WM. BOW.

NORTH CAROLINIAN OFFICE FOR SALE.

This Establishment with all its fixtures necessary for carrying on the Printing business, is now offered for sale. For particulars, address G. W. WIGHTMAN, at this place.

FOR GOVERNOR HON. JOHN W. ELLIS. OF ROWAN COUNTY.

The North Carolinian Establishment has been removed to the Hardie Building, on the North East Corner of Market Square. The Office is in the story above P. Taylor's Store.

In consequence of the change alluded to above. We can only give our readers a half sheet this week. We know they all will take this as a sufficient apology.

The Democratic delegates appointed to the Cumberland and Harnett Convention will remember the said body assembled in Fayetteville on Tuesday next. A full attendance is desirable.

The Kansas Bill Passed.

On Friday last the bill reported by the Committee of Conference passed both Houses. The vote in the Senate was 31 to 22, and in the House 112 to 103. All the North Carolina delegation voted for it [Mr. Gilmer into the bargain]. Thus it will be seen that this vexed subject is hushed for the present session at least, and we hope forever.

The Washington Union of the 1st inst. thus alludes to the passage of the Bill:

"Both the House and the Senate adjourned yesterday by a decided majority, the conference bill admitting Kansas into the Union under the Leocompton constitution. This result is one which will give peace to the country and relieve the national legislature of a subject which has not only engrossed nearly all its time, but has been a means of discord and estrangement between the members of the Democratic party which every patriot must have deeply lamented. We doubt not, and the result which we announce to-day with unmingled satisfaction abundantly proves, that, with few exceptions, it has been the determination of Democratic members and senators faithfully to adhere to the great doctrines of self-government which formed the basis of the Cincinnati platform, upon which Mr. Buchanan was elected to the chief magistracy of the Union. Perhaps it was no more than might have been expected that, in enforcing for the first time after the express repeal of the Missouri Compromise, and the utter repudiation of the Wilmot Proviso, on this principle of difference of opinion would arise and great difficulties be encountered, even to the extent of putting to hazard the success of the measure adopted as a medium of its application. Happily, these disagreements, which so recently threatened the success of the measure finally adopted by the Democratic party of the two houses, after the most anxious deliberation, were so far accommodated as to command a majority in both branches of the legislature and the cordial approval of the President and his cabinet. In reaching this auspicious conclusion, the most extraordinary events have intervened, which cannot fail to make a deep impression upon the country. The Leocompton constitution, assailed with bitter ferocity at the opening of the session, four months ago, and denounced as a usurpation and a fraud in the course of legislation upon it, has received an affirmative endorsement from every member of the House of Representatives."

The President signed the bill on the 3d inst.

Hon. Asa Biggs of the U. S. Senate has been appointed Judge of the U. S. District Court by the death of Judge [Name]. The appointment of Mr. Biggs is most acceptable to the Democratic party throughout the State, and he will no doubt, fill the position satisfactorily to all parties concerned.

The political sagacity of the Register, which discovers so many potential reasons for promoting Mr. McRae, will not be credited to the account of its honesty; they are too pointedly adopted to the unhappy condition of its party, and too shabbily transparent for even the thick veil of Patriotism.

As long as a principle of opposition could be made out of Catholics and Foreigners, know-nothings was strangely oblivious to the mighty importance of Distribution, and the serious perils envying the interests of North Carolina, and has only become conscious, when the poverty and extinction of its party demands fresh capital to give vitality to its consumptive press.

The representative of a party which required as a passport into their ranks an oath "never to vote for a Democrat," now declares his identity with an avowed member of that hated party, and admits it to be his duty to advocate his claims, and that too upon the merits of a measure which the editorial head of the Register concedes to be the policy of James Buchanan.

Whatever "disgust" Mr. McRae may now feel for Platforms, his proficiency in the construction of such party furniture is very suggestive, nor will the approbation of the Register make this sudden rebellion against party lines any the less awkward. It is consistent enough for the appreciation of know-nothingism, we admit, for no platform of that party ever commanded sufficient respect from its framers to observe any principle in

D. K. McRAE'S ANNOUNCEMENT.

The following startling announcement, we find in the Raleigh Register, of Wednesday.

"RALEIGH, April 26, 1858."

FELLOW-CITIZENS:—In announcing myself to you as a candidate for your suffrages at the election to be held in next August for the office of Governor, I take the occasion to repeat the regret I have often expressed that some one else better qualified to maintain and uphold the great question, I have been for the last six months endeavoring to present to you, has not consented to take, or continue in the field. In this state of the case, I have not been able to resist the appeals which have been made to me by men of all parties, and without reference to party to consent to be a candidate.

No man who has a proper appreciation of the popular dignity can fail to be impressed with the responsibility of asking to have conferred upon him the chief executive Magistracy of North Carolina, and no man of ordinary sensibility can fail in a right estimation of the honor and distinction of being thus selected by the voice of the people. I am justly mindful of one and the other, and it is with unaffected diffidence of my merits and ability that I make this announcement. I am only sustained by the consciousness, that I shall bring to your service if honored by your choosing, a heart deeply devoted to the welfare of our beloved mother, and wholly determined to strive after her interests, and faithfully to maintain her honor and integrity. I know that all questions of policy ought to be presented fairly to the people, and I shall frankly meet all interrogations upon every issue which may arise. Having no platform purposely constructed to be equivocal on which to stand without restraint by any dictation of caucus and having ample freedom of movement without danger of "missing the plank," I shall be able candidly to set forth to the people my views and sentiments. Seeking to obtain no man's vote by concealment, artifice, or evasion my language shall be used to express and not to hide, my opinions.

It is well known that I am opposed to any increase of the State debt, or any addition to her liability, at this time, for works of Internal Improvement. Nevertheless, I am an advocate of the completion of our present system, and of extending aid to other most important works, now slighted or neglected. I do not exaggerate or over-estimate the means when I say that if I can lead the people of North Carolina to adopt the plan I shall present, our Rail Roads can be at once extended to the Valley of the Mississippi. The old town of Fayetteville, the only market town of our State in the interior, situated on a river really navigable, the nearest market for our friends of the West, now within 40 miles of our vast mineral resources, and just in this moment cut off and isolated, may be restored to communication with her former customers. Steam enterprize from our Eastern harbors may be undertaken, and all worthy objects of improvement entered on and completed, without additional burden upon people, while the present debt may be speedily extinguished and our present heavy taxation removed.

What this plan is, I shall present in detail at the proper time, as I have already in part done. It is known that in politics I have been always a Democrat. From my youth up, the records of this party bear testimony to my service and fidelity. There is now no organized opposition. Both candidates, in all likelihood, will be willing to have the votes of those differing from them in politics. It shall be my effort to deprive the canvass of a party character—to secure to the people for one time, the selection of a Governor without reference to his political affiliations. My appeal shall be made to my fellow citizens in the mass. If they deem me worthy, and clothe me with the high trust to which I aspire, I will endeavor so to hold the reins of Government as to guide old North Carolina out of her difficulties and embarrassments, into the paths of prosperity and peace.

Your friend and old servant, D. K. McRAE.

So the Farmer is out and the broad banner of Distribution is unfurled to the popular breeze. Broad acres now, vast domains, hush in abundance to every man that will vote for Duncen K. McRae!

We would suggest to Farmer Duncen! to carry a package of Lottery tickets around.—He could certainly sell one to any democrat that swallows the bait of Distribution.

An issue intrinsically and practically obsolete every where else on earth, is awakened into startling importance by new-born greatness in North Carolina; a question of national policy, which has moulded away from its very insignificance, is suddenly restored to vast and vital consequence, and invested with "life and death" interest to every man, woman and child in North Carolina.

The barren fields of the old North State are to bloom in fertile glory; the log cabins of her waste places are gorgeous palaces, her villages grow into cities, and her creeks and rivers flow with milk and honey.

The Ballings will desert their muddy haunts, Salamanders crawl into Virginia, and wire-grass turn to Buck-wheat. What inviting auspices to crown the advent of a patriot.—What aly such a grand project as Distribution will admit of so short a definition as Duncen K. McRae!

Wonder how the dear man could bear the suspense of 4 years exile from his beloved State, so mindful of her interests as he was, so tenacious of her rights as he was, and so anxious to have her honor and independence restored to her!

The political sagacity of the Register, which discovers so many potential reasons for promoting Mr. McRae, will not be credited to the account of its honesty; they are too pointedly adopted to the unhappy condition of its party, and too shabbily transparent for even the thick veil of Patriotism.

As long as a principle of opposition could be made out of Catholics and Foreigners, know-nothings was strangely oblivious to the mighty importance of Distribution, and the serious perils envying the interests of North Carolina, and has only become conscious, when the poverty and extinction of its party demands fresh capital to give vitality to its consumptive press.

The representative of a party which required as a passport into their ranks an oath "never to vote for a Democrat," now declares his identity with an avowed member of that hated party, and admits it to be his duty to advocate his claims, and that too upon the merits of a measure which the editorial head of the Register concedes to be the policy of James Buchanan.

Whatever "disgust" Mr. McRae may now feel for Platforms, his proficiency in the construction of such party furniture is very suggestive, nor will the approbation of the Register make this sudden rebellion against party lines any the less awkward. It is consistent enough for the appreciation of know-nothingism, we admit, for no platform of that party ever commanded sufficient respect from its framers to observe any principle in it, not even the one which declares that "office shall seek the man and not man the office," as in the case of the Distribution Campaign. We deny that any dignity belongs to the position taken by Mr. McRae, upon the issue presented in his claims for office, nor will the support of all the know-nothing papers in the State inspire us with any more confidence.

Upon the whole, we think Mr. McRae has fallen into bad hands, but for his consolation will venture upon the same sage prophecy of one of our contemporaries that "if enough Democrats vote for him he will be elected."

Mr. McRae's Appointments.

We are requested to publish the following appointments to the Distribution Campaign for Governor, D. K. McRae, Esq.:

- Monroe, Union County, Tuesday, May 11th. Wadesborough, Anson, Thursday, 13th. Rockingham, Richmond, Saturday, 15th. Carthage, Moore, Monday, 17th. Greensborough, Guilford, Tuesday, 18th. Lumberton, Robeson, Friday, 21st. Clinton, Sampson, Saturday, 22d. Koonsville, Duplin, Monday, 24th. Mosely Hill, Lenoir, Wednesday, 26th. Snow Hill, Greene, Friday, 28th. Greenville, Pitt, Monday, 31st.

Mr. McRae having accepted an invitation several weeks ago, to deliver an address before the Female College at Greensborough, on the 19th inst. it is impossible for him to be at Fayetteville on the 19th, or Fayetteville on the 20th. It is probable he will speak at another time in Fayetteville.

Candidates for the Legislature.

The Democratic Convention of Mecklenburg county, has nominated W. F. Davidson, Esq. for the Senate, and Messrs W. Wallace and James M. Hutchison, for the Commons.

In Moore County, Dr. John Shaw, is the Democratic Candidate for the Commons.

Hon David S. Reid.

We are pained to learn that the health of our Senator, David S. Reid, is rather worse. We see it stated that he has lately had two or three attacks of hemorrhage of the lungs which have so prostrated him that his recovery is considered very doubtful. It is to be hoped that the life of this useful man may be spared for the benefit of his country.

The 42d Annual Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in the Diocese of this State will be held in St. Paul's Church, Edenton, on the 13th inst.

The Deficiency Bill passed both Houses of Congress on the 30th ult.

Complimentary to our Military Companies.

The Editor of the Charlotte Democrat, who was present at the Newbern Celebration Speaks of the LaFayette and Independent Light Infantry Companies, in the following manner:

"Without meaning the least disparagement to other Companies (for they were all fine) we think the Lafayette Light Infantry and the Independent Companies carried off the palm for being the best drilled. The LaFayette Light Infantry, commanded by Maj. Cook, is decidedly the prettiest Company in the State and their fine band of music (composed of members of the Company) cannot be excelled any where. The Fayetteville Independent Lt. Inf. Company, Maj. Drayton, is the second oldest Company in the United States being now in its 65th year for gallant bearing and all the qualities that constitute the true soldier, it will compare favorably with the best."

COMMUNICATED.

For the North Carolinian. LEAD QUARTERS. LA FAYETTE LT. INFANTRY. MAY 6, 1858.

At a meeting of this Corps held at the Armory this day 7 1/2 o'clock P. M. the following resolutions were unanimously adopted.

Resolved, That the hearty thanks of this Company are hereby tendered to the Wilmington Light Infantry for their cordial reception, their generous attention and their generous hospitality—that their dignified port and martial bearing made us feel proud to be associated with them as fellow soldiers—and whenever we recur to the pleasures of our trip to Newbern we can but acknowledge that the Wilmington Light Infantry contributed their full quota to our enjoyment.

Resolved, That to the Newbern Light Infantry we are indebted for many acts of kindness and that our recollections of them will ever be connected with thoughts of chivalry and gallantry.

Resolved, That while from the known character of the town of Newbern we expected a warm greeting; yet we were entirely unprepared for the whole-souled, heart-felt welcome which was on every hand extended to us—and that from the intelligence, refinement, wealth and unbounded hospitality of its citizens the town of Newbern well deserves the name which it bore of yore—the Athens of North Carolina.

Resolved that we return our sincere thanks to Capt. S. L. Fremont, Engineer & Surveyor General, assisted by conductors Messrs. Morris and Gardner on the W. & W. Rail Road, for their attention and efficiency on the train to and from Newbern, that nothing was wanting on the part to render our trip both safe and pleasant.

Resolved, That we are especially indebted to Messrs. Rush and Orrell of the Steamer Sun for their kindness and attention in providing for our comfort and enjoyment during our trip down and up the River.

(From the minutes) W. G. MATTHEWS, J. A. PEMBERTON, W. A. OSER, T. C. FULLER, Committee.
