IMPORTANT TO MILL OWNERS. HOTCHKISS'

THE Subscribers having witnessed the succes -ful operation of these wheels, were induced to purchase the right of using them in the state of North Carolina; and they now offer for sale individual rights, at FIFTY dollars, or rights for a whole county, on reasonable terms.

Vertical Water Wheel.

Posil's being generally adopted in the Northern States, there wheels are coming into general use in the southern States. We have sold about 100 Rights, 30 of which are in successful operation in Comberland county. These wheels are mo e durable, and more easily kep' is order when properly put together than the flatter wheel. They will save one-third of the water, and can well in back water, when there is a head above. The speed of the saw is increased to in ire than double the strokes per minute, We refer, am ng others, to the following of men, some of whom have had the wheels in operation 12 months or more; and from many of them, and othe s, we have received certificates expressing their high approbation of the supe for advantages of these over the flutter wheel, and stating that their saws will cut 2500, 3000, 3500, and even as high as 5 00 feet per day, and save one-third of

NEW YORK FALL TRADE. 1846.

TO COUNTRY MERCHANTS.

THERE can be no doubt but that the city of New York is the most advantageous market in the United States for the purchase of country supplies. It is connected by water communication and Railroads with all the States in the Union; it receives the largest importations from abroad, contains the largest stocks of goods, and is the great depot of American Manufacturers, and prices are ess and credita more liberal.

LINES TO A BEAUTY. BY N. P. WILLIS. She's beautiful! Her raven curls Have broken hearts in cavious girls; And they sleep in contrast so. Like raven feathers upon snow, And bathe her neck, and shade the bright, Dark eye from which they catch the light, As if their graceful looks were made, To keep that glor ous eye in shade, And ho'ier makes its tranquil spell,

Expressive, I quid, watching, mild, But the jewell'd star and the living air, Have nothing in it half so fair. She's noble, noble-one to keep Embalm'd for dreams of fever'd sleep An eye for nature, taste refin'd, Perception sweet, and balanc'd mind. And more than all a gift of thought

To such a spifit-finences wrought,

Like waters in a shaded well.

I cannot rhyme about that eve-

I've matched it with a midnight sky-

I've said 'twas d ep, and dark, and wild,

That on my ear her language fell As if each word dissolved a spell. Yet I half hate her; she has all That would ensure an angel's fall, And there's a cool collected look, As if her pulses beat by book, A measured tone, a cold reply? A management of voice and eve, A celin, pass'd authentic air, That leaves a doubt of suffness there. 'Till-look and worship as I may--

My fever'd thoughts will pass away And when she lifts her fringing lashes And her dark eye like star-light flushed, And when she plays her quiet wile Of that calm look and measur'd smile, I go away, like one who's head, In some fine scene the prompter's word, And make a vow to break a chain And keep it -till we meet again.

> "TAINT LIKE."-A certain lawyer had his portrait taken in his favorite attitude, standing with one hand in his pocket. His friends and clients all went to see it, and every body said, "Oh, how like; it's the very picture of him," An old farmer only dissented; "'taint like, no 'taint," said he dryly, looking out the corner of his eye. " Taint like?" exclaimed every body-" just show us wherein 'taint like?" "'Taint like, no 'taint,"
