And when an article is advertised for sale, when it is sold, the advertiser should attend to taking it out of the paper, because it misleads the readers of the paper, besides running him to more cost.

BROOKVILLE ACADEMY.

This long established institution being situated in a healthy and beautiful country, at Brookville, Montgomery county, Md., remote from the seductive scenes of vice, offers unusual advantages for the education of boys. By a law of the Legislature, expressly enacted for the benefit of this institution, and in which respect it stands alone in the State, the sale of all spiritous liquors is prohibited within two miles of the village. Extract from the report of the Committee of the Favetteville Academy, North Carelina, over the Classical and Mathematical Department of which he presided many years, having been appointed when nineteen years of age:

"The system of education now pursued may be divided into two branches—the useful and ornamental. The useful embraces all the elements of learning, from the simplest rudiments to some of the highest branches of the Mathematics, and is designed particularly to qualify students for our University.—This, in the Male Department is under the care of Messrs Sandford and Hustead, young gentlemen of regular Collegiate education and high literary and moral attainments. From these gentlemen we cannot withhold this passing tribute of praise (alike the dictate of our gratitude to them as Teachers, as well as admiration of them asmen) that their talents and usefulness in the Academy and their exemplary deportment in society, have called forth the spontaneous and universal approbation of this community. And we believe we but speak their sentiments, when we hope that the bosom of our society will always afford an adequate encouragement to make our town their home and abiding place.
