Loss of lives in Wells--Carbonic Acid.

We have an account in the Greensburg (Inda.) Sentinel, of a death which occurred a short time since in Shelby county, by the inhalation of carbonic acid gas. The sudden deaths of Messrs. Walters and Kendall, from the same cause, in the well of Mr William Walters, of Fugit township in that county, some years ago, will be recollected by many of our readers. Such melancholy accidents afford a warning of the danger in entering a It is a fact well known, that a single inflation of the lungs from this gas will produce instantaneous death; and that the process of burning candle is lowered into a well, if the flame is suddenly extinguished without any perceptible cause, it almost infallibly denotes the presence of the deadly gas.

Chemists have generally considered the oxigen and nitrogen, as 'the essential ingredients of the atmosphere. Several others are, however, always found in it, and if they are not concerned in its more important operations, they fill many minor offices in conupon the earth.

Such is carbonic acid, or fixed air. This gas, which is nearly twice as heavy as common air, is found to exist, at all times, in at considerable trouble, by the officers signed, every region of the atmosphere, from the who deserve much credit for the interest they lowest ravine or cave, to the top of the highest feel in the matter. mountain. Except in caves, wells, and some other places, where carbonic acid settles from its great weight, it is never found in the atmosphere except in small quantities, some will sell to officers at 10 cents a copy. say a hundredth part, some a thousandth, but probably variable, existing in larger quanti- OFFICERS' ies at some times, and in some places, than others.

PARTISAN MALICE AND MEANNESS .- It seems strange that men who have received an education, even though sufficient only to euable them to write their own language grammatically, should be so lost to self respect as to fall into the habit of using that of combined malice and meanness, and ribaldry. One would naturally suppose, for instance, if ignorant of existing and current facts, that the editor of even a partisan newspaper would manifest some trifle of respect for himself, even though he should entertain none for those to whose opposition he stands pledged as per agreement with his party generally, or from tie. his special and particular clique. Were the supposition correct, we would see such editors rising high above every thing held dishonorable in principle and disgraceful in practice. But, unfortunately for the character of the country, which suffers both abroad and at home that worsted bullion will be substituted-silver in consequence of it, by far the largest por- Plume-white upright hackle, twelve inches long tion of the party press has fallen into the hands Aiguilett on left shoulder, of white worsted with of men who, however worthy or amiable they may be considered as members of society in These works have such a wide circulation, and $120 00 120 00 have been so universally approved and sought after 60 00 by the public, that we deem it necessary only in 30 00 this prospectus to say that they will, be continued at the next session of Congress, and to state, succintly, their contents, the form in which they will be printed, and the prices for them. The Congressional Globe is made up of the daily proceedings of the two Houses of Congress. The speeches of the members are abridged, or condensed, to bring them into a reasonable or readable length. All the resolutions offered, or motions made, are given at length, in the mover's own words; and the yeas and nays on all the important $30,000 questions. It is printed with small type-brevier 10,000 and nonpareil-on a double-royal sheet, in quarto form, each number containing 16 royal quarter 5,000 pages. It is printed as fast as the business done in 3,000 Congress furnishes matter enough for a number.
