So too of our principles. While we been found to be unpopular, we have no new ones to announce merely for popular effect. Our principles have come down to us embalmed by time, and with the sign manual of the fathers add new articles to the democratic creed, these articles to be democratic must have for their object the extension of popular rights and the perpetuation of popular liberty. Very different, gentlemen, is the past history and present position of our political adversaries. That party in 1841, being then in power in both houses of Congress, pull shed what they called a Whig manifesto, which was to make plain what was before considered somewhat doubtful Whig principles. It was a Whig creed, and what was it? It consisted of a Bank of the United States with the strongest powers-a high Tariff for the protection of Northern manufactures-Internal improvement by the Federal Government—Distribution of the proceeds of the Public Lands—abrogation of veto power in the Constitution—and a general Bankrupt States, our thanks for their manty, principal and national course on this question. law for the payment of debts. And be it further enacted, That from and after the passage of this act, every proposal for naval supplies invited by the Secretary of the Navy, under the provise to the general appropriation bill for the navy, approved March third, eighteen hundred and forty-three, shall be accompanied by a written guarantee, signed by one or more responsible persons, to the effect that he or they undertake that the bidder or bidders will, if his or their bid be accepted, enter into an obligation, in such time as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy with good and sufficient sureties, to furnish the supplies proposed. No proposal shall be considered unless accompanied by such guarantee. If after the acceptance of a proposal and a notification thereof to the bidder or bidders, he or they shall fail to enter into an obligation within the time prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy, with good and sufficient sureties for furnishing the supplies, then the Secretary of the Navy shall proceed to contract with some other person or persons for furnishing the said suppries ; and shall forthwith cause the difference between the amount contained in the proposal so guarantied and the amount for which he may have contracted for furnishing the said supples for the whole period of proposal to be charged up againts said bidder or bidders, and his or their guarantor or guarantors; and the same may be immediately recovered by the United States, for the use of the Navy Department, in an action of debt against either or all of said persons.

JOINT RESOLUTION relative to bids for provisions, clothing and small stores for the use of the navy. Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That all bids for supplies of provisions clothing, and small stores for the navy may be rejected, at the option of the department, if made by one who is not known as a manufacturer of, or regular dealer in, the article proposed to be furnished, which fact, or the reverse, must be distinctly stated in the bids effered; that the bids of all persons who may have failed to comply with the conditions of any contracts they may have previously entered into with the United States shall, at the eption of the department, be rejected; that if more than one bid be offered for the supply of an article on account of any one party either in his own name, or in the name of his partner, clerk, or any other person, the whole of such bids shall be rejected at the option of the department; and that copartners of any firm shall not be received as sureties for each other; and that, whenever it may be deemed necessary, for the interest of the government and the health of the crews of the United States vessels, to procure particular brands of flour which are known to keep lest on distant stations, the Bureau of Provisions and Clothing, with the approbation of the Secretary of the Navy, be, and hereby is, authorized to procure the same on the best terms, in market overt.

Approved 27 March, 1854.
