POLITICAL SCRAPS.

Federalism the same under every "Alias."

The assailants of the Democracy cannot other subjects of the British Government, as assassins, while the English reformer is characterized as an infidel—an agrarian—a mobocrat, "running the banks"-and all this simply because he asks "another constitution" like our own-a character guarantyine the right of suffrage: - Globe. "The Chartist of Ireland per contra, (says the Express,) often resorts to assassination for redress. The Chartist of England thinks of running the banks, mobbing classes of people richer than he is, and uprooting society form its very foundations. Infidelity and agrarianism make up a large share of his prin-

"Its day of Prosperity."-"The country has called for Clay in its time of trouble; it now seeks to honor him in its day of prosperity."

The above extract, from an Opposition quarter, does not exactly accord with the notions of the Star and Express, that the country is ruined over and over again by the modern Attila, instead of being in its day of prosperity.—Globe.

The Wheeling Times, a warm Opposition aper, makes the following acknowledgement: The Democratic papers are acknowledged by all parties to be the most correct in their election returns, and to possess the most accurate knowledge of approaching elections."

darkness .- Globe. is a good one-very appropriate. The first apostles who carried out light to a heathen world were called "the lights of the world, or in substance "loco focos." One of them was called "a burning, a shining light;" a great moral loco foco match, to blaze and glow in we venture to predict that before many years they will call themselves the loco foco whigs.

Webster Motto.-We conclude that the following motto has lately been adopted by Dan-iel Webster, taken from Cumberland's poems:

"The first of pleasures Were to be rich myself; but next to this I hold it best to be a parasite, And feed upon the rich.

New Era.

Wellerisms .- "Variety is the spice of life," is the Feds said ven they took the name of

"Sure bind, sure find," as John Bell said ven he pledged the people of Tennessee to the Tories of the Hartford Convention. "Go home, G-d .d-m you," as Henry

Clay said in Congress, ven he should have been saying his prayers. "I could'nt help it," as Joe Ritner said to Nick Biddle, ven he asked him why the d-l

he spent so much money, and let Porter beat "I'm off," as Sam Swartwout said, ven the Conservatives told him the Democrats would convict them as particceps criminis.

President's Visit .- The illiberal and abuive course of the Whigs of New York city, lic, on his passage through that city towards mean by this shameless assertion of falsehood? shall be made upon cotton with the capital the place of his birth, has operated most disastrously for themselves. It has given the people, the true people, the independent Democracy, a chance to act on their own hook; and the money princes—the merchant princes-cannot arrogate to themselves the honthey affect to have the control. Simpletons with great propriety, be classed the whole of that they were, they supposed that their own the race.—Baltimore Post. contempt for the head of the Democratic party, would be readily imitated by the people-and "that a few ragged Locofocos, only," would be drummed together, to do honor to the favorite of the Empire State. How cruel has been their disappointment!! The reception of the President at New York has been one of the most signal demonstrations Devastating Progress of the Modern Attilla.—Morus Multicaulis, it is said, has fallen half a cent on the hundred, all, as the wise Whigs of Wall street believe, in consequence of the President's using, at Castle Garden, the strange, unconstitutional language-"my Democratic fellow-citizens."—Globe.

Thus his soliloquy will run—
'My person sure, the Whigs bewitches,
'I hey've furnished me with suits before, But not with such a pair of breeches!"

All Hail Middlesex .- The election of County Treasurer which has just taken place in Middlesex, resulted in the choice of Mr. Butrick the Democratic candidate, by a majority of 1496 over all others.—This is a GAIN of over 1500 votes since last fall when the whig senators were chosen. Old Massachusetts is coming!

Mr. Forsyth .- His letters, whilst th French question was pending, are models of appropriate diplomatic writing. Their qualities were brevity, dignity and force, the true emanations from the official pen of a nation towards the close of a long dispute in which she felt conscious of being in the right, and had a reliance in her power; and whoever desires to see a succinct and able statement of the complicated boundary question up to the 28th of April, 1835, would do well to read Mr. Forsyth's letter of that date, to Sir Charles Vaughan, written by President Jackson's direction in reply to certain observations on the question, submitted by Sir Charles, under instructions from the British Government.

Philadelphia Spirit of the Times.

A National Bank .- How any but hackpoliticians can be satisfied with the course of the Whig party upon this question, it is difficult to perceive. The South, above all lands, is unused to this mode of electioneer-The reason—they love light better than ing; principles have ever here been recognised as the only stepping stone to political preferment, the necessary ordeal to which Loco Focos .- The editor of the Indiana individual pretensions are to be submitted. > The Interest of the Country .- The New York correspondent of the National Intelligencer says the "interest of New York is the interest of the country." Those who have been in the habit of reading his letters, must have perceived that he considers the interest of the Wall street stock-jobbers, money changers and "provision dealers," the interest of New York; and according to the present ex- country and Great Britain, have occasioned pression, that their interest is the interest of considerable excitement for a few days past, the country. Heathen. The Rev. Baron Stow, a clergyman of this city, (says the Boston Morning Post,) in a recent speech before the Baptist Foreign Missionary Society, named it as a most extraordinary fact, that the sum subscribed for Mr. Webster by his party, to enable him to make a display in Europe, was larger than had been contributed the past year for foreign missions throughout the United States!

The following is too good to be lost. It is from the Coos county, (N. H.) Democrat: "The Whig papers in Vermont are circulating a call for a "Democratic Whig" Convention, signed by six Hartford Convention

Very Appropriate.—The "figure head" of the New York Whig is a bust of the immortal Washington, with his eyes closed. Tennessee Democrat. We are highly gratified to perceive the success our friend Harris has met with at Nashville. We felt confident that his high minded and generous feelings-his talents-his honesty-his zeal, and his enthusiastic devotion to the unadulterated principles of Jeffersonian Democracy, would at once secure to him the confidence and affection of the liberal and patriotic Tennesseeians. In New England, his character as a man and a politician was unimpeachable, and we are certain that his good qualities have not been weakened by exchanging the enervating atmosphere of Hartford Conventionism for the pure and free air of Democratic Tennessee. - Bost. Brotherly Advice. - The following brotherly advice is from a Whig organ in New York to its co-laborers:—Globe.

"Take Care. - If the Whigs join issue with Van Buren on the Sub-Treasury scheme, they will be defeated. Never did the banks act more rascally than they do now. Do the Whigs want to identify their cause with that of the banks? Fools! fools! When will the Whigs learn sense? when will their

We commend a portion of these remarks to the gentlemen who have issued the circular, published in the prints of this morning, addressed to the Cotton Planters, Merchants, Factors, and Presidents and Directors of the several Banks in the Southern States, and recommend a plan, by which, at the commencemement of each new crop advances some light upon what must be the enevitable operation of this plan. One would think that some men would be warned against these nefarious attempts of banking institutions to the past. But one crime leads to another, and an interposition which was at first cautiously put forth lest it might shock the good sense of the community, is now boldy urged as a necessary measure of protection for the commerce, finances and exchanges of the whole country. Can it be possible that a scheme so monstrous will find favor with that portion of the commercial world, who desire to see a sound condition of trade, which they know can only be maintained by confining banking institutions to their legitithe 20th June, 1839, a negro wothat has been witnessed since the visit of the

The production of cotton, for instance, has become so immense that it cannot be sent forward and disposed of at fair prices through the ordinary medium of mercantile establishments in this country or Europe, without the direct co-operation of banks. We are at a loss to divine to what height of effrontery the friends of trading corporations will next carry their
