"Having often noticed that an experienced nurse would endeavor to arrest the attention of a new born infant, not by showing it some pretty toy but talking to it as if it were an intelligent being, I took this for my guide; and preparing myself for the task, laid upon the floor an hour each day reading aloud to this of Lie imbecile boy, as if he understood me perfectly. the one day, instead of lying on the floor, I sat in a chair. In a few minutes I saw, by his making an effort to move, that he had missed me. As an effort to move, that he had missed me: As soon as I again placed myself by his side he stopped fretting and appeared pleased. Here, then, I had a 'fuleram on which to rest my lever.' At the next lesson, instead of reading. aloud, I read to myself. He noticed my silence, and slowly putting his hand to my mouth, attempted to open my lips. Upon reading aloud again he expressed his pleasure by a smile. This practice of reading and talking was steadily persevered in for a number of weeks, during which time 1 was enabled to gain his confidence little by little; and during the four years which this Bank will be held at their Banking House on the followed he more than answered my highest expectations, becoming a marvel to his friends and those who had previously known him. At the end of that time, he could read intelligently

ROTATER OF INDIAN LIVE.- A private sol-dier, we ting from Fort Laranie, March 12, mention the following incidents of the massacre Grattan:

"It ill give you two facts connected with is sacre which I have never seen in the troops he rallied her tather and brother to preserve her lover. When he fell wounded she rushed o him to protect him from the arrows or perch with him. Her father shot several arrows it the other Indians, and was wounded himself in the zealous defence of the soldiers Then he sat down and wept, as he could do no more. The hostile Indians then rushed on the wounder soldier, tore him from the embrace of his fath'ul squaw, and scalped him before her eyes. A ter this she could not be prevailed upon to eat o drink, and starved to death, dying in nine ders, and glad to go to regain the presence of im she loved so dearly." -----

Profesor Bollman, of the Russian Agricultural Institute has published a pamplet on the pote o rot, and he announces to the world that mere drying, if conducted at a sufficiently high to perature, and continued long enough is a complete antidote to the disease. This result is a scertained by repeated experiment made the sun, and that he gave us the rain. I then asked him what be thought of God? His reply was 'good God.' I then asked how he felt towards that 'good God.' His answer was as natural as it was beautiful, 'I should like to kiss Him?'' A GENEROUS SUBSCRIPTION.—A western corstood 136 degrees, and more. He also ascer-tained hat the vitality of the potato is not affected even if the rind is charred. This hint may be iseful, and with similar experiments,
