

Poetical.

From the Churchman. The following lines, which we cut from a late number of the Churchman, we believe are from the pen of the young poet Cox. At all events they are superlative good.

Man goeth to his long home.—Ecc. xii. 5.
March—march—march!
Making sounds as they tread,
Ho-ho how they step,
Going down to the dead!

He dresses in the height of fashion, and his equipage is the most magnificent that dashes through the Avenues of this magnificent city. His public dinner parties are also splendid beyond description.

Who can wonder that the court sycophants with Timon's silver on their lips, should sneer at gold cabinets and hard cider.
Gold Spoons, Forks, Dishes, and Urns!—
A fantastic plateau and a complete service of gold plate, recently added to the furniture of the White House, magnificently equipped, and most costly dinners.

But notwithstanding the grossness of these falsehoods, here it is introduced into the "Harrison Almanac," and will be believed, franked, and circulated, by Whig Senators and Representatives, men who call themselves "honorable"—and yet know that there is not a word of truth in the whole story!

STOP THE THIEF.
SOME Second rate stole from my stable, on Wednesday night, a small sorrel HORSE with a white streak in his face. Said horse is not in good order and considerably scarified by the gear, and has a sore back. The thief carried off a wagon bridle with two bridle bits in each hand. I have every reason to believe that the notorious thief and horse breaker Jonathan Baker, is the culprit, as he had been in the immediate neighborhood the day before and had broken open a house not more than a mile from me, was detected and driven off on Wednesday evening, and has not been seen about here since. I will reward liberally any person who will deliver to me the thief and horse, or give me such information as will enable me to recover the horse.

TEN DOLLARS Reward.

RANAWAY from the subscriber, on the 25th of April last, a negro man by the name of JACOB. He is a tall, well made fellow, about six feet in height, and very dark complexioned, with more than otherwise, a pleasant countenance. He plays well on the fiddle, and is very fond of ardent spirits. This said boy some years past, worked in Wilmington, in different employments, and between that place and Fayetteville, on the steam and pole boats. He is well known in them both, and I have no doubt, he lurking in them, and their vicinity occasionally, again. I will give the above reward to any person who will apprehend him and deliver him to me, or secure him in any jail so that I can get him again.
