While thus amusing himself, he was tearing with his fore paws the clothes and scratching the flesh on the young man's breast. Having dropped his arm, he opened his huge mouth to make a pounce at his face. Then it was that the young man made the dash that saved his life. As the bear opened his jawe, Bean thrust his lacerated arm down the brute's throat, as far as desperation would enable him. There he had him. - The bear could neither retreat nor advance, though the position of the beseiged was anything but agreable on so warm a day as Thursday last. Bean now called upon the lad to come and take from his pocket a jack knife and open it. The boy was a fitting companion for this brave young man. He marched up to the work boldly. But before he could get at the pocket he had to crowd the bear's head over a little to get at itthe beast meantime not at all easy with such a hoge mouthful in his throat. Having got the knife, Bean with his untrameled hand, cut the bear's throat from ear to ear
