po I LOVE TREE?

Do I love thee? Ask the poet If he loves the twilight hour, Ask the wild bird if it loves

To dwell in its woodland bower. DoI love thee? Ask the streamlet If it loves to wander on, Ask the flower if it loves

The golden sunset's dawn. Do I love thee! Can the ocean Cease at will its raging tide! Can the eagle in its flight. Cease to spread its pinions wide.

Do I love thee? Can an exile E'er forget his native land? Can the wavelet cease to linger Sweetly on the pebbled strand?

Do I jove thee? When the torrent Stops to kiss the lilies white; When the silver robe has fallen From the reigning Queen of night?

When the lark has ceased its singing To the morning sun in glee-Then my heart will sadly falter. Then I'll cease to think of Thee!

We do not hold ourselves personally respon side for the re-publication of the following "Thought on Woman."

What makes a woman now a days? Intelligence? good looks?

A mind where all the virtues dwell? No-dry goods hung on hoops! Ho! whales, that sail the briny deep, Repine not at your fate; Your flesh illuminates the world-Your bones make women great!

All would be great-but all don't like A course of education; Schools, study, books—ah! what are those Compar'd with inflatation?

These Periodicals ably represent the three great political parties of Great Britain—Whig. Tory, and Radical.—but politics forms only one feature of their character. As Organs of the most profound writers character. As Crgans of the most profound writers on Science, Literature, Morality, and Religion, they stand, as they ever have stood, unrivaled in the world of letters, being indispensible to the scholar and the professional man, while to the inteligent reader of every class they furnish a more correct and satisfac
