The Inclined Water Wheel.

BIS valuable improvement in the application d of water ; ower, is now completed and in suc-cessful operation at the Cool Spring Mills in this Town. The invention was designed to save water in its operation, and thereby remedy the difficulty now existing on account of its scarcity. This wheel will perform the same labor with less than half the w. 'er required to drive the tub-wheel, and if ap-plied in place of the flutter-wheel the saving must be still greater. The number of Mills (now in operation by these wheels) that become scarce of water in the summer, is supposed to average 80 or 90 per cent. If these Mills can be successfully operat ed with even half the water now required, it is obvious that the supply of water will be abundant.

The Inclined Water Wheel in its construction an be slaced at any elevation to s it the endition of the pond, thereby securing a sufficient head above the wheel, which is important to all mills where the water is at any time liable to become scarce. In this particular the Inclined water wheel has a decided advantage above the Overshot, which requires sufficient fall and constancy of water, and is also expensive in its construction : Whereas, the Inclined Water Wheel can be built at much less expense--can be successfully applied to any mill or machinery that is propelled by water, and will run well in back water. This Wheel is said to rank in power with a high breast wheel, and can be geared with either cogs or bands, but the latter being con-them. Having obtained a Patent in December last,

I have abstained from giving publicity to the invention, or offering to sell any Rights, until others, as

WHAT ARE THE BEST MEANS OF CULTIVATING THE CONVERSA-TIONAL POWERS?

By good conversational powers we understand, not merely facility of utterance, and elegance of expression, but all those qualities which render conversation useful and agreen- tion, it is platn that to excel in this art, atten ble. This will not, I trust, be considered irrelevant -a knowledge of the disease, in the various forms, being usually preparatory to prescribing the remedy. The defects in conversation naturally divide themselves into two classes ; faults in the manner of conversing, and those in the matter. The first thing which attracts our notice in common conversation, is the modulation of the voice; some people talk in a very loud lingness to be pleased; and while we caretone, as though they meant to take you by fully guard against the faults of conversation TAKEN up and committed to storm instead of argument. A third fault is talking too fast. This is frequently the case with very fluent speakers, but not necessarily ; this habit should be carefully avoided, as it detracts alike from the dignity of the speaker, and the weight of what is

is a natural delect, which, however, may be overcome by suitable effort.

Another very common fault is talking too much. There is hardly any thing to be met with, in the whole round of petty troubles, so vexatious as one of these perpetual talkersespecially when, as is generally the case, there is an utter destitution of ideas. There are some again, who talk too little. Their enjoyments, and their sor.ows, and their intellectual stores-if they have any-are all locked up; such persons seem to have no idea that they were created social beings, and are under obligation to contribute to the entertainment and improvement of those around use for humanity. Machines have been inthem. Some are silent, because they are too proud, and some, because they have nothing

Many individuals cannot speak with any degree of interest on a subject, without working themselves into a fever-while glowing thoughts and burning words, come pouring out, like lava from a volcano. Nothing can be more ridiculous than such vehemence on trifling occasions. The fault you will not disagree with the man that eats opposite to this is also not unfrequent; that of talking with too little feeling. Vehemence is not contagious, but this dullness is ; if the speaker does not feel his own remarks, it is pretty certain nobody else will. Another defect in manner, is being too dogmatical. Some amiablo people contract were. this positive, magisterial manner of expressing their opinions, which is extremely unpleasant, and can hardly fail to leave the impression that they are very proud and self-opinionated, when, perhaps, this is far from being their character.

Lastly, in order to shine in the social circle we must cultivate the social affections. The law of kindness should be on our lips, We should have a wish to please, and a wilourselves, we should freely forgive them in others. D.

A correspondent of the Norfolk Beacon has durnished the following receipts for the efficacy of which he gives his own, which is excellent authority.

The complete efficacy of the snaexed receipt, coming within our own knowledge, wo are induced to publish it from its simplicity and immediate efficiency :

CURE FOR DIARRHRA. -- "Parch half a pinf of rice until it is perfectly brown, boil it then down as usually done, for 12 minutes, (the proper time for boiling all rice,) eat it slowly, and it will stop the most alarming case in a few bours."

RECEIPT FOR BOILING RICE .- First, wash' it of its sour particles, then put a handful of salt into the pot, when the water boils sprinkle in the rice, when boiled 12 minutes by the watch, pour the water off, and put the pot covered close by the fire to steam for ten minutes.

NO USE FOR HUMANITY .- The Nashua Telegraph, in allosion to the talking machine, facetiously remarks: "There will soon be not vented for about every thing. When that for indolent to talk; some, because they are too setting types is completed, we do not see but what the human family may as well adjourn. There will be but precious little for them to do' if they stay here. The whole process of civilization will go on without them."

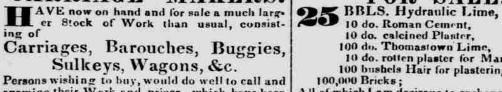

03 We second that motion, provided the mover will designate the place to adjourn to.

Sydney Smith is a facetious fellow. On Bishop Selwyn teaving England for his diocese of Cannibals, in New Zealand, Sydney took leave of him with tears in his eyes, and in these terms: "Good bye, Selwyn ; I hope" you !"

The editor of the Sunday Mercury heard a butcher remark the other day, that he had often heard of the fore quarters of the globe, but he should like to know where the hind quarters
