They now run with more power and smoothness, and are better adapted for magnetizing patients than any other in use. Each case is accompanied with a Manuel (11th edition, p. 400, 32 mo.) in the English or French language, according to order, which contains clear and minute directions for the proper use of the instrument in the various diseases to which it is applicable, which are found to include many of the most peculiar and obstinate that are known to the medical profession. The Manuel also contains a synopsis of the different systems of medical practice, Allopathic, Homepathic, and Mag-nopathic, with a full glossary. Physicians and others are cautioned against purchasing the imitations of these machines, as they will be found of comparatively little value. No premium has ever been obtained over these HAIR DRESSER, magnetic machines at the American or any other Institute, as is represented by the nanufacturers magnetic machines at the American or any other of interior machines.

> GROANING AND CRYING .- A French surgeon lately published a long dissertation on the beneficial influence of groaning and crying on the nervous system. He contends that groaning and crying are two grand operations by which nature allays anguish, and that he has uniformily observed that those patients who give way to their natural feelings, more speedily recover from accidents and operations than those who suppose it is unworthy a man to betray such symptoms of cowardice as either to grean or to cry. He is always pleased by the crying and violent rearing of a patient during the time he is undergoing a severe surgical operation, because he is satisfied that he will thereby so southe his nervous system as to prevent fever, and ensure a favorable termination. He relates a case of a man who by crying and bawling reduced his pulse from one hundred and twenty to sixty in the course of two hours. That some patients often have a great satisfaction in groaning, and that hysterical patients often experience great relief from crying, are facts which no person will deny. As to restless, hypochondriacal subjects, or those who are never happy but when they are under some course of medical or dietetic treatment, the French sur. geon ensures them that they cannot do better than groan all night and cry all day.
