs. Baig returned to the city Sunday and were greeted with congratulations by many friends. They left that evening for Asheville, where they will spend their honeymoon. They expect to return home Saturday of this week.

DANCE AT OXFORD. Oxford, June 28.—A delightful dance was given Monday night in the armory by the young men in honor of the visiting young ladies of the town. For three hours the happy couples enjoyed dancing by the music furnished by the orchestra of Panacea Springs. Those dancing were: Pearson Harris with Miss Mary Sherrod, of Enfield; May Wood, of Enfield, with Miss Elizabeth Mayo, of Tarboro; Willie Alston with Miss Alma Fleming, T. W. Rogers with Miss Evalina Mayo, of Tarboro; Ben Mayo with Miss Annie Lou Mayo, of Tarboro; Nick Cannady with Miss Anderson, of Richmond; Leonard Mitchell with Miss Sholar, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Morehead Emmitt with Miss Roberta Hicks, of Brooklyn; A. H. A. Williams with Miss May White, T. C. Howell with Miss Marr Cooper, Beverly Royster with Miss Ruth Mitchell, Hamlin Landis with Miss Mary Royal Hancock, Gibson Howell with Miss Elizabeth Hancock, Jim Taylor with Miss Lucy Landis.

Chaperones: Mrs. J. B. Powell, Mrs. meaning. The old idea of maiden's (friends of the bride) strewing the bridal couples' paths with flowers and herbs and rushes, was a beautiful one—and the poets sing of this lovely custom again and again. Nosegays and posies flouted their color always at weddings. All the companies carried them and they were showered upon the bride. The more modest flowers such as primroses and maiden's blushes and violets were particularly spoken of as being the most appropriate for the occasion.

WITH MRS. PARRISH.

The Lochmore club met Saturday morning at 9 o'clock with Mrs. E. J. Parrish. They spent the morning embroidering, crocheting and helpful conversation. After which dainty refreshments were served.

The Lochmore club will meet in the future every Saturday morning with Mrs. E. J. Parrish.

Those present were Miss Pearl Nichols, president of the club; Miss Constant Dalling, secretary of the club, and Misses Lora Plintome, Eva Plintome, Lizzie Horner, Ruth Dilling, Ethel Carrington, Pattie Horner, Horner Holton and Mrs. E. J. Parrish.

CREECH-WHITLEY.

Mr. Russell Creech and Miss Lillie Whitley, of Weldon, were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Whitley on Walker street Sunday evening, Rev. J. A. Herndon officiating.

The altar was banked with palms and ferns with daisies as a background. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Henry O'Neal. The bride was attended by Miss Flora Belle Whitley, Miss Viola Whitley and Miss Emma Brown, while the groom entered with Mr. Clarence Creech, Mr. David Brook and Mr. Clyde Whitley. Mr. and Mrs. Creech left for the eastern part of the state, where they will visit relatives for several weeks. On their return they will make their home in Durham.

LAWN PARTY A SUCCESS.

The lawn party given Friday evening by class No. 3 of the Christian church Sunday School was by far the most successful any Sunday School has had this summer. The lawn was beautifully decorated with lanterns and electric lights, besides the beautiful decorations on the young ladies' tables. The bracelet which was given as a prize went to Miss Mamie Honeycutt, who received $16.66. This shows that Miss Honeycutt is indeed a very popular young lady. The cake, which was to be given to the young lady receiving the next largest number of votes, was won by Miss Nettie Hesse, who received something near $5.

The whole receipts amounted to nearly $50. The class as a whole wish to thank the public for their kindness.

SOCIAL NEWS OF OXFORD.

Oxford, June 26.—A very enjoyable reception was given Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. John S. Rogers, in honor of her guests, Mrs. E. S. Fitzgerald, of Keyville, Va., and Mrs. J. O. Watkins, of South Boston, Va. At the front door Miss Fannie Gregory received the guests and little Miss Annie Landis and Master Hodgoh Fitzgerald received their cards. In the hall Mrs. E. T. White, Mrs. J. W. Horner and Mrs. William Landis cordially greeted the guests and they were ushered into the parlor by Mrs. W. D. Bryan, where the receiving party were, Mrs. Rogers, Mrs. Watkins, Mrs. Fitzgerald, Mrs. Marion Taylor, Miss Florence Carbutt, Mrs. Scott Hunt. Passed to the dining-room by Miss Mary Webb and Miss Lily White, they were served to frozen dainties and choice cakes by Miss Carbutt, Miss Evelyn Howell, Miss Helen White, Miss May White, Mrs. Llewellyn and Mrs. J. C. Davis invited the guests to the punch bowl, where Misses Shabarger and Janet Gregory served the cool and fragrant fruit punch.

Altogether the reception was full of pleasure and the adornment of the beautiful home, in color scheme of yellow and white was artistically carried out with profusion of yellow and white lilies. All expressed appreciation of the hospitality of Mrs. Rogers and the pleasing cordiality of the guests of honor.

Miss Eleanor Huske, of Fayetteville, who very successfully filled the position of teacher of the first grade in Oxford last season, and was re-elected to the same position, has sent her resignation to the board of trustees in Oxford, on account of having accepted a position to teach in Fayetteville. Miss Huske was pleasant in the social circle as well as in the graded school and her friends regret that she will not return. Judge J. Crawford Biggs and Bishop Junius H. Horner visited their old homes in Oxford this week, and both expressed the pleasure of seeing marked improvement in the buildings and streets of the town.

HENDERSON SOCIAL NOTES.

Henderson, June 26.—Mrs. Clarence G. Wear, of Charlotte, and her three children are visiting her parents, Capt. and Mrs. J. T. Elmore, on Garnett street. Mrs. Adkins, another daughter, formerly Miss Carrie Elmore, is also their guest. She has been very ill at a hospital and has arrived here, her condition being much improved. Mrs. Harry Cockerill and Miss Mary Cockerill, of Chattanooga, Tenn., are guests of Mrs. Thad H. Manning. Mr. and Mrs. George B. Harris are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Lynch, of Edgefield, S. C. Mrs. Lynch, formerly Miss Ruth Harris, and very popular in our city, has a fine pair of twins—a boy and a girl. They will visit Mrs. Thompson, also, and another married daughter there.

CLEVELAND BOYS SWINDLE.

Cleveland, June 27.—The local American league club announces the purchase from the Winston-Salem team of the Carolina association of Pitcher Swindle, a right-hander, who has won fifteen and lost two games this season. He will report September 1st. Some men do not believe in their own beliefs.

other married daughter there. Miss Mary Dunn, a gifted musician and teacher of music of Henderson, has gone to Washington, D. C., to take an extra course in music. Misses Nellie Rose and Almie and Alice Hughes have returned from visiting Misses Muriel and Josephine Craven in Durham.

RECIPES.

Stewed Cucumbers and Onions.—This dish needs equal amounts of sliced cucumbers and onions. Flour well and fry slowly in drippings; when browned to one side, add to the fat in the pan enough flour (about one tablespoonful) to absorb it, then slowly add a half pint of boiling water or gravy and stir till thickened. Simmer slowly half an hour, and just before serving add a spoonful of walnut catsup.

Stewed Beefsteak.—Take a thick slice of round of beef, spread out in a pan, cover with a pint or more of canned or chopped fresh tomatoes, plenty of salt and pepper. Cover and cook in a slow oven for two hours or until the meat is very tender.

Crab and Tomato Soup.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter and add an equal amount of flour; when well incorporated add a quart of milk and cook until it thickens. Add a cupful of cooked crab meat and two cupfuls of cooked and strained tomato, a pinch of soda and salt and pepper to season. Serve immediately with croutons.

Fish Balls With Gravy.—Take cold fish of any kind and free it from the bones; flake it, season well and then to a cupful of the fish add an egg beaten up with a teaspoonful of flour and a teaspoonful of milk. Shape into balls or patty cakes. Dip in beaten egg and cracker or bread crumbs, and then fry till brown. Make a gravy by cooking the bones, head and tail of the fish in a little water and seasoning with onion and anchovy; thicken with flour and pour around the fish cakes.

FASHION NOTES.

The newest and largest buttons for country suits are of horn dyed to match the cloth, or of tortoise shell. One of the most noticeable features on a large number of the new models is a sort of apronlike drape, arranged more or less fancifully. Sometimes it is actually an apron that is hung down the front of the skirt, made, of course, of the hand-somest material.

A well known matron whose brunette coloring permits her to wear orange color with success has a new evening gown in her favorite shade. It is made of satin, one sleeve being of satin and the other of white applique lace veiled in black tulle. A panel of rich silver and pearl embroidery on vieux bleu chiffon is draped across the front of the bodice, encircling the waist, and forming a deep point on the skirt, while a drape of vieux bleu chiffon falls over the long pointed train of orange satin.

DEPE CONSUMERS.

China is generally supposed to consume more opium than any country. Hamilton Wright, the federal opium commissioner, says, however, that the people of the United States consume more "dope" than China or any other nation. This country uses 300,000 pounds annually. Not one-hundredth part of this is prescribed by physicians or legally dispensed by druggists.

The sale of hypodermic syringes and needles is "alarmingly large," and the sale of habit-forming drugs, opium and its derivatives, is equally great. There is a tremendous profit in the sale of this drug and the instruments used in connection with it. The law seems inadequate to prevent the consumption of opium.

In New York there is a proposition to prohibit the sale of instruments for the injection of opiates without the prescription of a physician. This and many other preventive measures must be adopted before the opium curse can be lifted from the shoulders of this nation.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

RISE AND FALL.

A boy was driving a donkey and cart which belonged to his widowed mother when he was accosted by a snobbish young man who, wishing to impress his cleverness upon a young lady who accompanied him, said: "Watch me take a rise out of this boy." He shouted to the boy, "I say! do you think your mother would sell me that donkey?" The boy took a good look at him and answered, "Do you think your mother could keep you two?" It was pleasing to see that the young lady smiled.

COMPLIMENTARY TO MRS. GARRISON.

Oxford, June 28.—A very pleasant party was given by Miss Jennette Biggs, complimentary to Mrs. Garrison, of Gastonia, the guest of Mrs. W. G. Pace. Six tables of "forty-two" were arranged and afforded delightful entertainment for an hour. At the close Mrs. B. G. Lassiter having made the highest score, was awarded the prize, a pair of brass candlesticks, while the souvenir, a set of daintily crocheted mats, was presented to the guest of honor. A salad course of pleasing variety, and served by Mrs. Marion Taylor, Miss May White and Miss Lily White, which proved so enjoyable finale of the social occasion.

Widow—My husband, who so often helped you before, died a few months ago.

Beginner—I sympathize with you very much, ma'am. You haven't got a colored dress you can give me, I suppose.—Flegende Bissetter.

CHESTERFIELDIAN DRIVER.

When the late Tom Johnson started in life he drove a horse car in Indianapolis. One night there was a big storm of sleet and snow and the tracks were almost hidden. Johnson was on the night shift, and in the storm he drove his car two blocks beyond a curve before he realized the car was off the tracks and slipping along on the ice.

He tried to pull the car back and failed. Thereupon, he unhitched the horses and drove them back to the barn and left the car where it was.

Next day the superintendent called him. "Here, Johnson," he said, "what do you mean by driving a car off the track and then leaving it in the street?"

"Why," Johnson replied, suavely, "that's in the rules for drivers and conductors."

"In the rules for drivers and conductors?" roared the superintendent.

"Where, I'd like to know?"

"Certainly," replied Johnson. "It says always be polite to passengers. Do you remember the kind of a night last night was? Well, there was a lady on my car who didn't have an umbrella and she lived two blocks from that curve. So I drove her home."—Saturday Evening Post.

MONUMENT TO JOHN W. DANIELS.

No Virginian in the past quarter of a century has been more admired or beloved than John W. Daniels. His eloquence, his charming personality, his devotion to his state, won and held the warm friendship of his people. His long and honorable record in the United States senate compelled the respect of the country.

In the closing years of his life no candidate dared dispute his right to his seat in the senate, and he was re-elected without a dissenting vote. His old comrade-in-arms in the Confederate army, Sir Moses Ezekiel, the sculptor, whose long residence in Rome has not weakened his love for Virginia, has agreed to model a statue of Daniel to be erected in his home city, Lynchburg. To erect the monument $10,000 is required, and his friends have decided to invite contributions from the admirers of the late senator. They will make no organized campaign for the money, nor will they solicit funds; and this is as Senator Daniel himself would have wished. No contribution of more than $100 will be accepted, as this is intended to be a voluntary popular tribute to a favorite son of Virginia.—Baltimore Sun.

IN THE CARPENTER'S SHOP.

"Life's a hard grind," said the emory wheel.

"It's a perfect bore," returned the auger.

"It means nothing but hard knocks for me," sighed the nail.

"You haven't so much to go through as I have," put in the saw.

"I can barely scrape along," complained the plane.

"And I am certainly being set upon," added the bench.

"Let's strike," said the hammer.

"Cut it out!" cried the chisel, "here comes the boss."

GOVERNOR WILSON TO LAWYERS.

A great quality about Governor Woodrow Wilson is that he says his say to a man's face—to any number of men's faces. As witness his plain talk to the gentlemen of the New Jersey bar association.

"It is true that the legal profession, as a profession, does not enjoy the confidence of the people. You are too technical; you are business men on strictly legal lines. The community no longer regards you as legal guides."

The probability is that the legal gentlemen present applauded those sentiments vigorously. The "you," of course, means the other man. Bar associations in general have most courteously received the censures of such jurists and doctors of law as President Taft, Mr. Justice Hughes, Dean Lawson, of the Missouri university of law school; Prof. Roscoe Pound, of Harvard; Judge Amidon, of the North Dakota federal court. Yet those of the profession who sincerely wish to reform court codes and to make the law fit the needs of current life appear to be quite helpless. Paradoxically, even the ethics of the profession hamper their desires to make the practice of the law and the administration of justice truly ethical.—Kansas City Star.

What Carlisle Heard at the Opera. "I see Jack Johnson has gone to the coronation."

"Yes, and he probably has more right to his title than anyone else who will be there."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

What Carlisle Heard at the Opera. "The late John G. Carlisle, said a member of the club, 'was very fond of music, and it annoyed him inexpressibly at the opera to see the inattention of the fashionable part of the audience."

"One night, I found him supping here and asked him where he had been."

"I've been to the opera," he replied.

"I heard," said Mr. Carlisle, that the Van Vans are going to get a divorce; young Zniekerbocker Smith has married a London barmaid, and Mrs. J. W. Hardup is gradually pawning her jewels."—Philadelphia Record.

"How do you know she's older than you are?"

"Why, she admitted it herself."

"Honestly? What did she say?"

"She said: 'You and I are just the same age dearie.'"

"The American residents of Hongkong have asked for a battleship."

"Are they in danger of any kind?"

"Certainly not. They want to give a dance."—Detroit Free Press.
