Fast the moments now are fleeing, Each one laidened with despair. It is a day so dark and dreary-

Dreary to the best of men, But the heart must grow weary, Locked up in a loathsome den. In this dismal cell I'm weeping-Weeping bitter briny tears, While my heart is converse keeping

With its startling doubts and fears. Soon life's turmoil will be ended--Soon this heart will cease to beat, And my spirit unattended, Stand before the Judgment seat. Oh my soul! the thought of dying-Dying as the Felon dies, Without one hope on which relying For a transit to the skies.

Oh thou dark mysterious dwelling Of the disembodied soul, Hast thou not some foretaste, telling Something for the heart's console; Hast thou not some spirit living

'Mid the lowly haunts of men, Through whom instruction thou art giving What befalls the spirit then; Oh that now I might inherit Something from that blest abode-

Something like an Angel's spirit, To guide me o'er this untried road. God of Mercy take my spirit When it quits this world of pain,

I ask it not through any merit, Well I know such plea were vain; But a sinner humbly praying-Praying thou his soul to take, Conscious oft of disobeying,

THE GOOD TIME COMING.

When in the course of human events "A Treatment" shall have been discovered, by which a large amount of human suffering can be relieved, and the feeble and emaciated male strong and healthy, 'tis evident the "good time" so long coming, has come at last. A large portion of the afflictions to which flesh is heir, falls to the lot of the weaker sex, and strange as it may seem, they will suffer for years before consulting one of the medical profession. The author of this does not write for the purpose of attracting the attention of sufferers, or imposing upon those who honor him with their patronage-that this is true, and to coinfirm which he would here state, that where the patient is responsible, and will give bond and security for the faithful following of directions and payment of my fees, no fee will be received until sat sfaction shall be given.

All complaints peculiar to females, and all the deplorable and distressing causes leading thereto, and consequences that as certainly follow, can be removed and cured, and the patient restored to health and vigor by a treatment pleasant and safe, and without any unpleasant consequences whatever.
Also, all long standing chronic complaints, in persons of any age or sex. Scrofula, Rheumatism. Dropsy. Palsy, Tetter, Cancer, Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhoa, In all of which I will warrant a permanent cure. I shall visit Favetteville frequently during the months of October, November and December, I can be found at my room at the Fayetteville Hotel, during the day and evening of the 13th and 14th, and from the 17th to the 22d of the present month. and the bones already affected. NOTICE.—Letters from responsible Physicians and Professors of several Medical Colleges, and certificates of cures from patients will be found accompanying both Preparations. Prices, Fluid Extract of Buchn, $1 per bottle, or 6
