30TH CONGRESS. SECOND SESSION. February 26. In the Senate, a bill to aid the State of Louisiana in draining her swamp lands, was passed.

In the Senate, a bill to amend the act of Louisiana in draining her swamp lands, was passed. Also a bill in relation to paymasters. But the provisions of the bill are not given.

The Senate then took up the general appropriation bill, and the amendments of Messrs Dayton and Walker. After considerable debate, the question was taken on Mr Dayton's amendment—it was rejected, only 8 voting for it.

The question was then taken on Mr Walker's amendment, which proposes, instead of bringing the territories of New Mexico and California into the Union as States, to extend the laws of the U. States over them. This amendment was agreed to, 29 yeas, 27 nays. It was not a party vote.

Mr Mangum voted for the amendment, Mr Badger against it—on opposite sides again! So that this measure which could not be matured, it appears, as a separate act, has been tacked on to an appropriation bill, in order, it is supposed, that the House will have to agree to it rather than reject the appropriation bill.

For, if the House strike out the amendment, the Senate will insist on it, make it a sine qua non to the passage of the bill.

In the House, the day was occupied in discussing the slavery question, the bill to establish a government in California and New Mexico being before the House. No decision was obtained.

February 27. In the Senate, after some unimportant business, the general appropriation bill was again taken up, and amendments discussed until adjournment.

In the House, the bill to organize a territorial government over California was the most important topic under discussion. Mr Sawyer of Ohio, a democrat, moved to strike out the Wilmot proviso, which was not agreed to, yeas 89—nays 101.

Mr Meade of Virginia, moved to lay the bill upon the table—yeas 86—nays 127. The bill was then passed, Wilmot proviso and all, yeas 126—nays 87. It was sent to the Senate, and there it will sleep a long time, we expect.

The House then took up the bill to organize a territorial government for New Mexico, which was debated until adjournment, and which was just so much time wasted.

February 28. In the Senate, the Committee to whom was referred the subject of Mr Page's invention concerning the application of the magnetic fluid to the propulsion of machinery, reported that they had attended the lectures of Mr Page, and are satisfied that the government should aid him in making the experiment he desires.

They see no reason to doubt that the power is great and can be applied to the propulsion of machinery of all sorts. The only inquiry which presents itself is, can the power of electro-magnetism be produced in sufficient force in a manner so economical as to admit of its universal use?

Experience thus far, is favorable to an affirmative answer, say the committee. They recommend the appropriation of $20,000 to make the experiment.

Our streets are really crowded with strangers from all parts of the country. The new Senators whose terms commence on the 5th, are gathering, to be at the usual extra session of the Senate for the confirmation of the new cabinet officers.

It is fortunate that the inauguration only takes place once in four years. We understand the hotels are charging $4 per day, and rooms are renting for two, three and four dollars.

Several military companies from Boston, Philadelphia, and Baltimore, are to be here on the 5th—hope it will be a pleasant day. We have had very severe cold snowy weather for some time.

Some hopes are entertained that the California bill will yet pass unlogged with the Wilmot proviso—the whigs not being willing for Gen. Taylor to show his hand by signing or vetoing it next session.

Should Congress not pass it, and merely extend the revenue laws over the country, we shall have a second edition of a certain document beginning with, "When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for a people, &c."

Our communication this week must be brief, having mislaid our notes with Post Office statistics which we had intended to send you; we think they will be very interesting to your readers generally.

Yours, &c., CAROLINUS.

DEATH OF CONFESION.—A man named David Kelsey died in this city on Friday night last, at an advanced age. He has resided here for more than twenty years, and for most part of the time has kept an inferior tavern, near the foot of Main-st. He has been suspected several times of committing depredations upon his guests in the way of plunder, and was charged with murder, and escaped punishment, from a want of testimony sufficient to procure conviction.

However, when advised that his end was near at hand, he manifested a desire to have an acquaintance sent for, that he might confess his crimes before he died. The person sent for came, and the man confessed. From that person, who is highly respectable, we learn that the statement involved several robberies of guests at his house, and the murder for which he was arrested several years ago, and tried, but not convicted. The full particulars of the confession have not been furnished us, but we learn that the old man stated that he buried the body on the premises. Some search has been made, but with what success we are not informed.

During the search on Saturday, several articles were found secreted about the premises which indicated the truth of the confession. Among other things was an oval brass trunk plate, much corroded, which bears this inscription:—E. Baldwin, Rochester, N. Y. This may afford some clue to a mysterious disappearance either of the property or person of the owner, or perhaps both. These confessions we think need not be questioned, as they have been forced from the dying man by the power of conscience under a deep sense of guilt.—Buffalo Express.

NORTH CAROLINIAN. Wm. H. Bayne, Editor and Proprietor. FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. MARCH 10, 1849.

INAUGURATION DAY (the 5th) was celebrated by the whigs of our town by firing cannon at 12 o'clock, just about the time "Old Zach" was supposed to be thundering out his inaugural at the capitol.

At night they illuminated the town Hall, and burned a number of rosin barrels at prominent points. At the town Hall, there was a small show of fireworks and martial music. All of which was preceded by a round of cannon.

Gen. Taylor's Cabinet. The new Cabinet of President Taylor is as follows: John M. Clayton, of Del., Secretary of State.

Wm. M. Meredith, of Penn., for the Treasury. Wm. H. Crawford, of Ga., for War Department.

Abbott Lawrence, of Mass., for the Navy. Thos. Ewing, of Ohio, Postmaster General.

W. P. Preston, of Va., Attorney General. All of these gentlemen are whigs, as a matter of course.

Only Mr Clayton and Mr Preston were members of the late Congress. Mr Meredith is a "Philadelphia lawyer," we understand. Mr Crawford is ex-governor of Georgia, ex-member of Congress, &c. Mr Lawrence is the wealthy manufacturer of Mass., of whom it has been reported, that he expended a large amount of money to prevent Mr Clay's nomination.

Mr Ewing is an ex-member of Congress, and was a member of General Harrison's cabinet.

A very unpleasant feeling appears to exist between Gen. Shields and Hon. Sydney Breese, on account of the election of Senator from Illinois—Gen. Shields having been elected at the expiration of Mr Breese's term, some one told the General that Mr Breese had propagated a report that General Shields was not eligible to the Senate, for he had not been naturalized.

Gen. S. in a public note, charged Mr Breese with this, and also with writing an article in the St Louis Republican to the same effect. Both of these imputations Mr Breese denies, but says that he did state a fact in conversation, which the records of the Effingham circuit Court will establish.—What that fact is he does not say.

Gen. Shields states that had he been defeated by Mr Breese upon the grounds above mentioned, Mr B. should never have enjoyed his success; in other words, he would have killed him. From this, we should judge that the charge of ineligibility amounted to something more than not being naturalized.

We hope it will end with no bad consequences.

Washington City, Feb. 27. Mr Editor: The uproar and confusion which had prevailed for several days previous, attained its climax last Friday night, on the arrival of the President elect. The General was received by an immense concourse of people, who had assembled at the railroad office, and was escorted to his lodgings by the multitude, amid their deafening shouts, the booming of cannon, ringing of bells, bonfires, &c. On his arrival at the hotel, he, being loudly called for, came on the balcony and made a few remarks, thanking the people for their enthusiastic reception. On Saturday, numbers of the distinguished persons now in the city called on the General. Yesterday Gen. Taylor called on Mr Polk at the White House—to-day he goes to Georgetown to receive the congratulations of the people of that place.

The delegation of Indians went this morning to see the hero, accompanied by their interpreter and two parsons. The General is said to be in very feeble health. On the occasion of the Congress committee notifying him of his election, he said he would be ready at 12 o'clock on the 5th to take the oath; we shall consequently be without a President or Vice President one day.

Vice President Fillmore arrived on Saturday. From what we can learn to-day, Mr Clayton of Delaware, will be Secretary of State, Mr Letcher of Kentucky, Postmaster General, Mr Pinney of Pennsylvania, Sec'y of the Treasury, and Mr Crawford of Ga., Sec'y of War. It is generally conceded that there will be one democrat in the Cabinet.

The French Minister gave a very large party on Saturday night, it being the anniversary of the French revolution.

Our streets are really crowded with strangers from all parts of the country. The new Senators whose terms commence on the 5th, are gathering, to be at the usual extra session of the Senate for the confirmation of the new cabinet officers.
