

From the New Mirror.

THREE STAGES OF WOMAN'S LOVE. There is love in early life Which shuns parade and worldly strife, And seeks, contemning the princely dome, In humble cot, a happy home. More g regous than the pomp of kings, The coral and the pearl it brings, And all the glory of the skies, In living diamonds - bearing eyes. The rose's bloom it yields to view, And lends its fragrance with its bue ; The gladdening smile, the balmy kiss, With looks of fondness, thoughts of bliss, Feelings that scarce know worldly leaven, And dreams of eestacy and heaven. Lite's dull anxieties above : Such, such is woman's early love!

There is a love of elder growth, Less dazzling than the love of youth, Where gentle looks and anxious care Aspire, the husband's toil to share; Which seeks its solace and employ, Providing for her children joy; Which no happiness complete Till they are healthy, clean, and near , Which strives to spare the humble store, And make that little something more : Love, which the frugal table spread, A blessing breathes on daily bread; Which, scorning finery and pride, Exults in comforts self-denied; And teaches man 'tis vain to roam For pleasure to compare with home; This calms, as that the heart could move And this is woman's noon-day love.

There is a love in later stage, When pain and sickness grow on age, When he, so active once, and gay, Perceives approach his closing day; When failing strength and tottering limb And sunken cheek, and eye grows dim, And faltering voice and visage wan, Have to a spectre changed the man; Then, love, by the fond wite possessed, Too vast, too grand, to be expressed, Delights assiduously to ply, And soothes with tender sympathy; Consoles the mourner for the past, And fondly soothes him to the last. This love, in hours the most forlorn, Surpasses that of youth's bright morn : Different from that which marked life's prime, Though not so brilliant, more sublime : This love, from heaven derived its birth, Confesses no alloy of earth: It lifts the sufferer from his wo. Above the care of things below, And points to brighter scenes above And this is woman's final love.

Miscellaneous.

THE PARTNERS.

A STORY OF NEW ENGLAND VILLAGE LIFE.

By H. Hastings Weld. "New Store. Smith & Brown respectfully inform the public of Cedarville and vicinity, and their friends generally, that they have taken the store on Main Street, a few doors from the Meeting House, where they have on hand and for sale, every description of goods, at prices as low as at any other place, in city or country."

The above, with the customary abundant sprinkling of italics, capitals, and full faced type, was the only new advertisement in the columns of the Cedarville Universal Advertiser, on the morning of the 5th of May, 18-. 'Who is Smith & Brown ?' inquired the old ladies of the village, as their eyes wandered from the record of the deaths to the advertisement below: and 'who is Smith & Brown?' echoed the young ladies, who, after studying the Hymeneal Register, glanced also at the advertisement. Methinks the reader is inquiring too-who are the Smith & Brown introduced to you so abruptly? Patience, gentleman sir-if sir you be,-if madam, i is no use to preach patience-patience, and in proper time you will become acquainted with The Partners.

Smith and Brown had decided to connect themselves in business, and astonish the natives of some country town, with a store a touch above any thing of the kind out of the metropolis. Cedarville happened to be the place pitched upon, and so rapidly was their migration effected, and the business of opening performed, that, until they were ready for customers, not more than half of the women within ten miles of their store knew that such a thing was in contemplation. The Cedarville Universal Advertiser had the merit, for once, of containing something of which the universe was not previously apprized; and the gossips of Cedarville were nearly distracted -such a march had been stolen upon them! They fell in readily with the opinion of old Pimento, at the old stand, that, at the new store 'sprang up like a mushroon, in a night' it would disappear too, between two days. Commence business without making six months preparatory talk! the thing was preposterous and unprecedented. But they succeeded, nevertheless. The young women had become tired of purchasing shop worn commodities, and especially when sold by a cristy old Benedict, and the temptations of new goods and the new faces of two young bachelors were irresistible. All the influence of the editor of the Universal Advertiser was on the side of the new store, for the 'trader' at the old one could not be pursuaded that in a town where there was but one store, there was any need of advertising. Even now, that there was two, he would not be provoked into a paper war with the new corners, whose advertisements added some ten dollars to the annual income of the Advertiser-no inconsiderable item, by the way, in the receipts of the village editor. For this sum they were allowed a square, which, in the country, means a page of the paper. Awful was the schism created in Cedarville press, and the Advertiser had had the impudence to publish Smith and Brown's advertisements, to his manifest injury. Such is the general idea of newspaper independence father's gold will not support us." -subscribers wish to see an editor untrammeled, and therefore relieve him of their names, upon less grievous causes than that which induced Pimento to discontinue the Cedarville Universal Advertiser. The old ladies sided with Mr Pimento, the young ones belonged to the other faction, and the men stood neutral, or moved as driven by wife, daughter, or wife intended. Such was the posture of things in the town of Cedarville, daughters.' the parties alternately going up and down, as his paper, because he liked an independent began to come upon the carpet more directly me to night, and said something about the interesting to Smith & Brown, and therefore Great Unknown. I did nt make any answer, you tell me how Smith & Wife sell London to the readers of our veritable history. The and then she said that Waverly alone is and French prints.' Smith & Wife's store star of the young firm had been some days on enough to set him up. What did she mean, had become the cant term. the ascendant. After a good day's work, David? Is there to be another store in the both partners waited in the store, as if each village? I'm sure I'm sorry if there is. I had something to tell the other, with which told her I did not know Mr Waverly,' had come to the conclusion that when it was partnerships in business were not the asso- creditable appearance. ciates deemed necessary. Though Satan is ever fond of rebuking sin, yet neither party could condemn the other for the intended choice of an accomplice.

'Humph!' said Smith, to himself; Brown is determined, then, to throw himself away on that lowbred dowdy. She is as poor as she is avaricious.'

'Well,' said Brown, with a shrug, 'Mr Smith may yoke himself for life to purse pride and expectations, if chooses. It is no business of mine.' And so they parted for the her; and through her popularity, added to once ignorant. Both were placed, by mar-

Married. In B, by the Rev. Mr Thumpeushion, Mr John Smith, of Cedarville returned. of the firm of Smith and Brown, to Miss Ann Matilda, only daughter of the Hon. Crossus Ingot, of B-

In E-, Mr David Brown, of Cedarville, of the firm of Smith and Brown, to Miss

Another feather floated in the cap of the editor of the Cedarville Universal Advertiser, -for the above interesting item of intelli- check for several thousands. gence beamed first upon Cedarville through conducted. In dilating upon the square inch | accept this." of cake with the request for insertion, Mr Editor ground out the only original article which had appeared in his columns, since, six weeks before, Mr Allen's boy supplied a 'narrow escape,' by cutting his finger with a case-knife.

one of the firm to herself, began to have a her from that day. manifest leaning to the Pimento party; and | 'These people pay a great deal of attention the married and engaged young ladies, who to your partner's wife, Mr Smith." stuck to the firm in hopes of being invited to their parties, were in the minority. Things if you would accept it. organ to look squally, when, as is often the ter than the slow heels of the carrier boy cir- poultry,-I cannot, Mr Smith." culated the Cedarville Universal Advertiser about the village, the intelligence flew orally, that Smith & Brown were 'giving a treat.' store party, as every man in a New England village, in 18-, would drink, where liquor ran without money, and without price; and every boy would be on hand to eat the sugar from the bottom of the tumblers, suck the tody-sticks and long to be men-that being as near drinking as boys were permitted to go-their elders sagely backing their own examples, by warning boys not to drink spirits. They manage these things better now-a-days. The editor gained much credit by an impromptu toast, concocted during all the night before, in which he hoped the house of Smith & Brown would fare none the worse for having taken sleeping partners.' Pimento, who found his way in to the store for the first time, went home growling that they strong man kicks a weaker out of doors; and their spirit more.' Upon reaching his own store, he put another gallon of alcohol into each of his bar casks of water and alcohol, some of the dust off his shelves. 'Will they give a party I wonder?' the Cedarville Universal Advertiser could not forestall the women, who are the exclusive had pretty well ballasted, and bade adieu to eru and Northern hemisphere. On the Northvenders of this sort of news; and the women soon got hold of circumstantial evidence, that | red at their departure, except that the editor of tion. Mrs Smith had sent to one neighbor for eight quarts of milk, and her helps' had borrowed another's hearts and rounds. 'Shall muliciously answered, that he would pay him the worthy folks were kept but little while in Editor, as a guardian of public morals, was suspense. The shop boy of Smith & Brown not profanely inclined, but upon this occasion left printed 'invites' at every house in the be could not refrain from giving his opinion village, not excepting those of the Pimentoi- that Mr Brown "was a d-d uncivil feltes, and that of old Pimento himself. Business like, these invitations were issued in body in the village regretted their departure the name of the firm.

ered, the last of the guests, as if determined tially weaken the new faction. to do his full share in eating out the substance Mr and Mrs Smith sat alone.

"Policy, Matilda. I wish to become popular with the Cedarville people."

"Well I don't like to be bored to death.

"Mrs Smith. I hope you have not so far forgotten my interest as to stand in the way of my business. The distant jingle of your that rolled to his door rolled away the patron- a cotton picking. They were both widow-

"David," said Mrs Brown to her husband, as they walked home, "I am afraid I have you I was unused to society."

Why Mary, I thought you succeeded to admiration with the villagers-mothers and

"Oh yes, and I have many pressing invitaold Pimento sold the best molasses, or the tions to visit them. But I am dreadfully ties by signing the assignment.' 'Hallon

it would not answer to trust any walls but their | Brown gently explained her mistake to her. It was a bitter evening, in conclusion, for Each made awkward work of his com- both partners—one had to drive away his nunication; but we shall omit the stammer- wife's hysterics with volatile salts and promiing preface, and state only the substance of ses of indulgence—the other to console an both their confessions, which was that each intelligent, though uncultivated mind, for the lack of that information which one evening said it was not good for man to be alone, bad convinced her was all essential to her

On the morrow, Mrs Ann Matilda Smith sessed of a handsome property. Smith, also, went back to the house of her father, to 1e-taught wisdom by his reverses, had retrieved On the morrow, Mrs Ann Matilda Smith cover, as she said, from the effects of an excrime of matrimony, in the abstract; but each cesssive infliction of rusticity. She was not from the library together. thought his disapprobation of the other in the missed, except by her husband, for to tell the truth, she did not win many hearts at "the tered into copartnership. Matilda, do you party." Weeks passed, and the simple Mary think you can now invite that hateful Mrs Brown grew daily in the good graces of the Brown to our house?" dwellers in Cedarville. The parson's wife thought it a pity she had been neglected, but of Mrs Smith ?' deemed her an intelligent lady-like young woman, nevertheless. Some others might had taken place. Mrs Smith was not naturhave made the same remark-but all loved ally vain, nor Mrs Brown ever dowdy, though pre-existing circumstances, the tide set sadly riage, in situations for which they were unfit, against the store of Mr Pimento. At the and each had learned to adapt herself to her

> "My dear, I have brought you a present." tilda, before I open the package, lest you should accuse me of selfishness, in thanking you afterwards." The direction was in the above the danger of appearing to ridiculous compting house hand of Mr Ingot. Smith disadvantage. Of the two, Mrs Smith had, broke the seal, and found instruments possessing him of a large landed property, and a One partner married above, and the other be-

"Matilda, after the unthinking and cruel

'Mr Smith !- Mr Smith !'

There was something hysterical in her tone,-and Smith hastily interrupted, "allow me at least to secure this to you, I-'No! no! take it as I offer it, or-'

Poor Smith! He plied his wife alternately The effect of the announcement upon the with volatile and sugared words;—the latter than ever. inhabitants of Cedarville, was the breaking of the two remedies had brought her too, beup, in a great measure, of the party divisions. cause they imported an acceptance of her The old ladies were indiguant that this news father's present. It is said of his Satanie had burst upon the community, without their Majesty and the wight who accepts his fahaving had so much as a nibble of it in ad- vors, that the latter becomes bound to him. vance of the general promulgation : the un- I do not intend to compare Mrs Smith to the engaged young ladies, each of whom had, devil-but her present was the purchase mosecretly, and in her own mind, appropriated ney of the inexpressibles. Smith was sold to

They would pay you the same, my dear,

"But I shall not. Who can endure to case in emergencies, a something was found drink yopon tea out of carthern cups-and them carry them to the mint of reason to have to stem the current, and save the falling for- and hear disquisitions on sage-cheeses, stocktunes of the house of Smith & Brown. Fas- ing yarn, the price of eggs, and the taising 'Mrs Brown does.'

'Mrs Brown! It is her element-the hateful, ignorant creature. I desire that you will like gold medals in morecco boxes, but com-This at once formed a new accession to the not ask her or her husband to the house again. mence, like silver, to circulate among the 'He is my partner, my dear.'

I don't see why you need such a partner. You don't want his capital certainly.'

nothing, but receives a share of the profits behind entrenchments—girls are most interfor his services.'

Indeed! Well I am sure you can hire good clerk cheaper, and not be obliged to hear them, they take their flight nearer the court Brown or his ignorant wife. I wish earth, like swallows in rainy weather. In you would dissolve, Mr Smith. I do not like that age they are the most amiable, and have upon.' Poor Smith! Dissolution. The connection heretofore existing under the firm of Smith & Brown, and silver are gone, and they resort to the va is this day, by mutual consent, dissolved. . Mutual-yes, that is the word, when would spoil the trade, if they did not reduce the above is a literal transcript from the Cedarville Universal Advertiser.

One of the sleeping partners had upset the house, thus making our editorial friend's swept a peck of flies from his windows, and toast mal a propos as were his editorials. Mr Brown and his poor ignorant wife made their round of calls - stepped into the stage with light hearts, and a purse which honest gains Cedarville. Nothing worthy of note occur-I get an invite!' was the next question-but the price of it if he would keep it away. Mr low, and as illiterate as his wife." Every except Mrs Smith, Mr Editor and Old Pimetr-

to. The latter had reason to be pleased, fo-It was over. Old Pinento, who had ling- Brown's withdrawal would, he knew, essent

The tide turned into its old channel, and of the young men, had at last taken his hat. Pimento soon saw all the old faces back to his counter-except, perhaps, a few who trim-"My dear," said the lady, "I do not see med their caps and bonnets like Mrs Smith, why you would invite all that canaille to our and esteemed it an honor to get a nod from her. In proportion as business lessened, she, thinking the portion she brought inexhaustible, increased her expenses. She figur-I ed in the streets of Cedarville, in dresses hope you have not so soon forgotten my feel- which would have attracted notice for their ings and my standing in society. My father expensive quality, in Washington street or by the new store! Old Mr Pimento stopped | Mr Ingot, was never so anxious to please the | Broadway. Crowds of family connections, connections of the Ingots settled on Smith's rusticate, devouring his substance like a of his judicial authority was upon the occasion a swarm of locusts. And every city carriage of a fight between him and old Jack Crow, at age of some villager, who preferred purchas- ers, and rival suitors for the affections of the Mrs Ann Matilda Smith sobbed hysteri- ing sugar of old Pimento, to being hurriedly served by the now exclusive and genteel Mr

As Pimento was spelling out the Cedarville Advertiser-for since the editor had returned done you no credit to night - I always told to his allegiance, he had again subscribed he chuckled over the following notice: 'All persons indebted to John Smith, are notified that his books and accounts are assigned to Crossus Ingot, to whom immediate payment must be made. Creditors may become parother house the best bargains, when affairs afraid of Mrs Smith. She came and sat by neighbor, he shouted to a passer-by, who had been one of the new store party, 'why can't

Years had passed. Two persons accidentally met on 'change. There was a look of uncertain recognition.

Brown ? Smith?

A hearty shake of the hand. 'How is your lady, Brown?'

Well. She is now acquainted with Mr

'And mine has forgotten her hysterics.' The four met at the city residence of Mr Brown, who had, by industry, become poshis pecuniary affairs. The husbands came

'Ladies,' said South, 'we have again en-

'Mary,' said Brown, 'are you now afraid

It is unnecessary to say that explanations end of a few weeks, Mrs Ann Matilda Smith situation. Mrs Smith learned the thrift and pleasant manners of Mary Brown-and if the latter did not acquire all the shining accom-"Thank you for returning yourself, Ma- plishments of Mrs Smith, she became at least deeply read enough to make her an agreeable companion for her husband, and to place her in her education, cost her husband the most. low, his station in life.

In the last connexion in business, the its columns, so silently had every thing been taunt I gave you a few weeks since, I cannot sleeping partners have proved such valuable auxiliaries, that their husbands' paper is quite as good as that of any Ingot on 'change. Old Pimento buys his goods of the importing house of Smith & Brown, who advertises to country traders in the columns of the Cedarville Universal Advertiser; and the editor of that respectable paper carries his head higher

THE FOUR AGES OF MAIDS.

A German writer, M. G. Saphir, says, maids have four ages, viz: the golden from 16 to 21, the siver from 21 to 28, the plated from 2S to 35, and the iron age from 35 to the end. In the golden age every thing is golden-golden locks, golden dreams, golden hopes, golden thoughts, &c. The voice sounds like virgin gold, the heart is pure gold, and the affections are pure gold. The fact is they have five bars of splendid gold, No. 16, 17, 18, 19, and 20; but alas! but few of them coined.

When a girl is once three times seven years, the glittering gold is gone. Her early youth, the deje uner a ta fourchette of nature, is past; girls of that age, are no longer kept people. The seven years from 21 to 28, are employed in an incessant war upon the brutes, who but too frequently imitate the example 'His capital is experience. He owns of Frederick the Great, and await the assault esting at that age. Instead of imitating the larks, in soaring so high that but few may the idea of finding Mr Brown capital to trade the best opinions of men; of course they are on that account more easily caged.

The plated age is from 28 to 35. Gold rious processes of gilding, silvering, and plating. They are less piquant and more piqued. They look upon men with a considerable mixture of contempt and hatred. They become again reserved and prude. If they have affections, they are at least plated; they may endure, it of good workmanship; but they have not the value of either gold or silver.

The iron age is the universal death of sentiment. The thirty-fifth year is the equator of human life, which divides it into the Southern there is no paradise for girls. They now write their farewell letters to all hopes and at Smith's house something was in prepara- the Cedarville Advertiser stopped the stage wishes. They conform to iron necessity, before his door, to ask Brown if he might send and resign themselves to the iron tooth of him the paper-to which he, the said Brown, time, awaiting the day when gold, silver, and iron, will have no sound, and nought but the soul-ever young and fresh-shall arise from its iron casement.

> SHORT SENTENCES FROM GOOD THINKERS. To acquire a few tongues is the task of a few years, but to be eloquent in one is the labor of a life.

> To produce an effect it is enough to unite two ideas, which are astonished at being together; the paradox itself will owe its success to its novelty and boldness.

> Reasons are the pillars of the fabric of a give the best lights. Death is the liberator of him whom freedom cannot release, the physician of him whom medicine cannot cure, and the comforter of him whom time cannot console.

admire, and wise men use them.

A WESTERN JUSTICE.

The most efficient use the old squire made plump and saucy widow Jenkins. After picking of cotton was over, there was a fiddle and a tin pan introduced, a tune struck up, and also a dance. The old squire was on the floor with the widow for partner, and old Jack was in the circle that surrounded the dancers, looking on like a poor man at a froiic. The old squire in passing, purposely put his beel on Jack's toe. This he repeated several times, until old Jack insisted upon a fight, as a matter of redress. The old squire told him "agreed," and at it they went, but the old squire being the most active of the two, got the start of Jack, and beat him a good deal before the old fellow could get under "headway," but when old Jack did get himself in motion, he was about to prove too hard for the old squire, when suddenly he pushed old Jack away from him, and roared out in a commanding tone, "I command the peace." Instantly old Jack stopped as if spell-bound. "If you say a word," said the old squire, "I will fine you ten dollars." They stood and gazed at each other for some time, like two tired chickens, until the old squire said, "at it agin," and at it they went, the squire again getting the start, and beating old Jack almost into a mummy before he could get under way, and no sooner had Jack obtained the advantage, than the old squire roared out again, "I command the peace," and instantly the fight ceased. It is almost useless to add, that the old squire took the widow's eye, and afterwards married her. Poor old Jack, he did not know what was once said by a member of the Missouri Legislature, "that even the Governor was no more in a fight than any other man."

Historical Extracts.

AFRICA is a country, the history and geography of which may be studied with great advantage. To the intelligent traveller it is replete with wonders. He lingers among the gigantic remains of ancient art and spleudor, which abound in Egypt, with a feeling of veneration; recalling, as he dwells upon the spot, the busy scenes of the past, the actors of which lie beneath the dust of centuries. their perishable remains contrasting with the vast monumen's of their enterprise and wealth, which, not the less surely, because at a later period, will be crumbled into atoms by the stern hand of time. Then, too, the presence of these antique relics recalls ideas of the troubled times of Israel, when the yoke of the Egyptian Pharach pressed heavily upon her children, till they were rescued from the land of bondage by the power of the Omnipotent, who rolled back the strong tides of the sea, to let them pass. The contemplation of these early scenes awakens in the well-trained mind a thought of Him, of whom we know that whatever be the chance or change of time. though kingdoms may pass away, and cities crumbled into dust, "His word endureth for-

The peninsula of Africa forms a vast triangle, containing 11,500,000 square miles. It is bounded on the north by the Mediterranean; on the east by Asia, the Red Sea, and the Indian Ocean; and on the south and west by the Southern and Atlantic Oceans. It contains vast ranges of mountains, immense descris, and regions inhabited by great numbers of animals. How little was known of this vast country by the ancients, and how wide a field it affords for the investigation of modern men of science!

AGAMEMNON, leader of the Greeks in the Trojan war, was king of Mycene and Argos, son of Philisthenes, and brother of Meuclaus, the seduction of whose wife lighted the flames of war. Returning, after the destruction of the city, he was murdered by his wife, Clytemnestra, either from jealousy, or on account of her love for another.

St Agnes, was put to death during the reign of Dioclesian, emperor of Rome. The Catholics celebrate her festival on the 21st of January. At Rome they bring cattle to the Church of St Agues to be blessed, by the priest, a ceremony which is thought to preserve them from sickness till next year.

Agricultural.

CHARCOAL A FERTILIZER.

We have been astonished at the enormous ncrease of the wheat crop in France within he last eight or ten years, and have devoted some attention to the investigation of the subject. It appears that charcoal-an article that can be obtained here for a tithe of its cost in France-has been extensively used, and with marked effect, in fertilizing the wheat lands of that kingdom. A correspondent of the New Farmers' Journal (an English print) with a certainty quite astenishing. It is the same as states that, during a sojourn in one of the central departments of France, he learned that some of the most productive farms were originally very sterile; but that, for a number of years, their proprietors had given them a light dressing of charcoal, which had resulted in a large yield of wheat of an excellent quality. Since his return to England, he has tried the experiment upon his own lands, with the same happy effect. The charcoal should be well pulverized and sown like lime, after a rain, or in a still, damp day. Even in England, the writer says, "the expense is a mere trifle, in comparison with the permanent improvement effected, which on grass is truly wonderful." He states one sermon, but similitudes are the windows that other very important result from its liberal use: "I am quite satisfied that, by using charcoal in the way described, rust in wheat will be entirely prevented; for I have found, in two adjoining fields-one of which was coaled, and the other manured with farm-yard dung Crafty men condemn studies, simple men that growing in the other was perfectly free domire, and wise men use them. -the latter was greatly injured by rust, while

TO FAMILIES & INVALIDS

The following indispensable family frame dies may be found at the village drug stores. and soon at every country store in the state. Remember and never get them unless the have the fac-simile signature of Comstakts on the wrappers, as all orests by the same names are base impositions and commen feits. If the merchant nearest you has the urge him to procure them next time he visits New York, or to write for the No family should be a week without these remedies

BALDNESS

BALM OF COLUMBIA. FOR THE HAIR which will stop it if falling out, or restore it or places; and on children make it grow rapidly ar those who have lost the hair from any cause

ALL VERMIN that infest the heads of ch in schools, are prevented or killed by it at Find the name of Comstoc lists

RHEUMATISM, and LAMENESS

it, or never try it. Remember this always, positively cured, and all skrivelled muscles and are restored, in the old or young, by the Isale VEGETABLE ELIXIR AND NERVE AND BONE LINEALINE but never without the name of Comstock & Co. or

PILES are wholly prevented, or governed if the attack has come on, if you use the only true HAYS' LINIMENT, from Comstock & Co. ALLSORES and every thing relieved by it that admirs of an our ward application. It acts like a charm. Use it. HORSES that have Ring-Bone, Spavin, Wind-Galls, &c., are cured by Roors' Specific; and Foundered horses entirely cured by Roofs'

Founder Ointment. Mark this, all horsemen. Dalley's Magical Pain Extractor Salve.-The most extraording remedy ever invented for all new or old and sores, and sore EYES It has delighted thousands. It will take out all pain in ten minuteand no failure. It will cure the RIES LIN'S SPREAD PLASTERS A better and more nice and useful article never was made. All should wear them regularly.

LIN'S TEMPERANCE BITTERS: on the principle of substituting the tonic in place of he stimulant principle, which has reformed so many drunkards. To be used with

LIN'S BLOOD PILLS, superior to all others for cleansing the system and the humors affect ing the blood, and for all irregularities of the bowels and the general health. Gether @ eSin [See Dr. Lin's signature, thus:]

HEADACHE

DR. SPOHN'S HEADACHE REMEDY MERVES or bilious. Hundreds of families are using it with great joy.

DR. SPOHN'S ELIXIR OF HEALTH. for the certain prevention of FEVERS or any general sickness; keeping the stomach in most perfect order, the bowels regular, and a determination to the surface. GOLDS COUCHS pains in the bones, hoarseness, and DROPSY are quickly cured by it. Low this by trying.

CORNS .- The French Plaster is a sure cure

SARSAPARILLA, COMSTOCK'S COM POUND EXTRACT. There is no other preparation of Sarsaparilla that can exceed or equal the If you are sure to get Comstock's, you will find it superior to all others. It does not require putting DDEE. H.B. M. S. S.

CELESTIAL BALM OF CHINA. A positive cure for the piles, and all external ailings-all internal irritations brought to the surface by friction with this Balm; -so in coughs.

swelled or sore throat, tightness of the chest, this Balin applied on a flannel will relieve and cure at once.

Fresh wounds or old sores are rapidly cured by it.

Dr. Bartholemew's

EXPECTORANT taken in time, and is a delightful remedy. he ber the name, and get Comstock's.

KOLMSTOCK'S VERMIFUGE WIT

and sells with a rapidity that made by almost incredible, by Comstock 4 Co., New York.

TOOTH DROPS. KLINE'S-cure effectually.

By applying to our agents in each town and village, papers may be had free, showing the respectable names in the country for these facts, that no one can fed to believe them.

63-Be sure you call for our articles, and not be put off with any stories, that others are as good. HAVE THESE OR NONE, should be your motto-and these never can be true and gently without our names to them. All these articles to be and wholesale and retail only of us.

Comstockabo Wholesale Druggiste 21 Courtland Street, near Broadway, N 1

JAMES A. McRAE.

Durggist, Person Street, Fayetteville. ALSO, a general assortment of Drugs and Medciines, at prices to suit the times 21 by

THE above articles for sale by