

Her skirts swelled out in wide array From her "hoop-de-dooden-do!"

Her lord had gone a great way off, (And stopped too long there too,) So the lady increased her skirts at home With her hoop-de-dooden-do!

Long months rolled on-a year flew by, (To stop time never sue.) Still the lady's skirts in fashion stuck out. From her hoop-de-dooden-do!

Toward winter time, her lord came home, (Perhaps his nose looked blue,) He "smelt a mice"—he stared at the skirts And their hoop-de-dooden-do!

At length he spake unto his wife, (Now good wives all speak true,) "My dear what makes your skirts swell out?" "Why, my hoop-de-dooden-do!"

The good man saw 'twas fashion's whim, (E'en a fashion wives pursue,) But he vows his wife's skirt scared him so With her hoop-de-dooden-do!

To Miss 1--- . My love is like the scented wreath That twines a marble statue round; Long has it wasted there its breath, And yet no kind response has found. And still prolongs its painful strife, To warm the statue into life.

My love is like an altar fire, Springing toward its deity; How ardently its flames aspire, How faithful its idolatry! If it one answering sigh can gain, Oh! then it has not burned in vain.

My love is like a sunbeam bright, That shines upon a wintry cloud; Oh! what a joy to find its light Reflected from that icy shroud. One ray returned, one kindred smile, Were purchased cheap with all its toil.

Thou art the marble! Wilt thou give No token of a soul within? That art the goddess! See, I live One warm heart's smile from thee to win Thou art the cloud! Return the light, Ere it be quenched in joyless night.

A Toast.

If he to whom this toast we drink, Has brought the needy to his door; Or faised the wretch from ruin's brink, From the abundance of his store; If he has soothed the mourner's woe, Or helped young merit into fame. This night our cups shall overflow In honor of his name.

If he be poor, and yet has striven To ease the load of human care; If to the famished he has given One loaf that it is hard to share; If, in his poverty erect,

He never did a deed of shame, Fill high! we'll drain in deep respect, A bumper to his name.

But rich or poor, if still his plan Has been to play an honest part; If he ne'er failed his word to man, Or broke a trusty woman's heart: If emulation fire his soul To snatch the meed of virtuous fame. Fill high! we'll drain a flowing bowl In honor of his name.

SPRITG.

Oh! the spring time is coming With song, bird, bee and flower; And the long bright days are dawning On grove and sunlit bower; On the hill-top, in the meadow Its balmy breeze will play, Ever bringing some sweet token From opening leaf and spray.

Oh! the spring time is coming, With peace on its golden wing; War storm hash'd and red flag furled, We may reap, and work and sing; While we watch the cornfields ripen 'Neath the sunlight's kindly ray, Let us thank the hand that scatters

These great blessings on our way.

CAN EPILIPSY BE CURED We thing the following letter from a respectable eitizen of Mississippi will answer the question, and remove all doubts from every unbiased mind;

GRENADA, Miss., June 5, 1855

Greanda, Miss:, June 5, 1855

Dr. Seth S. Hance, Baltimore Md.—Dear Sir: I take great pleasure in relating a case of spasms or fits, cured by your invalvable Pills. My brother J. J. Ligon, has long been afflicted with this awful disease. He was first attacked while quite young. He would have one or two spasms at one attack at first; but as he grew older, they seemed to increase likewise. Up to the time he commenced taking your Pills, he had them very often and quite severe, prostrating him body and mind. His mind had suffered seriously; but now; I am happy to say he is cured of those fits. He has enjoyed fine health for the last five months past. His mind has also returned to its original sprightliness. All this I take great pleasure in communicating, as it may be the means of directing others to the remedy hat will cure them. Yours respectfully, &c.

W. P. LIGON.

PROSPECTUS OF THE

SOUTHERN LITERARY MESSENGER For the Year 1856. July to December. TWENTY-THIRD VOLUME.

In issuing the Prospectus of the Twenty-Third Volume of the SOUTHERN LITERARY MESSENGER. ume of the SOUTHERN LITERARY MESSENGER. commencing with the July No., the Proprietors rely solely on the encouraging letters and promises of the friends of the Messenger to aid them in extending its circulation, and they beg to assure the public that no exertions will be remitted on their part to maintain the high character of the work, and to challenge the patronage of all who value sterling literary merit. For Twenty-One Years, the Messenger has endeavored to reflect faithfully the Southern mind, while disdaining all narrow and sectional views, and has been alone all narrow and sectional views, and has been alone among the monthly periodicals of America, in defence of the PECULIAR INSTITUTIONS OF THE SOUTHERN STATES. To this office it will be devoted, and will be prompt to repel assaults upon the South, whether they come under the specious gark of fiction. or in the direct form of anti-slavery pamphlets. At this critical juncture, while our enemies are employing literature as their most potent weapons of attack, the Southern people will surely not withhold their encouragement from a work whose aim it shall be to strike blows in their defence.
