lives were extended much beyond the usual sphere of human existence. There are still extant a few biographical sketches of some of the parties, shewing that most of them were mechanics, sailors, farmers, soldiers and laborers; that they were exposed to various climatic influences by field and flood; and that some of them experienced the rudo buffetings of adversity, &c .- Many of this remarkable company were repeatedly wounded in battle, exposed by shipwreck and subjected to other daugers; still they clung tenaciouskerchiets; Sewing Silk and Twist; Serges, Coat and Vest Bindings; spool, patent and ball Thread; Stocks, Collars, and Vestings; Shawls and Capes; Alive in 1766 John De La Source aved 130 years Alive in 1766, John De La Sourel, aged 130 years.

The London " Punch," famous for its satirical humor, hits off some of the learned societies in the following rich vein :

THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION AT CORK .---Monday-Professor Luddyfuddy read an ingenious paper on the probable length of the whiskers of the aborigines of ancient Jericho. Tuesday .-- The Association tried a series of experiments with the ordinary knife and fork, which was followed by some singularly interesting researches into the power of perpendicularity contained in the human body under the pressure of wine, beer, and spirits. Wednesday-The Association revisited the lupatic asylum, an invitation having been sent to the members to make themselves quite at home there.

Thursday-Mr Professor Wibblewabble, who was to have read a paper on the cylindrical action of the common isosceles triangle in connexion with the thomboid drum, did not attend the meeting. He, however, sent a substitute, who had forgotten what he had come about.

Among the papers yet to be read at the Society, one will be devoted to an, essay on the Ruius of Blarney, including a plan for its restoration. If Blarney is to be restored at Cork, the best way of effecting the object is to allow the British Association to be permanently located there.

There is also a cave in the neighborhood, so deep that no one has found the end. We trust the Association will explore the cave, and need hardly say we shall be glad to hear of the whole Association being at the bottom of it.

FIRE UNDER WATER .- Fasten a small bit of wood across the mouth of a glass, stick therein a piece of candle lighted, and with a steady hand, convey to the mouth the surface of the water; then push it carefully down. and the candle will burn under the water ; you may even bring the candle the again lighted. In the same manner, you may put a hankerchief, rolled tightly together, and it will not be wet.

The principal art in performing this trick, consists in the nicety of bringing the mouth of the glass exactly level with the surface of the water ; for if you put it in the least on one side, the water will rash in, and consequently put out the candle, or, in the oter case, wet the hadkerchief; so that, a nice eye and steady hand ase necessarily requisite for this performance.

A DILEMMA .- A son of Erin once accosled a reverend disciple of Swedenborg thus :

> WATER BEWITCHED. - Pour some water into a plate, light a bit of loosely crumpled paper, and throw it into a glass; then turn the glass upside down, with the burning paper in it, in the plate, and the water will gradnally rise from the plate into the glass, until the latter becomes half full, so that the surface of the water it contains is much higher than that of what is left in the glass.

Happiness is the health of the mind, produced by its virtuous exercises.

RECEIPE .- The lumes of brimstone are useful in removing stains of linen, &c .thus, if a red nose be held in fumes of a brimstone match, the color will soon begin to change, and at length the flower will become white. By the same process, fruit stains or iron moulds may be removed from linen or cotton clothes, if the spots be previously moistened with water.
