ESCO BO'B' H WO AL MA.

The Political Ride --- 1 Campaign Song. Air-"Susannah. A sight I saw the other night, When all the world was still, For then I saw the Woolly Horse, A going down the hill; He looked as if he wanted feed And drink from out the fountains, And oft turned back his eager gaze Towards the Rocky Mountains. Oh. Buck and Breck,

You'll surely win the day, The Woolly Horse has gone to grass, Burning Flaid, So all the people say.

He drew a curious looking chaise, And Fremont sat therein, With Horace Greely by his side, Both on friendly grin. "The horse is getting very tired," Quoth Greely; then, sub rosa, "I think we'll surely need some aid From out your Mariposa." Oh, &c., &c.

Frement replied, "I have it there, With that we'll make a speek, And talk of valor, gold and snow, And slander Buck and Breck." Said Greely "that will never do Without some other figures;" And, winking, both at once cried out, "We have it with the niggers." Oh, &c., &c.

Thus onward rode the gallant pair, Of humbur matters talking, Of tariff, bank and special bills, For bogus and defaulting-When lo! they saw far in advance Old Buck was going in; "We'll lose," cried Greely, in despair, "Our horse can never win."

Oh, &c., &c. "In spite of mountains, gold and snow, I tell you now 'tis flat, Old Buck and Breck will win the day, And I shall lose that hat!" The White Hou e then came full in view,

And Back and Breck rushed in, While all the people londly eried, "Fremont, you cannot win!" O.t. de., de.
