

NORTH CAROLINIAN
FAYETTEVILLE, N. C.

SATURDAY, August 13, 1859.

SINCLAIR & BANKS, Editors.

Poor Old Fayetteville.
In looking over the N. C. Standard of Oct. 26th 1846 we were not a little amused at the following paragraph:

"We have been honored by the Committee with an invitation to attend the Fall Convention in Fayetteville on the 4th of next month, to take into consideration the subject of completing the link between this place and Camden; but owing to our numerous engagements, we fear we shall not find it convenient to be present."

So Fayetteville did once expect to have a Rail Road run through her. Well that has failed long ago and its memory is buried in oblivion. Certainly it was presumption in her to think of it but she was then what it appears all the state has taken her to be since—foolish enough to aspire to a position so high. Ah no! we have had federal whig and every other sort of State administration but poor Fayetteville could get nothing until we were permitted to elect such a sound democrat as J. W. Ellis. Then Fayetteville got a small portion of her dues, but it was hard to get it. What ever Fayetteville has got has been through the Democracy. Whig Governors and whig Legislatures would never have let her had her due so far as they are concerned, and had they been in power to this day we would not have been able to link ourselves with the Egyptians in '59, or receive the mean pittance so much growled at by the East and West. No more than in '46 we could link ourselves with Raleigh and Camden.

The time has long since come when Fayetteville will let the State know how she knows her commercial position and how she manufactures and manufactures. We can't call her a City like Charlotte and New York, yet nevertheless it is a very fine old village.

Now is the time for Fayetteville to make her power known; let her own merchants and capitalists take an interest in her welfare and she is bound to go up.

We have now in Fayetteville five cotton manufacturing; one railroad car manufacturing; one power furniture manufacturing; one (the largest in the South) carriage manufacturing; a large foundry in the course of construction, and now all we want is an appropriation to make the arsenal one of construction and in addition thereto a little more energy on the part of our citizens; a deeper interest in their own prosperity and Fayetteville will be bound to go ahead.

Improvement.
Whilst visiting Wilmington lately, we had the pleasure of accompanying Bro. Fulton of the Journal, through his commodious new building. We would have referred to it, giving our readers an idea of the success which must have accompanied this good, conservative democratic sheet, but the political excitement of the campaign has heretofore prevented it.

The new edifice is now nearly completed. It is built entirely of brick—a very fine article from the establishment of Dr. H. H. Robinson, of Bladen Co. There are four comfortable and commodious offices on the ground floor, the upper portion of the building being used entirely as a printing establishment. Bro. E. has a neat little room which he calls his sanctum, well ventilated and just about large enough to be comfortable. (It is out of this place the thunder comes). On the left and just as you get upon the upper floor, is the business office. This will be occupied by Mr. Price—Associate Editor. The composing room is very large, being 40 feet by 15. We learn that they intend adding a new engine to their establishment.

Salutary.
By the above card, it will be seen that I have associated myself with Mr. P. J. Sinclair, in the publication of the North Carolinian.

Arch'r. T. Banks.
It will be seen by the above that Mr. Pearce refers to-day from this paper, and that I have associated with me, Mr. A. T. Banks, a young gentleman of ability, and a thorough democrat from his youth up.

The following from the Wilmington Journal worthy of consideration by every member of the Editorial corps:
"Our contemporary of the Carolina Standard has kept up quarrels especially with the Democratic press. There are plenty of people to find fault with editors without their unnecessary finding fault with each other. Editors are paid upon a sort of political Moses to lead their people through the wilderness of opposition and enterprise, will in a great degree be diminished.

The working of the present system is other than advantageous to the southern community, for our merchants now have to purchase all imported articles from the northern cities at a large advance upon their first cost, the consequence is the consumers at the south have to pay a double profit upon their purchases.

Direct Importation!
We are gratified to learn from our Wilmington exchanges that a system of direct importation has been or is about to be inaugurated by some of the enterprising merchants of that place.

Atlantic Cable.—We learn that the Atlantic Telegraph Company Limited, of which Bury is chairman of the board and the principal wealthy merchants and bankers of England and America are members.

The Herald.—Bro. Burr of the W. H. Herald is a funny fellow and gets off some good things occasionally. His last is about Maurice Q. Waddell, Esq., who opposed Hon. John A. Gilmer. Here it is:

Sound.
The following sound doctrine we find in that good old democratic organ, the Pittsburg Post.

A New Book.—The proprietors of the "National Police Gazette," a weekly record of crime, published in the city of New York, propose to issue a book called the "Vocabulum or Rogue's Lexicon." This will certainly be a unique production, and it is to be hoped that its circulation will be confined to those persons whom it is especially intended to benefit—the policemen of the larger cities, whose labors may be diminished and more easily accomplished by a knowledge of its contents.

Correspondence Wanted.—Those of our friends who may hear of any news of general interest will confer a favor, by handing it to our office or writing it out for publication. It is our desire to furnish our readers, the news at the earliest possible moment, and if our friends will assist us in this, our aim will be easily accomplished.

Military Spirit.—There are now four regular organized and uniformed volunteer companies in the county of Halifax, Va.—Exchange.

Virginia Politics.—A Democratic convention was announced to be held at Phoenix Hall, Petersburg on Wednesday evening to nominate a candidate for Congress in the Fourth Congressional District in place of the late Hon. W. O. Goode, member elect. The result of its deliberations will give in Friday's issue of this paper. The election comes off on the fourth Thursday of October next, and there are a large number of candidates for the vacancy.

The Election.
From the first district we learn that in Halifax Dr. Shaw's majority is 194 being a gain of one vote, and in Southampton 159 being a loss of 23. This District is very doubtful.

The Democratic Party.
It is a pitiful sight to see southern men rejoice at the victory—so styled, of this anomaly, the Opposition. Men whose fidelity to the South cannot be questioned, but whose prejudices have blinded them to such an extent that it is impossible for them to see what is to their interest. The defeat of the democratic party in the South is the building up of the Black Republicans in the North, and no one can fail to see that such a result would be fatal to the best interests of the South and disastrous to the future hopes of the Union.

Good Business.—From the following extract we are led to believe that the Sewing Machine Company is doing an enormous business, judging from one would think that the time has gone entirely out of use. This is not so, however, they are in great demand as ever.

Rail Road Massacre.
Scarcely a week passes without the occurrence of some Rail road accident, carrying with it death and destruction to the household of many.

WINSLOW'S MAJORITY.
We give to-day the majorities for Mr. Winslow, as shown on our respective counties, in the following table:

Table with columns: County, Winslow, McDuffie. Rows: Fayetteville, Rockfish, Gray's Creek, Carver's Creek, Black River, Flea Hill, Lock's Creek, Cedar Creek, Quewhille, Seventy-First, John Monroe's, Upper Little River, Buckhorn, Barbours, Aversboro, Stuart's Creek, Neill's Creek, Grove.
