It is no common enterprize, it necessary only in this prospectus to say that they and requires no common energy and zeal to and to state, succincily, their contents, the form in prosecute it. It stands alone in this hemis- which they will be printed, and the prices for phere—the first, the only work of the kind. It is of Southern origin; it has for its object the advancement of Southern interests! It will embody the natural and architectural beauties of the South, (for if it is supported, the field of illustration will extend beyond Georgia,) and present them to the world in a style worthy of the English press. The mechanical execution of the work is declared by the American press, una voce to be equal to the finest European productions. We are getting up the work at an immense expense, an expense of which the reader can have little idea. We shall complete the present and at an expenditure of little less then ten Thou-I sand Dollars!

The proportion which each patron has to bear in this vast amount, is one-two-thou-Southern men, who love their country, and who wish her literary character and taste im. this great enterprise? We tell you, professed friends of Southern literature, that every dollar you pay for the support of Northern period-icals while you withheld your aid from this Each of these works is complete in itself; but icals, while you withhold your aid from this rests the blame of the present meagre condition of Southern literature. PROSPECTUS

For the Congressional Globe and Appendix. These works have now been published by us for ten consecutive sessions of Congress, commencing with the session of 1832-3. They have had such will be continued at the next session of Congress

The Congressional Globe is made up of the daily proceedings of the two ! louses of Congress. The speeches of the members are abridged, or condensed, to bring them into a reasonable, or redeemable length. All the resolutions offered, or motions made, are given at length, in the mover's own words; and the yeas and nays on all the important questions. It is printed with small type-brevier and nonpareil-on a double royal sheet, in quarto form, each number containing 16 royal quarto pa-ges. It is printed as fast as the business done in Congress furnishes matter enough for a number usually one number, but sometimes two numbers, a week. We have invariably printed more numbers than there were weeks in a session. The approach ing session of Congress, it is expected, will conprobably the only volume of Georgia Scenery and 49 numbers, which, together, will make between 500 and 600 royal quarto pages.
The Appendix is made up of the President's annual message, the reports of the principal officers of the Government that accompany it, and all the long speeches of members of Congress, written out sandth part, or five dollars! Is there among or revised by themselves. It is printed in the same form as the Congressional Globe, and usually makes about the same number of pages. Hereto-fore, on account of the set speeches being so numerproved, one to be found, who will not make ous and so long, we have not completed the Appendix until one or two months after the close of the session; but, in future, we intend to print the speeches as fast as they shall be prepared, and of course shall complete the work within a few days af-is necessary for every subscriber who desires a full knowledge of the proceedings of Congress, to have both; because, then, if there should be any ambiguity in the synopsis of the speech, or any denial of its correctness, as published in the Congressional Globe, the reader may turn to the Appendix to see the speech at length, corrected by the member four years. It cost about five times as much for a session as the Congressional Globe and Appendix, and did not contain an equal amount of matter, a great portion of the current proceedings being omitted. We are enabled to print the Congressional Globe and Appendix at the low rate now proposed. by having a large quantity of type, and keeping the Congressional matter that we set up for the daily must do honor to its source, and especially and semi-weekly Globes, standing for the Condo we look to up the matter purposely for these works, we could not afford to print them for double the price now charged.

Complete indexes to both the Congressional Globe and the Appendix are printed at the close of each session, and sent to all subscribers for them. We have on hand 3,000 or 4,000 surplus copies of the Congressional Globe and Appendix for the extra session, which make theether near 1,000 royal quarto pages. They give the fullest history of Congress that has ever been published. We now sell them for $1 cach; that is, $1 for the Congressional Globe, and $1 for the Appendix. We propose to let subscribers for the Congressional Globe Now is the time for those who "mean to and Appendix for the next session, have them for 50 cents each. They will be necessary to understand fully the proceedings of the next session The important matters discussed at the last, will be brought up at the next session, in consequence of the universal dissatisfaction evinced in the late elections with the vast and novel system of pelic which the new powers have introduced, and which was forced through Congress without consulting public opinion, or even allowing the full discussion usual in regard to subjects of ordinary interest. The reports of the Congressional Globe and Appendix are not in the least degree affected by the party bias of the Editor. They are given precisely as written out by the Reporters and the members vision and correction of the speakers, as they pass in review in our daily sheet, in case any misunderstanding or misrepresentation of their remarks should occur.

We make a daily analysis of the doings in Oongress, and give our opinions in it freely, but this is publis sed only in the Daily, Semi-weekly, and Weekly Globes. The daily Globe is $10, the Semi-weely Globe $5, and the Weekly Globe $2 per annum, in advance. The Weekly Globe is printed in the same form as the Congressional Globe and Appendix, and a complete index made to it at the end of each year.
TERMS:

For the Congressional Globe and Appendix for the last Extra Session, $1. For the Congressional Globe for the next session,

For the Appendix for the next session, $1 per Six cories of either of the above works will be sent for $5; twelve copies for $10, and so on in proportion for a greater number. Payments may be transmitted by mail, postage paid, our risk. By a rule of the Post Office Department, postmasters are permitted to frank letters containing money for subscriptions.

The notes of any bank, current where a subscriber resid s, will be received by us at pre. To insure all the numbers, the subscriptions should be in Washington by the 15th December next, at farthest, though it is probable that we shall print enough surplus copies to fill every subscription that may be paid before the 1st day of January No attention will be paid to any order unless the money accompanies it. The Democratic papers with which we exchange

What we have already considered makes but a small portion of the wonders which are unfolded to us by the microsec. This instrument has introduced to not a new world of vegetables and animals, and demonstrated that there are equal order and harmony in the mite's construction, as in that of the whale or elephant. The only difference is, our weakness of sight prevent our penetrating into the nature and organization of small bodies, which often escape our eyes, and can be perceived only by the assistance of glasses, which teach us that the small st objects wholly unknown to our fore-fathers, have extension, parts, and a well-organized form. The mention of some examples will lead us to ac-From Shaw's Nature Displayed: tion of some examples will lead us to ac-knowledge the power, wisdom, and grodness of that Deity who affords unto all existence and happiness.

Grains of sand appear of the same form to the naked eye, but seen through a microscope exhibit different shapes and sizes, global square, conical, and mostly irregular: and, what is more surprising, in their cavities bave been found by the microscope, insects of various kinds. In decayed cheese are multitudes of little worms called mites, which, to the naked eye, appear like shapeless and confused moving particles, but the microscope proves them of a very singular and cinious figure. They have eyes, mouth, feet, and a transparent body, furnished with long bair in the form of prickles. The mouldy substance on damp bodies, exhibits a region of minute plants. Sometimes it appears a forrest of trees, whose branches, leaves, flowers, and fruits, are clearly distinguished. Some of the flowers have long, white, transparent stalks, and the buds, before they open, are little green balls which become white. The particles of dust on the wings of the butterfly, prove, by the microscope, to be beautiful and well arranged little feathers. In down of every variegated dye;

Shines, fluttering soft, the gaudy botterfly.
That powder which thy epolling hands distains,
The form of quills and printed plumes contains. Not courts do more magnificence express,

In all their blaze of gems and pomp of dress .- Brown. By the same instrument the surface of our skin has scales resembling those of a fish; but so minute, that a single grain would cover 250, and a single scale covers 500 pores, whence issues the insensible perspiration necessary to health; consequently, a single grain of sand can cover 125,000 pores of the uman body.

The microscope displays, in each object, a thousand others which escaped recognition. in each of which others remain unseen, which even the microscope can never bring to view. What wouders should we see, could we continually improve those glasses invented to assist our sight! Imagination may, in some measure, supply the defect of our eyes, & serve as a mental microscope, to represent, in each atom, thousands of new and invisible worlds.

In contemplating the works of God, the effects of his wisdom and goodness are as those laws which connect the sun and his circumrevolving planets. The microscope discovers, in miniature, new worlds, which ought to excite man's wonder, and urge him to religious reverence. Persons deprived of opportunity to examine the curious objects displayed by the microscope, will be glad to themselves. And the whole are subject to the :e- knew what has been seen by others, and what themselves may contemplate with delight.

The messes and grass with which the earth is covered, as with a carpet, are composed of many threads and small particles, into which they are divisible. The particles of water are so small, that millions of animalcules may be suspended on the point of a needle; how many then, must there be in the rivers and seas! From a lighted candle there issues. in one minute, more particles of light than there are grains of sand in the whole earth; how vast, then, the number that flow in a day or a year, or a century, from that immense body, the sun! How indefinitely small must those particles of odoriferous bedies bewhich affect large spaces for days and even weeks, without any sensible loss of weight!

Let us pass to the animated creation. In a summer's evening the air swarms with living creatures. Each drop of stagnant water contains a little world of animated beings. Each leaf of a tree is a colony of insects; every plant, every flower, affords food for millions of creatures. Who but must have seen the innumerable swarms of flies, gnats, and other insects collected in the compass of a few yards! What prodigious shouls must be over the whole earth-in the immense expanse of the atmosphere! How many millions of smaller insects and worms crawl on the ground, or live beneath its surface!

Did not experiments and observations by the microscope prove the fact, it would be incredible that there are animals a million times smaller than a grain of sand; yet endowed with organs of nutrition, motion, &c. There are shell-fish so small, that even through Wheat will be received and a microscope, they appear scarcely larger than ground with despatch. For terms a grain of wheat, and these are living animals, enclosed in hard houses. How incom-GEO. McNEILL. ceivably fine are the spider's threads! on thousands would scarcely be as thick as common sewing silk. How small is the mite! and yet this almost imperceptible atom, soen through a microscope, is a hairy animal, perfect in its limbs, active in its metions, of a regular form, full of life and sensibility, and provided with all requisite organs. Though scarcely visible to us, it is made up of parts infinitely smaller than the whole. How miunte, then, must be the particles of those fluids which circulate through the veins of such ani-
