VOL. 12-NO. 649.

Liberal deduction for large advertisements by the year or six months.

Edward Stanly

165- Persons who advertise in the newspapers should always mark their advertisements with the number of insertions; otherwise they often forget and let the advertisement run longer than necessary, and when the bill comes to be settled, there is something said about the cest. And when an article is advertised for sale, when it is sold, the advertiser should attend to taking it out of the paper, because it misleads the readers of the paper, besides running him to more cost.

BROOKVILLE ACADEMY.

This long established institution being situated in a healthy and beautiful country, at Brookville, Montgomery county, Md., remote from the seductive scenes of vice, offers unusual advantages for the education of boys.

By a law of the Legislature, expressly enacted for the benefit of this institution, and in which respect it stands alone in the State, the sale of all spiritous liquors is prohibited within two miles of the village.

Extract from the report of the Committee of the Fayetteville Academy, North Carelina, over he Classical and Mathematical Department of which he presided many years, having been appointed when nineteen years of age:

"The system of education now pursued may be divided into two branches—the useful and ornamental. The useful embraces all the elements of learning, from the simplest rudiments to some of the highest branches of the Mathematics, and is designed particularly to qualify students for our University.—This, in the Male Department is under the care of Messrs Sandford and Hustead, young gentlement of regular Collegiate education and is under the care of Messrs Sandford and Hustead. young gentlemen of regular Collegiate education and high literary and moral attainments. From these gentlemen we cannot withhold this passing tribute of praise (alike the dictate of our gratitude to them as Teachers, as well as admiration of them as men) that their talents and usefulness in the Academy and their exemplary deportment in society, have called forth the spontaneous and universal approbation of this community. And we believe we but speak their sentiments, when we hope that the bosom of our society will always afford an adethat the bosom of our society will always afford an adequate encouragement to make our town their home and abiding place.

PURITAN COURTSHIP.

The following pleasing anecdote, indicative of the habits of our Puritan forefathers, is from the new work of Mr Banvard, enect to letter postage; and it is the duty of the titled "Plymouth and the Pilgrims," &c. The valiant Captain Standish having lost his wife, is desirous of obtaining another. The story is an old one, but will bear a

> "A short time after the death of Mrs. Standish, the bereaved captain found his heart filled with tender interest to Miss Priscilla Mullins, daughter of Mr Wm. Mullins. He cherished the impression, that if she could be persuaded to unite her fortunes with his, the loss which he had experienced would be repaired. He, there fore, according to Puritan custom, made his wishes known to the father through Mc John Alden, as his messenger. Mr Mullins made no objection, although he might reasonably have done so, the decease of Mrs Standish having been so recent. He gave his consent, but informed Alden that the young lady must be consulted.

Priscilla was called into the room, not knowing for what purpose she was wanted. Alden, a man of noble form, of fair and somewhat florid complexion, and engaging and cannot be surpassed in beauty, style and manners, arose and delivered his message for Standish, in befitting language, and in a prepossessing, courteous style. Priscilla Satin and Taffeta Ribbons, of all widths and listened attentively, heard every word, and then after a short pause, as if gathering strength to reply, she fixed her eyes upon the messenger and said, with a frank and pleasant countenance, full of meaning. "Prithee, John, why do you not speak for yourself?" John's ruddy countenance became red; he took the hint, made a polite bow, bade larewell for the present, and returned to Standish to communicate the Crapes, Lisses, Tarletons, Illusion and Cap result of his negotiation. Henceforward he visited for himself, and ere long their nuptials were solemnized in due form, and Kid Silk, Sewing Silk, Lilse Thread, Merino Miss Priscilla Mullins became Mrs John Alden.

Genin the great hatter, in a note to the editor of the New York Courier, inviting him to test his style of hats, holds the ful lowing language. "The benefit I have derived from the Press as an advertising The subscriber, having taken out special letters of administration on the Estate of Dr. Thos.
