HOTEL FOR SALE.
 The Hotel at present occupied by John Harman, formerly known as the Planters' Hotel, near the foot of Hay Mount, Fayetteville, is offered for sale. The House is large and commodious, has been thoroughly repaired within the last twelve months, and is now, together with all the necessary out-buildings, in complete and handsome order. It now enjoys a large share of the local and transient custom, which, in the hands of a competent tenant, must be greatly increased by the existing Plank Roads and contemplated Railroad. (The Depot of which will probably not be far from this House.) These considerations make it a very desirable property to any one wishing to engage in the Hotel business, or to a capitalist desiring to make an investment in property increasing in value.
 The terms will be made accommodating.

DEATH OF MRS CASS.
 The telegraph yesterday evening announced the death of this estimable lady, at the residence of her husband, at Detroit. Her health had been failing for some time; and although her precarious condition required General Cass to leave the city about a month ago, she died on Thursday evening, leaving a large circle of friends to mourn the loss of one whose many virtues will long be remembered.—Washington Union, April 2.

MAIL DEPREDAATIONS.—Frequent complaints have been made of late of the insecurity of the transmission of money by mail, and the Raleigh papers mention many cases of loss which have occurred within the last three months, in the transmission of money to them. But a more daring case of the robbery of the mail occurred last week, somewhere between Chapel Hill and Salem. On Friday morning a bundle of papers was found in a fish trap in New Hope creek, near the Chapel Hill road, which was found to contain nine or ten letters, addressed to various individuals, with the post bills and the envelopes in which they had been enclosed. The letters had been broken open, and after having been filled of all that was valuable, were thrown into the creek. The date of one of the post bills and the finding of the bundle, renders it certain that the robbery was committed on the trip down on Thursday, and this circumstance it is hoped, will lead to the detection of the robber.—Hillsboro' Recorder.

MELANCHOLY EVENT.
 The body of Capt. James Nicholson was found in the neighborhood of Hebron Meeting House in this county, a few days since, in a horribly mangled condition—the head severed from the body and the limbs scattered in various directions, torn by hogs and picked by buzzards in a manner too revolting to contemplate. It seems Mr Nicholson had been employed to teach a School in the neighborhood, for which he was by education well qualified, and on Monday, perhaps, two weeks ago, he repaired to his school house somewhat intoxicated, but soon left the house for a spring hard by, at least it is supposed so, from the fact that his cane was found in the school house by some of his pupils who arrived during the morning.—The scholars waited some time, and the teacher not making his appearance, they left for home. Nothing was seen or heard of Mr Nicholson until a few days ago he was found not far from the Spring alluded to, in the condition above described. The fact that he frequently got into drinking sprees and wandering at will through the neighborhood is, perhaps, the reason he was not sought for during the time of his absence until he was found.
 The above are the particulars of this sad affair as they have been related to us, and we have reason to believe they are correct.
 Warrenton News.

PLANK ROADS.—The reader will find in our advertising columns a notice of the opening of Books of Subscription for Stock in the Tarboro and Endfield Plank Road Company. We learn that Stock to the amount of about $20,000 has been subscribed for the Tarboro and Rocky Mount Plank Road, and that the Company will organize forthwith. And the Whig states that the survey of the route for the Washington and Tarboro Plank Road was commenced on Tuesday last. This Company was organized on the 24th ult., by electing B. L. Myers, Esq. President, and Messrs R. F. Havens, W. H. Willard, Joseph. Potts, H. F. Havens, S. P. Allen, H. Wissall, H. A. Ellison, B. M. Selby and Allen Grist, Directors. The Greenville and Raleigh Plank Road is in successful operation as far as Wilson, and is productive of great benefit to the section of country through which it passes, and of revenue to the stockholders, than its most sanguine advocates originally anticipated. The people in this region would seem, from their movements, to be determined not to be outstripped in the career of internal improvements, as well as other matters.—Tarboro Southerner.

CLINTON FEMALE INSTITUTE.—We are pleased to learn from an intelligent gentleman, a citizen of Sampson county, that the above excellent institution is in highly successful operation, under the superintendence of Mr Luke C. Graves, as Principal, sustained by competent assistants in every department. The school now numbers eighty-two pupils and is gradually increasing. The number will probably reach one hundred or more at the next session. No exertions will be spared by either Trustees or Teachers, calculated to place the Institute upon a footing equal, if not superior, to any similar Academy in the State. We hope and trust that their praiseworthy efforts will be duly appreciated and sustained by the people of the State at large, and especially of that section more immediately interested in the maintenance of a good Female Academy at Clinton.—Wilmington Journal.

MR. PESCOTT'S MODE OF WRITING.
 It is a very simple affair, consisting of a frame of the size of a common sheet of letter paper, with brass wires inserted in it to correspond with the number of lines wanted. On one side of this frame is pasted a leaf of thin carbonated paper, such as is used to obtain duplicates. Instead of a pen, the writer makes use of a stylus, of ivory or glass, the last better or harder. The great difficulties in the way of a blind man's writing in the usual manner are exhausted from his not knowing when the ink is exhausted in his pen, and when his lines run into one another. Both difficulties are obviated by this simple writing case, which enables one to do his work as well in the dark as in the light. Though my trouble is not blindness, but a disorder of the nerve of the eye, the effect, so far as this is concerned, is the same, and I am wholly incapacitated for writing in the ordinary way. In this manner I have written every word of my historicals. This modus operandi exposes one to some embarrassments; for as one cannot see what he is doing on the other side of the paper, any more than the performer in a tread-mill can see what he is grinding on the other side of the wall, it becomes very difficult to make any corrections. This requires the subject to be pretty thoroughly canvassed in the mind, and all the blots and erasures to be made there before taking up the pen or stylus. This compels me to go over my composition to the extent of a whole chapter, however long it may be, several times in my mind before sitting down to my desk. When there the work becomes one of memory rather than of creation, and the writing is apt to run off glibly enough. A letter which I received some years since from the French historian, Thierry, who is totally blind, urged me, by all means, to cultivate the habit of dictation, to which he had resorted; and James, the novelist, who has also adopted his habits, finds it favorable to facility of composition. I have too long been accustomed to my own way to change; and, to say the truth, I never dictated a sentence in my life for publication without its falling so flat on my ear that I felt almost ashamed to send it to the press. I suppose it is habit. One thing I may add: My manuscript is usually too illegible (I have sent you a favorable specimen) for the press, and it is always fairly copied by amanuenses before it is consigned to the printer. I have accompanied the autograph with these explanations, which are at your service, if you think they will have interest for your readers. My modus operandi has the merit of novelty; at least I have never heard of any history monger who has adopted it besides myself.

THE DEATH OF MARSHAL HAYNAU.—The decease of the famous Julius Barons Von Haynau, which is reported to have occurred at Vienna, on the 14th ultimo, cannot fail to revive the recollections of his infamy while living. He was born at Cassel in 1785, and was a natural son of the Duke of Hesse by a goldsmith's daughter. In early life, he was so notorious for his eccentricities as to be considered on the verge of insanity. He was educated at Cassel, and entered the Austrian army as Lieutenant in 1801. In the campaign of 1805 he distinguished himself so much as to be promoted to the rank of captain in one of the most notable regiments in the service. In 1813 he was elevated over his seniors to the rank of Major, and acquired new laurels in the campaigns of Italy during 1813-14 for his brilliant audacity, and reckless bravery. Little was heard of him during the peace which succeeded the downfall of Napoleon until the revolutionary ferment of 1848. In May, 1849, he was made commander-in-chief of the Austrian army in Hungary and Transylvania. He it was who held the Austrian army in that sanguinary conflict, which terminated in the utter defeat of the Hungarian cause. George surrendered, and the disgraceful cruelties with which Haynau treated the captive Hungarians, both women and men, are fresh in every mind. Since his disgrace at the Court of Vienna in 1805, he has spent his time in travelling over Europe. His visit to London, and the manner in which he was mobbed by the brewers of Barclay & Perkins' establishment, need not be repeated. Of late he has resided on his estate in Dalmatia. He died at Vienna, beneath the shadow of that despotic Court which he served so faithfully so mean a cause. Since his removal from the command in Hungary, he has been a despised and unhappy man, and he must have anticipated death as a happy release from the reproaches of his own conscience, and the scorn of the human race.
