GAZETTER OF THE U. STATES.
A complete Descriptive and Statistical Gazetteer of the United States of America, with an abstract of the census of 1840, by Daniel Haskel, A. M., late President of the University of Vermont, and J. Calvin Smith, Geographer, author of a new map of the United States, &c.
THIS is one of the most useful works that is presented to the public. It contains valuable information of a statistical nature; but its great merit is the perfect and complete arrangement and description of all the States, Territories, Counties, Districts, Parishes, Cities, Towns, and Villages, Mountains, Rivers, Lakes, Canals, and Rail Roads. The arrangement of these is such that any town or village may be found in a moment—and when found, an idea may be formed of its location, importance, &c. For example:
"Colum, post village, capital of Mercer Co., Ohio, 126 miles, n. e. of Columbus, 507 w., situated on the north of the Grand Reservoir of the Miami Canal, which will be 10 miles long and 5 broad, when completed. It has a court house, one Presbyterian church, 3 stores, 75 dwellings, and about 500 inhabitants."
Many places are described at much greater length than the above will serve as an example. We subjoin the opinions of other presses:
"We have no other Gazetteer in this country at all comparable with this, whether for comprehensiveness or correctness. In no other work in existence can so large an amount of minute, accurate and detailed information be found, nor in any collection of works, at a price comparable with this."
From the N. Y. Courier & Enquirer, March 30, '43.
"We have no hesitation in recommending this Gazetteer as the most perfect of any yet published in the United States; indeed, we may say it is as complete a human industry and research can make."
From the N. Y. Com. Advertiser, March 31, 1843.
"It is by far the most complete Gazetteer of the Republic that has ever been published—and, we have reason to believe, nearly as perfect as is possible for such a compilation to be made."
The Agent for the above may be found at the Lafayette Hotel, where a splendid sample of McHenry's Indian Portrait Gallery may be seen; also, the Lady's Musical Library, and Goddy's Law's Book, &c., &c.

IS hereby given, that on the 12th day of December next, the Commissioners elected according to the Act of Assembly removing the Court House in the County of Montgomery, passed at its last Session, will proceed to sell to the highest bidder the lots in the Town of Troy, which has been laid off and established as the location and site of the Public Building in and for said County. Troy is situated on the main Market Road leading from Salisbury to Fayetteville, three miles west of Little River, and about twenty-two miles from Stokes Ferry, on the Yadkin. The situation of the Town is healthy, finely watered and remarkably healthy, and affords great inducement to persons wishing to settle themselves in a village likely to become prosperous and flourishing, to attend and purchase lots. One year's credit will be given for one half of the purchase money, and two years for the balance; the purchasers giving bond and approved security.
On the same day, and at the same place, will be let to the lowest bidder, the building of a two story Court House, of wood, 56 feet in length, and 42 feet in width, the plan and specification of which in detail will be made known on the day aforesaid. Bond and approved security will be required from the undertaker, conditioned for the faithful and workmanlike performance of his contract of good materials, and within the time prescribed and agreed upon.
There is an inexhaustible supply of the best long leaf lumber convenient to the Town of Troy, and may be had upon the cheapest terms. It is proposed to make the payments for the erection of the said building as speedily and punctual as may be. The terms and times of which payments will be made known on the day of sale.
Good workmen wishing to undertake a profitable job will do well to attend. The sale of the lots will be continued from day to day until all, or a sufficient number of them are sold.

The Inclined Water Wheel PATENT.
THIS valuable improvement in the application of water power, is now completed and in successful operation at the Cool Spring Mills in this Town. The invention was designed to save water in its operation, and thereby remedy the difficulty now existing on account of its scarcity. This wheel will perform the same labor with less than half the water required to drive the tub-wheel, and if applied in place of the latter, will save the miller the cost of the water. The number of Mills (now in operation by these wheels) that become scarce of water in the summer, is supposed to average 80 or 90 per cent. In these Mills can be successfully operated with even half the water now required, it is obvious that the supply of water will be abundant.
The Inclined Water Wheel in its construction can be placed at any elevation to suit the condition of the pond, thereby securing a sufficient head above the wheel, which is important to all mills where the water is at any time liable to become scarce. In this particular the Inclined Water Wheel has a decided advantage above the Overshot, which requires a sufficient fall and constancy of water, and is also expensive in its construction; Whereas, the Inclined Water Wheel can be built at much less expense—can be successfully applied to any mill or machinery that is propelled by water, and will run well in back water. This Wheel is said to rank in power with a high breast wheel, and can be geared with either cogs or bands, but the latter being considered cheaper and more durable, I have adopted them. Having obtained a Patent in December last, I have obtained from giving publicly to the invention, or offering to sell any Rights, until others, as well as myself, should become satisfied of its advantages. I am now ready to dispose of the right to use said invention by counties, districts and States—as also single rights. Millwrights, Mill owners, and the public generally are invited to call and examine the invention.
The machinery, as represented in the plate above, can be made more simple, by which one half of the expense of construction will be diminished, but the amount of water saved will be less. I shall say both modes of construction with a statement of materials for each, printed in hand-bills, which I design for those who wish further information on the subject. JOHN T. GILMORE.

THE BOMMER Manure Method.
WHICH teaches how to make vegetable manure without the aid of live stock, in from 15 to 30 days, by a course of humil fermentation set into motion at a cost from 50 cents to $1. And also to make a Compost in a few days—And how to make a rich fertilizing liquid called "Purra," having the strength without the acid qualities of urine.
With the view of graduating the cost to the quantity of land upon which it may be desired to use the method, the following scale of prices has been adopted, viz:
For Gardens of any extent, 86 00
Farms up to 100 acres, 10 00
Farms from 100 to 200 acres, 15 00
do do from 200 to 400 do, 20 00
do do from 400 to 1000 do, 25 00

D. G. MACRAE, Clerk.
Superior Court Office,
November 16th, 1843. 247-4c.

Mr Temple Stanton borrowed a sum of money of Addison, with whom he lived in habits of friendship, conversing on all subjects with equal freedom; but from this time Mr Stanton agreed implicitly to every thing Addison advanced, and never as formerly, disputed his positions. This change of behaviour did not long escape the notice of so acute an observer, to whom it was by no means agreeable. It happened one day, that a subject was started, on which they had before warmly controverted each other's notions, but now Mr Stanton entirely acquiesced in Addison's opinion, without offering one word in defence of his own. Addison was displeased, and said, with considerable emotion, "Sir, either contradict me, or pay me my money."
A poetaster brought Addison one of his compositions, and begged his opinion of it. It was a copy of very indifferent verses, and they appeared the worse, because he had prefixed to them several lines from Homer, and thus exposed them to a very disadvantageous contrast. Addison with great warmth struck on the lines from Homer; and when the surprised poetaster asked the reason: "Do you not recollect," said Addison, "the Roman Emperor, whose statues appeared to him very ridiculous when they were placed near those of the gods?"

THE FASHIONABLE DINNER HOUR.—A nobleman invited a party to dine; and the company assembled about 7 o'clock, the hour appointed, and waited for him till they all began to discover symptoms of ennui and uncertainty. At last the noble host made his appearance, coolly looked at his watch, and ordered dinner; and as coolly said, addressing himself to the half-famished circle, "I hope you don't think me late, I am just come from the Opera, where I only staid long enough to hear Catalani sing her first song; I had a great mind to encure the charming creature; but it is disagreeable to make one's company wait, so I denied myself that pleasure on your account?"

An Englishman asked an Irishman if the roads in Ireland were good. "Yes," said the Irishman, "so excellent, that I wonder you do not import some of them into England. We have the road to love strewed with roses; the road of matrimony through nettles; the road of honor through a duel; the road to prison through the courts of law; and the road to the undertaker's through the apothecary's shop." "Have you any road to preferment?" "No," said the Irishman, "not now—that road, since the Union, is removed to England; you pass through it to the king's palace, and I am told it is the dirtiest road in Great Britain."

WOLSEY, Thomas, a cardinal and statesman, was born in 1471 at Ipswich, where his father was a butcher. In 1508, being then chaplain to Henry VII, he was made dean of Lincoln; and in the next reign he gained an absolute ascendancy over the young monarch by flattering his passions and sharing in his amusements. He was accordingly made almoner to the king, a privy councillor, canon of Windsor, a register of the garter, and dean of York. Soon after this accumulation of honors, he was appointed chancellor of the garter, and rewarded with the grant of the revenues of the bishopric of Tournay in Flanders. In 1514 he was consecrated bishop of Lincoln, and within a few months afterwards was elevated to the see of York and the dignity of a cardinal. Wolsey now aspired to the papacy, and on being disappointed of it, received, as a compensation from the emperor, a pension of nine thousand pounds of gold, while his own sovereign gave him the bishopric of Durham. On the death of Adrian VI he made another effort to gain the tiara, but without success. In 1528 he exchanged Durham for Winchester; but a cloud now arose, occasioned by the king's dissatisfaction with his conduct in the business of the divorce. Accordingly, while the cardinal sat in the court of chancery, an indictment was preferred against him in the king's bench, on the statute of provisors, in consequence of which the great seal was taken from him, all his goods were seized, and articles of impeachment were soon exhibited in parliament. The prosecution, however, was stayed, and he received the king's pardon; but while he was endeavoring to reconcile himself to his fallen state at Cawood castle, his capricious master caused him to be arrested for high treason, and hurried from Yorkshire towards London. The agitation and fatigue brought on a disorder, of which he died at the abbey of Leicester, Nov. 28, 1530.
