DEDICATED TO AN EMPEROR. "What are those people reading?" Said, Frederick, half aloud, While, standing by the window, He saw an eager crowd.

High on a wall adjoining A paper had been stuck: The people stood on tip-toe To read, with wonder struck.

One of his six-foot guardsmen Who heard him, answered, "Sire, Your majesty permitting, I hasten to enquire."

Soon, flushed with indignation, The guard returned-"I see "I's an atrocions libel Upon your Majesty!"

The King took out his snuff-box, With more of smile than frown-"A libel, my good fellow! Well, go, and take it down."

"Yes, Sire!"-"Friend, stop a moment:-You'll take it down, indeed; But just to place it lower, So all with ease may read."

'Tis done-around the soldier Amazed the people stand. And question of his doings-"Tis by the King's command!

Or said, by friend or foe, Content to ask his people, Are these things true or no?" They spurned away the libel; Its words had lost their weight;-

"He cares not what is written,

"Live Frederick the Great!" Now, this was not the weakness Of a good-natured fool-It was the manly wisdom Of one that knew to rule.

A thunder rolled to heaven-

Thou who to France hast given Her former power and glery, Complete thy own, by taking The moral of my story.

Trust in thyself and people-In fines and prisons less-To make all libels harmless, Give Freedom to the Press!"

 Sukey Smith.

Miss Sukey Smith had flaxen hair, Her daddy had the pewter, Her eyes were gray, and looked serene, Upon her favored suitor.

That suitor was a jolly youth, So numble, lithe and brawny; The yellow fever took him off Away to Californy.

And when I heard that he was gone, 'It's now," said I, "or never!" I shav'd myself and greased my shoes, And tried to look right clever.

I rigged myself from top to toe, And caught and mounted Dobbin, But all the way, I rode along, My heart it kept a throbbin'

And when I reached her daddy's house, It still kept up a thumpin', But when I saw the lovely maid, It kinder stopped a jumpin.

'Twas half-past ten, when at her feet, I knelt, and yet, ere dinner, With honeyed speech and winning ways, I had contrived to win her.

Some months elapsed-to set the day, I now began to press her; I orged, entreated, plead in vain-In vain did I caress her.

While matters were thus cross and pile, My clothes all growing seedy, My rival from the mines returned, Still for Miss Sakey greedy.

I saw him kinder sidle up And slip his arm around her; When, heaven and earth! she let him kiss Tuem precious lips! Confound her!

I told her that I was surprised— My eyes had sure deceived me-And asked her to renew her vows, And from suspense relieve me.

When, don't you think, the tarnal gal, Her thumb up to her smeller, Her fingers wriggling, as she said: "Can't come it, little feller."

THE PLOATING BALLS OR KNUCKLE WASHING MACHINE.

The subscriber having purchased the Right of the above Machine for the Counties of Cumberland and Harnett, is now ready to furnish such as may sirous of obtaining a Right. The machine is simple. both in its structure and operations, and should any portion of it ful, can be easily and speedily repaired by any person having the use of tools. I do not claim for this machine more than what it is able to perform with that description of labor which almost every family is able to supply, without at all interfering with the ordinary duties. In the first place a child 12 or 15 years of age can performall the labor, after having seen it operate a few times, and if the directions are adhered to, will do as much work in one day as three or four women in the ordinary way, and the work will be much better done. Below will be found a certificate from those who have purchased and now have in use one of these machines

ISHAM BLAKE. April 12, 1856. 93-tf

FAVETTEVILLE, N. C., April 9, 1856. We, the undersigned, having purchased of Mr Isham Blake one of the above machines, cordially recommend it to the favor of the Public. It washes very rapidly, and the work is much better done than is usually done in the old way, and with less wear to the Clothing. It far exceeds our expectations, and has only to be seen in operation to satisfy the most skeptical of its ntility and economy. We have no doubt of its being generally used wherever introduced.
