I LOVED THEE ONCE.

I loved thee once—oh! how I loved! What deep impassioned love was mine, When my whole heart was fully thing, None but immortal words can tell! When in may spirit's every cell, My idol thou didst ever dwell,

And own an hourty worshipped shrine, an altar where I loved to twine The tendrals of my heart.

I loved thee once-but now 'it's passed: Twas but a summer evening's dream Twas but a wisp upon the stream of my young life, that floated on I's waters for a moment, then was gone, Down into talsehood's whirlpool drawn. All now that oace cerp love doth seem B it like a setting star's last beam,

Lost in the prow of day I loved thee our - and say to me, D dst thou not tell me that thy heart that as I was a love in put As that I breathe in every you?

of then itwas so perhaps, but how as that affection withered now! I loved then once -but now thou art A share put in controlly's much Not to be hough' by me. ----TO LUZZE.

Thou art gone from me now! thou art gone from me now, And the light of thy sweet maiden smile has departed. And left but the signet of grief on the brow Of the set stricken one thou left hast broken henricul

Thou art gone far away from the places so And hast left but one token of mem'ry behind thee: That soft silken tress of thy rich auburn

Alone thou hast left of thy love to remind

Oh! dearer, far dearer than ruby and pearl, Are the thoughts which that ringlet will est cash price for Turpentine until further notice. Sept. 3, 1850. 'M.I cares pressing thickly and trouble's wild Thon I vel'st me once and that mem'ry will part and expect to receive the balance of their recent purchases in a few days. Their Stock will be much larger and more complete than they have ever offered.

And play round my heart like a sunbeam

Undiamed in its lustre though Time's iron All else of the past and its hist'ry destroy.

Then I'll keep it, I'll keep it, that bright

And caerish it ever to cheer and to bless, While the spell of its charm is yet strong and unbroken.

Fare thee well! fare thee well! may God's blessing attend thee, And the arm of his providence guard thee from ill! Is the prayer that my hearts deep affection send thee, Though its pulse may soon cease and its throbbings be still !!
