From the London Spectator, Oct. 8. American Competition with England.

A writer to whose compilations the Times gives space and a conspicuous position, has taken more than one opportunity of enlarging upon a competition with which our merchants are threatened in India and Asia, on the part of American traders. The ships of the United States appear on the Mckran coast, as well as at Kutch, Muscat, and other places, with various articles, which they barter for the produce of those countries-the American commodities being prine pally a certain coarse cotton fabric, which they call sheeting. The Americans appear to enjoy a particular advantage over our traders-that of conducting their barter individually, in ships which are independent, floating, pushing shops, instead of working by routine through large establishments at Bombay; and thus they not only save expense, but in each particular transaction secure the largest amount of profit.

Another advantage they have is expressed by the Political Agent at Kutch, who says of the sheeting, that it "finds acceptance amongst the people of the country, because it lasts longer than the cloths imported from Bombay." This ind cates the true force of the competition which we have to dread from the United States. If America can cut us out in India, where we occupy the entire country with our government and commerce, the ridicule and the disgrace would be greater than any which the most anti-commercial country has incurred.

But there is something in this superiority of tissue over the manufactures o. England. The comparison is not made for the first time, nor only in cotton sheeting. It is reported from the Hadson River Ruilway, that British iron rails become in a worse condition within twelve mouths, than American rails within a number of years. There may be exaggeration in this; but we have had complaints of our rails from our own official and scientific investigators, who have declared the bad make of our iron to be a frequent source of accident. At the last meeting of the Sheffield Cutlers, the Master Cutler declared that American cutlers were cutting them out in knives; knives of American make being preferred to ours, because the material does not give way under use as those of Sheffield are sometimes found to do. In short, notwithstanding the sharp practice and hasty babits of America, they are in some branches of trade earning the repute for sterling stuff and make which used to be our own; and if we suffer them to win that reputation from us altogether, then indeed we shall have lost more than if India were annexed to-morrow. *

A Fun-Jetting.

From the Detroit Free Press. A lut for Negro-stealers.

It is known that the northern abolitionists maintain a regularly-organized association, which by means of secret agents in the slave States, and a species of conveyance between the Ohio river and the northern lakes, known as the "under-ground railroad," is engaged in enticing negroes from their masters and running them into Canada. In the eyes of the law this specles of stealing is not less grand larceny than the abstraction of a horse without the knowledge or consent of its owner. But these negrostealers are governed by a "higher law" than human enactments, and carry on their nefarious business with an assurance that if they are not engaged in God's service, they are at least doing no worse than violating the golden rule, "Do unto others as ye would that others should do unto you." But their consciences are not seriously troubled so long as they can find plenty of negroes to steal, and are not called upon for bread and butter to keep the new-made freemen from starving after they snuff liberty in the Queen's dominious. These philanthropists much prefer to see negroes perish of hunger in Canada than grow fat and sleek in Kentucky. It is a matter of principle with them. Their organ in this section is the Democrat, published by a brace of Reverends in this city; and whenever a train arrives by the "under-ground railroad," the fact is duly chronicled in that model sheet.

But the poor negroes have the worst of it The liberty to famish is not the sort of freedom they had been led to believe was in store for them ; and they find, when too late, that they have made a bad bargain-that the abolition- Johnivey M Sharpe, transferred to Holston ists are their friends in pretence, and not in fact.
