Steamboat Explosion.

On Thursday, the 22d instant, the steamer Marlborough blew up at Charleston, S. C., just as she was on the point of leaving for Cheraw. The explosion was tremendous, rending the boat into fragments, and scattering them far and wide. The larger portion of the boiler was thrown a distance of 100 yards. The boat took fire immediately and burnt to the water's edge. All the officers except the second engineer (colored man) were killed. It is supposed that there were about 16 persons on board at the time of the explosion, of which number 6 or 7 escaped alive, the balance being either killed or

THE DUKE OF ALBA AN APOLOGIST TO MR.

NEVILLE SOULE.—We gather from M Gaillardet's letter, of the 1st instant, in yesterday's Courier des Etats Unis, that the Duke of Alba (the brother-in-law of the French Empress) has made the amende honorable to Mr Neville Soule, the son of our Minister to Spain, for the inconsiderate remarks of which he was recently and reeds, one-third of the former and two-thirds of the latter, is quite a fine article, and its value is estimated by the makers equal to that from rags worth 12½ cents per pound. The paper from pine shavings is designed for wrapping or envelope paper; it was first bleached and then colored for that purpose, and is valued at 12½ cents per pound also.

Paper has been made within a few years post inconsiderate remarks of which he was recently remitty at a public ball in Madrid Various from several substances, and with various sucguilty at a public ball in Madrid. Various accounts have been given of the matter referred cess. A small quantity made from straw was to, but M. Gaillardet's is probably the correct recently worked in the regular edition of a daily one. It appears from his statement that the Duke of Alba took it ill because Madame Soule of an original experiment, was considered quite the requisition of the charter. This looks like "going ahead." Only think of the small town of Beaufort, possessing not more than one-fourth of the means of the town of Fayetteville, subof the means of the cause, and the means of the Court of Spain were dresses more or less

However justly proud I might be of the high distinction, I feel that my health is too infirm to justify me in assuming a position where I might be tempted to overtask it, or where its failure and ality urging on a political quarrel. But the story is now that public opinion having declareditself unanimously against him, as is not astonishing in a country renowned for the chivalrous respect which it has always paid to beauty, the Duke of Alba has settled the matter by gracefully apologising for the offence complained of. For doing this he deserves credit.
