GILLES NE PLUS ULTRA BURNISH.

The Subscriber, a practical Boot-maker of some experience, has for some time been sensible that there is a desideratum in the market for a Burnish, which will be suitable for burnishing boots and shoes. Most of the articles now used either injure the leather or fail to impart that lustre so necessary to give to man's "undistinguished" a proper finish. He has therefore, during the last few months, been devoting himself to the task of preparing an article free from these objections, and has at length after much investigation and experiment completely succeeded. The result is "GILLES' NE PLUS ULTRA BURNISH." It only wishes that it may be tested in order to establish its superiority over all others. Call on him at his shop opposite Mr. Lauder's Marble Factory, Hay Street, and be supplied with an excellent article at a cheap rate. THOMAS GILL, Nov. 9, 1853. 1f

NORTH CAROLINIAN.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C.

The President's Message to Congress on the late War at Cuba.

The following is a copy of the Message transmitted to Congress by the President in regard to the confiscation of the American steamer "Black Warrior" by the authorities of Cuba:

WASHINGTON, March 15, 1854.

The House of Representatives:

In compliance with the resolution of the House of Representatives of the 10th inst., I herewith submit a report of the Secretary of State, containing all the information received at the Department in relation to the seizure of the "Black Warrior" at Havana on the 28th ult.

There have been, in the course of a few years past many other instances of aggression upon our commerce, violations of the rights of American citizens, and insults to the national flag by the Spanish authorities in Cuba, and all attempts to obtain redress have led to protracted and as yet fruitless negotiations. The documents in these cases are voluminous, and when prepared will be sent to Congress.

Those now transmitted relate exclusively to the seizure of the "Black Warrior," and present so clear a case of wrong that it would be reasonable to expect full indemnity therefor as shall be made known to her Catholic Majesty's Government; but similar expectations, in other cases, have not been realized.

The offending party is at our doors, with large powers for aggression, but none, it is alleged, for reparation. The source of redress is in another hemisphere, and the answers to our just complaints made to the Home Government are but the repetition of excuses rendered by inferior officials to their superiors in reply to representations of misconduct. The peculiar situation of the parties has undoubtedly much aggravated the annoyances and injuries which our citizens have suffered from the Cuban authorities, and Spain does not seem to appreciate to its full extent her responsibility for the conduct of these authorities. In giving very extraordinary powers to them, she owes it to justice and to her friendly relations with this Government to guard with great vigilance against the exorbitant exercise of these powers, and in case of injuries to provide for prompt redress.

I have already taken measures to present to the Government of Spain, the wanton injury of the Cuban authorities in the detention and seizure of the "Black Warrior," and to demand immediate indemnity for the injury which has thereby resulted to our citizens.

In view of the position of the Island of Cuba, its proximity to our coast, the relation which it must ever bear to our commercial and other interests, it is vain to expect that a series of unfriendly acts infringing our commercial rights, and the adoption of a policy threatening the honor and security of these States can long consist with peaceful relations.

In case the measures taken for amicable adjustment of our difficulties with Spain should unfortunately fail, I shall not hesitate to use the authority and means which Congress may grant to ensure the observance of our just rights, to obtain redress for injuries received, and to vindicate the honor of our flag.

In anticipation of that contingency, which I earnestly hope may not arise, I suggest to Congress the propriety of adopting such provisional measures as the exigency may seem to demand.

Accompanying the above Message were several documents, which were sent to the Printer before copies could be taken. They consist of communications from the acting American Consul at Havana, and from the officers, agents, and owners of the confiscated steamer.

AMERICAN FAMILIES IN EUROPE.—The editor of the American Law Register, an excellent legal journal, published in Philadelphia, says: It does not, probably, occur to the American families who are visiting Europe in great numbers, and remaining there, frequently, for a year or more, that all children born in a foreign country are aliens, and when they return home will return under all disabilities of aliens. Yet this is indisputably the case; for it is not worth while to consider the only exception to this rule that exists under the laws of the United States, viz: the case of a child so born, whose parents were citizens of the United States on or before the 14th of April, 1802.

"SMART" SCHOLARS.—"William, can you tell me who wrote the Gospel of St. Matthew?" William hesitated a moment, and finally answered, "I believe it was General Washington, ma'am."

The teacher turned to the next boy, a little fellow with bright eyes and an intelligent countenance.

"Edward, can you tell me where the Ten Commandments are to be found?"

"Yes, ma'am, I know," was the eager reply "they're hanging up against the wall in our school-room."

A Vermont paper, with just pride, says: "There is but one city in the State, and not a soldier. We have no police, and not a murder has been committed in this State within the last ten years. We have no museums or crystal palaces; but we have homes, genuine homes, that are the centre of the world to their inmates, for which the father works, votes, and talks—where the mother controls, educates, labors, and loves—where she rears men, scholars, and patriots."

Defence of Fort McHenry.

The following is a specimen of native poetry, which will probably rank among the best efforts of our national muse. It was composed under the following circumstances: A gentleman had left Baltimore, on a flag of truce, for the purpose of getting released from the British fleet, a friend of his who had been captured at Marlborough. He went as far as the mouth of the Patuxent, and was not permitted to return, lest the intended attack on Baltimore should be disclosed. He was therefore brought up the Bay to the mouth of the Patuxent, when the flag vessel was kept under the guns of a frigate and he was compelled to witness the bombardment of Fort McHenry, which the admiral had boasted that he would carry in a few hours, and the city must fall.—He watched the flag at the Fort, through the whole day, with an anxiety that can be better felt than described, until the night prevented him from seeing it. In the night he watched the bomb-shells, and at early dawn, his eye was again greeted by the proudly waving flag of his Country:

BY F. S. KEYS, ESQ.

Oh! say can you see by the dawn's early light, What so proudly we hail'd at the twilight's last gleaming, Whose broad stripes and bright stars, through the perilous fight, O'er the ramparts we watch'd, were so gallantly streaming—

And the Rocket's red glare, the Bombs bursting in air, Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there, O'er the Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave

Where the foe's haughty host in defiance stood, Where the hero's bold beams, through the mist of the deep, As it fitfully blows, half conceal'd, half disclose, Now it catches the gleam of the morning's first beam,

In full glory reflected, now shines on the stream, 'Tis the Star-Spangled Banner, O! long may it wave O'er the Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave.

And where is that band, who so vauntingly swore, That the havoc of war and the battle's confusion, A home and a country shall leave us no more? Their blood has wash'd out their foul footsteps' pollution,

No refuge could save, the hireling and slave, From the terror of flight or the gloom of the grave, And the Star-Spangled Banner in triumph shall wave, O'er the Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave.

O! thus be it ever, when freemen shall stand, Between their lov'd home and the war's desolation, Blest with vict'ry and peace, may the heav'n grac'd land, Praise the Power that hath made and preserved us a Nation;

Then conquer we must, when our cause is just; And this be our motto, "In God is our trust." And the Star-Spangled Banner in triumph shall wave, O'er the Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave.

DEATH THROUGH THE BITE OF A CAT.—

On Friday the North Durham coroner held an inquest in the village of Harton on the body of a little boy named Robert Wilson Hunter, son of an exciseman, who died in fearful agony on Tuesday night, of hydrophobia, through the bite of a cat. It appeared that in November last the poor little boy was standing in his father's garden, when a cat came running down a passage in great agitation. Thinking the animal was chased by dogs, the poor little fellow caught it in his arms. But no sooner had the poor child done so, than the infuriated animal caught him by the hand, and held it tenaciously until the father of the child came and choked it off. The poor little boy's hand was fearfully torn, the muscle being much lacerated. The child was immediately conveyed to a surgeon's, and the wound carefully dressed. After about three weeks the wound appeared to heal, and the boy to enjoy his ordinary health, until Monday (week), when he was taken ill. Very alarming symptoms soon supervened, and a surgeon being sent for, he pronounced it decided cases of hydrophobia. (Tuesday, Dr. Bram, of Sunderland, was called in, but after spending a distressing day, the poor little fellow was relieved from his sufferings by death about midnight on that day. The cat, which belonged to a grocer in the village, had been destroyed the day it bit the boy. The jury returned a verdict that the child died of hydrophobia, caused by the bite of a cat.—London Daily News

DECIDEDLY COOL.—

The Cincinnati Commercial of the 14th inst., says: A leap not less perilous than that of Samuel Patch, was witnessed on Saturday, by the conductor and passengers of the Covington and Lexington train.—A young farmer was walking across the bridge at Demoisville, just after the train had passed over, when the engine suddenly reversed and the cars were backed at a rapid rate. There was no room on the side of the bridge to stand between the edge and the cars; the only alternative was to spring off into the creek running thirty or forty feet below. The young man gave one look at the cars and instantly sprang over the side and struck the water feet foremost. The train was stopped, but to the surprise of all, the hero of the perilous feat came out of the water, shook himself and walked off whistling, "Jordan is a hard road to travel I believe."

RUSSIAN WILD HORSES.—

In the steppes of Russia it is not rare to see a two year old colt rush singly to attack a band of four or five hyndles, kill one or two of them, lame the rest and spread the terror of his name throughout the country. The wild horse strikes with his fore feet like the stag, and not with his hind legs as is popularly believed. He draws himself up to his full height, agitates his enemy, pounds him beneath the shoulders with formidable incisors and tosses him to his mare to make sport for themselves and their offspring.—Household Words.
