WORLD'S FAIR .- The London correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune says : Hyde Park, March 26, 1851. It is raining in torrents. In fact, the weather since the commencement of this month has been wet, gloomy, and miserable; still the work at the Palace progresses. Considerable inconvenience has been experienced from leakages in parts of the roof where the attempted water proofing process has not been perfected; and many of the papers now openly state the opinion that the building, from the contraction and expansion of such an immense pile of glass. iron, wood, and putty, cannot be rendered sun. THE LAST DOG STORY. Mr Luke Horton, of South Eighth street. keeps a dog called La Vega, an ill-favored, fierce-eved brute, whose untidy habits and cross grained temper cause him to be held in detestation by the family in general, and by Mrs Horton, his mistress, in particular. La Vega, however, is a great favorite with his master. About a week ago, Mrs Horton become exasperated on account of some unendurable offence committed by La Vega, and privately bargained with an old collector of soap-fat, named The Aldermen of the city of Boston refused | Abe Walker, who, for a dollar fee, agreed

Mr Horton, on coming home to dinner absence of La Vega gave occasion for much rejoicing in the household, and even the grief of Mr Horton for his loss was made 103- The whigs of Michigan have nominated the subject of many a sty joke in his domestic establishment. Mrs H. congratulated herself excessively on that lucky thought of hers, which cleaned the house of that odious brute; and though a lady who thinks a good deal of a dollar, she did not grudge the money, since it gained her object so effectually. In the mean time La Vega was detained a close prisoner in the cellar of the soap factory-amusing himself by snapping at the rats which coursed about the premises, and sustained himself like Napoleon at Elba, with the belief that the objects of his destiny were not yet accomplished. On Tuesday morning Mr Horton appeared at the breakfast table with a beaming countenance. "Well, my dear, good news!" said he to Mrs. II. "What is it?" impervious to the rain; or safe from injury "I've got La Vega back again! Advertised for him in the Ledger; offered a reward for his recovery, and this morning he was brought home by Abe Walker." "lleavens!" ejaculated Mrs Horton; "what did you have to pay for him?" Only eleven dollars," replied Horton, "one for the advertisement, and ten to old Abe for bringing him back." "Merciful good. a suitable fund to enable him to do so. It ness!" replied the unsympathizing wife. "Eleven dollars, (enough to buy a silk dress.) for the recovery of such a nasty cur! and to think that I gave the black rascal a dollar for taking him off!" This inadvertent confession, of course produced a matrimonial duel; the report of which we omit, as it might appear stale and com
