Who shall judge a man from manners? Who shall know him by his dress? Paupers may be fit for princes, Princes, fit for something less. Crumbled shirt and dirty jacket May beclothe the golden ore, Of the deepest thoughts and feelings-Satin vest could do no more.

There are springs of crystal nectar Ever swelling out of stone. There are purple buds and golden, Hidden, crushed and over grown; God who counts by souls, not dresses, Loves and prospers you and me,

While he values thrones, the highest, But as pebbles in the sca. Man, upraised above his fellows, Oft forgets his fellow; then Masters-rulers-lords-remember That your meanest hands are men ! Men by labor, men by feeling,

Men by thought and men by fame, Claiming equal rights to sunshine; In a man's ennobled name.

There are foam embroidered oceans ; There are little weed clad rills. There are little inch high saplings, There are cedars on the hills.

But God who counts by souls not stations, Loves and prospers you and me, For to him all vain distinctions

Are as pebbles in the sea. Toiling hands alone are builders Of a nation's wealth and fame: Titled laziness is pensioned,

Fed and fattened on the same. By the sweat of other's foreheads, Living only to rejoice. While the poor man's outraged freedom Vainly lifteth up its voice.

But truth and justice are eternal, Born with loveliness and light, And sunset's wrongs shall never prosper, Where there is a sunny right: And God, whose world-heard voice is singing Boundless love to you and me,

Will sink oppression with its titles, As the pebbles of the sea.
