DENTISTRY. S. S. GILCHRIST, DENTAL SURGEON.

TEAS! THE VIRTUE OF VENTRILOQUISM. Or Mick Murphy and the Ghost.

An incident occurred in the hotel of one of the picturesque marine villages which skirt Lake Pontchartrain, on an occasion last summer, that effectually served to dispel the listless ennui so prevalent in such cases. Among the guests there, for the time being, was one Michael Murphy, an eccentric, good-natured soul, from what used to be par excellence the land of potatoes, but which now may be called the potatoless land.

Matches. A VERY IMPORTANT COMMUNICATION TO ALL PERSONS IN ALL PLACES, AT ALL TIMES, And under all circumstances!

If you are sick, get cured; if well, employ measures to continue so. Every individual indulges in habits, much more, to a greater or lesser extent, disarrange the admirable and intricate combinations which form the system, and consequently every individual should possess some mild, yet efficacious, simple and accredited agent for preserving all the functions of the body in good order.

Dr. Woods Sarsaparilla and Cherry Bitters will achieve this result, and should be in every family, and in the hands of every person, who, by business, profession or general course of life, is predisposed to the very many little ailments that render life a curse, instead of a blessing, and finally result, in their aggregated condition, in the cause of Death.

The Bitters here mentioned are compounded by a man of great skill and knowledge, from the simplest Nature presents to those who care to find them, and which are the only reliable antidotes to the poison of disease. The chief ingredients are the universally beloved Sarsaparilla and the Bark of the Wild Cherry Tree, with which the red man of the forest cures nearly every disease of the internal organs, and these materials, though powerful in their action, are as common sense teaches us.

ENTIRELY HARMLESS; and prepared as they are here, one of the greatest medical operations in the inhabitable globe. By taking these Bitters, the scrofulous will be restored to beauty, and avoid the sharp knife of the surgeon; for they not only eradicate pimples and rumsors, but over come

THE VIRTUE OF VENTRILOQUISM. Or Mick Murphy and the Ghost.

"I wish he'd dare," said the voice of the ventriloquist, speaking outside the door.

"Be jabbers I'll let you see I dare," said Michael, jumping up, seizing his hickory and hurriedly opening the door, ready, on sight, to knock down the annover.

"Give it to him," said the ventriloquist, from the bed.

"I believe it's the Ould Boy himself was in it," said Michael, "for I don't see a soul here."

"It's very mysterious," said the ventriloquist from the bed.

THE PRACTICAL SCHOOLMASTER.

The following amusing story of a New York Schoolmaster is from a Hudson paper:—I heard of one of your committees interfering with a vengeance, and turning out a schoolmaster for committing enormities in the way of illustrating lessons.

"I don't know," said the ventriloquist, "but they say the ghosts of departed Indians haunt the place."

"O, that no Indian ghost," said Michael, "for it spoke as good English as I do myself."

"And a little better, Michael," said the voice, as if it proceeded from one standing by his side.

"O," said Michael, "what are you at all, at all?"

"No evil spirit, but your guardian genius," said the voice.

"A mortal queer genius you are," said Michael, "that can be heard and not seen."

"Get into the bed, then," said the voice, "I have something to say to you."

"You won't do anything bad to me?" said Michael.

"Nothing," said the voice.

"Honor bright," said Michael.

"Honor bright," said the voice, and into bed Michael again went.

"Now, Michael," said the voice, "you know you have been a hard liver?"

PUTTING THE QUESTION.—At the time Andrew Jackson and John Q. Adams were candidates for President, a worthy minister of the Methodist order took for his text one Sunday, the following words, "Who is on the Lord's side?"

"My beloved brethren, this is an important question—who is on the Lord's side?" All those who are on the Lord's side will rise in their seats.

"With pleasure, sir," said Michael, "but just at that moment a voice was heard to issue from a corner of the room—it was that of the ventriloquist, who sat by his side uttering his admonition."

"The pleasure of wine with you, Mr. Murphy," said a gentleman at dinner.

"In sooth he was a shameless wight Sore given to revel and ungodly glee; Few earthly things found favor in his sight Save concubines and carnal company, And flaunting wassailers of high and low degree."

"Who's that?" said Michael, much startled at the sepulchral tone in which the query was put, and the time of putting it.

"Ask me not, but answer," said the ventriloquist, still continuing his ghost-like accent.

"Well, what have you got to say?" said Michael.

"Much of which I want you to take notice," said the ventriloquist, "or rather the ventriloquist's voice."

"O, clear off," said Michael, "or else I'll give you your stay."

"Better you had continued to take tea than to break the pledge you have done," said the voice outside the door.

"What's all this noise about?" said the ventriloquist speaking from the bed.

"Some dirty blackguard that's outside the door there," said Michael, "interfering with what's none of his business."

"Why don't you drive him from it?" said the ventriloquist, speaking from the bed.

HONOR TO THE BRAVE.—Colonel Benton deserves credit for not having gone to Mexico, at the head of the army. His absence has evidently saved the country.

THE MEXICAN QUESTION IN OUR LEGISLATURE.—By the proceedings, published in the Delta of yesterday, it will be seen that this body approved and justified the course and recommendations of the President in relation to the war, by a majority of eight in a body of twenty-eight.

Perhaps no better illustration of the adage, "many men of many minds," could be furnished, than the various opinions now prevalent in relation to the war with Mexico; either as regards its origin, the manner in which it has been, or ought to have been conducted, and the most advisable course to pursue for its honorable termination.

WHIG NATIONAL CONVENTION.—While the Northern Whig Journals are almost unanimously in favor of a National Convention for the selection of a candidate for the Presidency, some of the more independent among the Southern papers repudiate it altogether.

AMERICAN CENTS.—It is said that the increase of copper will shortly be so great, that cents, to preserve their present ratio to silver, will have to be enlarged to the size of dinner plates.

State of North Carolina.—Robeson county, In Equity.

The complainant in this case maketh oath that the defendants, James Fulmore and John Dickerson, reside beyond the limits of this State; the said James Fulmore and John Dickerson are therefore hereby notified to appear before the Judge of the Court of Equity to be held for the county of Robeson, at the Court House in Lumberton, on the fourth Monday in March next, and then and there plead answer or demurrer to complainant's bill, and set forth the same with a proper confession as to them, and set for hearing six weeks after the date of this notice.

WITNESSES: Richard C. Rhodes, Clerk and Master of the Court of Equity of Robeson county, at office in Lumberton, the 24th day of January, A. D. 1848.

PERSONS AFFLICTED WITH PULMONARY DISEASES and all those who have had the Influenza and have been left with a bad cough, will please read the following:

Last fall, I, the subscriber, had a bad cough and pain in the breast, which continued until March, when I had a severe attack of inflammation of the lungs. After this had continued six weeks, it left me with a bad and distressing cough. I had a severe pain in my chest, attended with oppression. It would be impossible for me to describe the violence of my cough, which was incessant both night and day, and at nights I would cough so hard as to disturb the rest of my neighbors, who were all very much alarmed for my safety. I coughed so bad that I began to feel that unless something was speedily done, I would soon be incurable with pulmonary consumption. I commenced using Scherck's Pulmonic Syrup, and I soon found it to ripen the matter in my breast, and I began to raise freely. After I had used the Syrup a while, I began to cough less, and without any disturbance to the family, I continued to raise freely until after the corruption was discharged from my lungs, and I then felt as well as ever—my cough was subdued, and my breast felt strong. It had been some time now since I have had any cough, and I feel as if the Pulmonic Syrup has removed every vestige of pulmonary disease from my system. I have great confidence in its virtues, and cheerfully recommend its use to all persons afflicted with a pulmonary complaint.
