HOTCHKISS' Vertical Water Wheel.
 There are several hundred of these wheels in operation in different counties in North Carolina. For proof of their great advantage over the common flatter wheel, or any other wheels now in use for saw mills, we confidently refer to those who have applied them to their mills. We can recommend them particularly for their superiority in cases of a low head of water, or back water.
 We still keep a supply of Wheels, suitable for different heads of water, at Wilmington, Newbern, Washington, Edenton, and Fayetteville. The wheels may also be had of E. A. Brevard, Lenoir, and Uriah Wells, Petersburg, Va.
 Persons wishing to obtain the right to use the wheels, will be served on application to D. McNeill & Co., Fayetteville, N. C.

DR. SHERWOOD'S Vibrating Magnetic Machines.
 By recent improvements in these Machines, their power is double in cases of the same size, and the prices reduced to $12 and $14 each; the $12 sizes being greatly superior to the $12 sizes of other machines. They now run with more power and smoothness, and are better adapted for magnetizing patients than any other in use. Each case is accompanied with a Manual (11th edition, p. 400, 32 mo.) in the English or French language, according to order, which contains clear and minute directions for the proper use of the instrument in the various diseases to which it is applicable, which are found to include many of the most peculiar and obstinate that are known to the medical profession. The Manual also contains a synopsis of the different systems of medical practice, Allopathic, Homoeopathic, and Magnopathic, with a full glossary.
 Physicians and others are cautioned against purchasing the imitations of these machines, as the letters from patients in various parts of the country, and from many physicians who have long used these remedies in their practice, which fully establish their remarkable success in the cure of Scrofula in its worst forms, Consumption, Chronic Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and other chronic diseases.
 The Treatise of Dr. Sherwood upon chronic Diseases, explains fully the nature and effects of these remedies, and will be sent by us without charge to any persons desirous of information upon these points, in any part of the country.
 DR. SHERWOOD'S MAGNETIC MACHINES, which have long had an established reputation as superior to any others in medical use, for power and simplicity combined, are also manufactured by us, as hitherto, and can be sent by express or otherwise to any place in the United States, or to other parts of the World.
 Physicians and Agents can be supplied both with the machines and remedies upon the same terms as were customary with Dr. SHERWOOD.
 All orders and letters for medical advice, should be addressed to

 These Chronic Diseases of the organs and limbs which are invariably distinguished by protracted duration, pressure on the intervertebral spaces along each side of the spinal column, no matter what name may be given to the malady by physicians.
 We have in our possession, subject to the examination of any who may call upon us, numerous letters from patients in various parts of the country, and from many physicians who have long used these remedies in their practice, which fully establish their remarkable success in the cure of Scrofula in its worst forms, Consumption, Chronic Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and other chronic diseases.

Later From Europe.
 Telegraphed for the Washington Union.
 NEW YORK, August 24.
 The royal mail steamer Canada arrived at Halifax on Wednesday evening, having been delayed by very heavy weather.
 The treaty of peace between Sardinia and Austria having been finally concluded, imparted additional strength to the French funds at London.
 The English papers are filled with the enthusiastic receptions of the Queen in Ireland. She was met by the people at every point with high demonstrations of respect.
 The cholera is increasing in London and producing fearful ravages.
 The French Minister of Finance, in a statement to the Assembly, says that the deficit in the treasury on the 1st of January next will be five hundred and fifty millions of francs. It is further estimated that the deficit at the end of the next year will be about three hundred and twenty millions of francs.
 President Napoleon Bonaparte denies having any desire, upon his part, to change the present government.
 General Rostau has been appointed commander-in-chief of the French army in Italy, in place of General Oudinot.
 The Pope's commissioners have arrived in Rome and dissolved the whole army, even those soldiers who had been faithful to the Pope.
 A report was prevalent that Garibaldi had been attacked and beaten by a large Austrian force, and that his army had been augmented by reinforcements of Hungarians, who volunteered their services.
 Venice still holds out manfully against the enemy. It is said that three American vessels had arrived with provisions in aid of the besieged city.
 The news from Hungary continues most favorable. The Hungarian forces still occupy the line of Skeine. It is reported that Gen. Bem, with an army of forty thousand men, had completely beaten the Russians, who had sixty thousand men in the field, in Transylvania, and that he had taken captive Hermanstadt and Cronstadt.
 It is likewise reported that Kilapka, the Hungarian general, had attacked and captured Raab, and afterwards seizing a large quantity of provisions and munitions of war, fell back upon Comorn, where he was at last accounts. The general feature of the Hungarian advices is decidedly favorable to them and all those who feel an interest in their noble cause.

THE MARKETS.
 The demand for flour is of a retail character, with sales of best American brands at 24s. to 24s. 6d. per barrel. In London it was quoted at 18 to 21s. Indian corn in fair demand, with considerable sales at 24 to 25s. per quarter of 450 pounds.
 Rice is firm; sales of 100 tierces Carolina at 15s. 3d. to 20s. per cwt.
 An active demand for cotton has prevailed, with a large attendance of the trade, who purchased freely, and holders having less disposition to meet the demand at previous rates, they were compelled to pay from 1 to 2 advance on American descriptions.

TEXAS ELECTION.—We have a report from Texas, by way of New Orleans, that Volney E. Howard is elected to Congress from the western district of Texas, to supersede Mr. Pillsbury, who was a candidate for re-election. Hugh McLeod was also a candidate. All of them are democrats. Hon. David S. Kaufman had no opposition in his district.—National Intelligencer.

Lycurgus, the law-giver of antiquity, who was born some years before the Second Washington, sagely remarked in his commentaries upon crime and punishment, that "a horse could not be a mare, while a mare must from necessity be a horse." This, taken in connexion with his fondness for gingerbread and snails, and a way he had of doing his own scratching, proves conclusively to our own mind that a lawyer-giver of the royal line, greater than Lycour himself, is here, or rather on his tour in this land of blueblights, pokobery juice, and onions; and that when he returns and writes out his observations, Kent will be laid in a corner, and Story be buried under a tomb-stone, and Story be a story too short for the enlightened individuals of this 19th century.
 The old Hero, notwithstanding what he naively calls the pip, is still persevering to the end; and as he has found a congenial spring, that tastes like Sam Weller's both of warm flat-irons and bilge-water, he has obtained permission from Mud to write us another letter. He requests us in a note to insinuate to the American people that he is no scholar, and ran short of Latin the first day he went to school, having lost his "Accidence" by an accident, which is amusing if not alarming.

 While, satchel in hand, and with snail-like pace, he returned from the district school, he passed a pond in which there were numbers of yellow-breasted bullfrogs in green frock-coats, of all sizes, from the great double-bass fellow, down to the octavo-flute boy. Just as he had got to a quiet little bend in the pond, a most insulating old croaker muttered, in tones of rusty thunder, "Z-a-c-h-a-r-i-a-h Duncce, Z-a-c-h-a-r-i-a-h Duncce;" whereupon, without having the fear of the schoolmaster before his eyes, and being instigated by the devil, he threw the "Latin Accidence" at the traducer's head, and buried the only classical book in the country in the mud of Ocmulgee. But for this, we think he would have done something else at the commencement at Georgetown College besides going to sleep, and waking up whistling an air of doubtful propriety even in a cabinet council. But time and tide wait for no man, though many men wait for both; and we shall therefore hasten to lay before you, gentle reader, the latest news from the "stray President" in the iron valleys of Pennsylvania:

ON OUR TOUR.
 At the Kalybiate, near Bedford, Aug. 18.
 My Dear Heroic Age: After we had seen all they had got in Arrisburg and been pretty much bored for office by a set of Pharaoh-bank players, who are called "sons of Moses" in these diggings, and who declare that they have as good a right to hold office as other travelling gamblers whom we have appointed—per cabinet and be d——d to them—we departed with a wreath of roses of the diameter of a wine-pipe about our shoulders. This wreath, however, owing to the rapid motions of the cars, got down about our middle, where it caught by our watch-seal, and hung there, giving us the appearance of old Silenus at the feast of Bacchus.

Governor Johnston talked for us at every stopping place, and with the exception of a short speech at Carlisle, where we assured the people that "we desired to carry out their wishes, be them whig or be them democrat," we had nothing to say until we met Josey Ritner, the old blind hero of the Buckshot war, who lives at what he calls the Two Woolises, between Carlisle and Chambersburg. We advised Josey to apply for the situation of secretary to the Smithsonian Institute for the diffusion of knowledge among men, we being ourselves the head of that concern, and between us both might diffuse as well as confuse a great deal of knowledge among men, and zoomen too.
 We were struck with the appearance of the horses and cows in this ancient Commonwealth, and on one occasion, perceiving a close resemblance to our crumple, we desired the conductor to let us get out and take our runaway cow in tow, but he swore he had known the cow in question for forty years, and that she was as good a citizen of the State as Johnston or Ritner, and was a native American also, without making such a thundering fuss about it; so we even let the creature stay; but we still believe that the conductor diddled us, and that the cow is our cow, hunc pro tunc, and no mistake. Ritner was about as well as when they made him director of the mint at Philadelphia. At that time, he couldn't tell an eagle from a cent, except by the taste, and now he can't tell a julep from a smash, provided the latter has ice in it. He reverts the name of mint, and so do we; but why, we know not, unless because of its anti-stomach-ack-ic qualities. We had a cascade at the ceremonies at Carlisle, which out our speech in two in the middle; but Johnston says we got along first rate there, and John Henry thinks so also, and they both consider that the cascade was rather an ornament than a blemish—something like the falls of Niagara, between Lake Erie and Lake Ontario.

We understand that the Deil has been to pay in Wsshington, and we see by the Republic that Clayton has signed our name to an exequatur for "Pedro Cueto, of Chili," or that he has got our signature in blank: for the proclamation is dated on the 16th at Washington, and published in the paper of the morning of the 17th. Now, we were not at Washington on that day, by an awful sight, and never heard of the paper or of Pedro before. But Clayton may be right; for we abdicated temporarily, and left the boys to get on with the government higgledy-piggledy until our return. So sign away, John, and make your proclamations as thick as rats in a cheese room. The more noise you make now, the better you'll feel; but we give you fair warning that "Stewart" has blown you confidentially, and that as soon as we shall give you a little particular North American —, for the benefit of the whole country, which Caesar beautifully expresses in Latin, "pro boneo publicario."
 We were informed that a dozerotype man has been at work upon Old Whitey and the rest of the cabinet in the cow-pasture. What business he had in interfering with the "old boss," or in taking his plecter in our absence, is more man we know. We shall have a court of inquiry to decide upon this matter as soon as we come back, and if Lawrence has not gone, then he shall be president of the court; for as Whitey has got his place in the staff, he is bound to see that his gray hairs have fair play. This feeling another man's horse's tail in his absence is not what it is cracked up to be, and we won't stand none of your familiarities, gentlemen, but sit still and have your heads shaved, as Warden Clark once remarked to a hard party in the ante-room of the Washington bastille.

 We were several times hard put to it on the road by some fellows who had nothing else to do but to ask knotty questions. They put the removals at us sharp; but as we had made none, and as the cabinet had only removed a few fellows upon allegations, we just, Republic like, gave them the lie direct, accompanied by a small oath by way of grape-shot and retired with a finger in each ear, growling like a bear with a sore head. So they had their trouble for their pains, and got along as well as could have been expected.

We now jingled along promisciously and happily until we reached the springs of Bedford; and here we were received with all the honors by the distinguished statesmen who congregated there to work off the gout, and get new kidneys and livers, without taking physic, at half price. We were here somewhat startled by some fellow blowing one of our State secrets to the world. We were elected as Zachary to the presidency, when our name is Zachariah. We spell our name Zachary for short, and the politicians took it for long, and so they elected us by a nickname; and the question is, whether we have been elected at all. We were born and christened Zachariah, commissioned as Zachariah, and are Zachariah still; but Zachary is elected, and the lawyers here think it was a pious fraud, and might upset the election. We wish you to get the Attorney General to give his opinion upon this subject at large, and to give it in our favor; for it would play the devil with us all at this time to have My Lord Fillmore, in his black suit, General by a casualty.
 Well, Mr. Age, you have done it in your free and easy style; you have got "our Ballard" as high as a cat's back, and John has had two confidential communications with Savage, under the seal of the confession. By the way, how did Thomas get on with Douglass and his house? We would have made the landlord the public gardener, for the sake of the tenant, if Thomas had only told us of his delicate situation. But the fact is, there is no frankness, and but little frankness, about politicians, any how; and so you see that this difficulty, which might have been smothered in love, is fed by anger—"Sic transit gloriosa Monday," as Sallust has it; which means, if you drink late Sunday night, you will be gloriously fuddled the next day, and no mistake—a matter which we have learned by experience, and which we now communicate to the world free gratis for nothing, without remuneration or compensation.
 The Kalybiate is a terrible affair on secretions; we have let all our State secrets out already, and have been here but one day; and if we stay a week longer, from present indications we shall have no kidneys or liver to brag of or bear off.
 Keep the little fellows still, my dear Heroic, for a short time longer. We have got sugar plums for them all, and a horn-book for Thomas, as he is fond of picters; and if they don't run the country into the ground before we return, we will give a jubilee to the whole nation, restore a democrat to office who can't hurt us, and pardon everybody in the penitentiary, Johnson like. So no more at present from
 ZACHARY WASHINGTON.
