Baltimore, May 10.—The following preamble and resolutions were reported and adopted by acclamation: "Whereas, experience has demonstrated that all platforms adopted by political parties have the effect of misleading and deceiving the people, and encouraging geographical and local parties, therefore, Resolved, That both patriotism and duty require that we should recognize no policy or principles but those resting on the broad foundation of the Constitution, the Union of the States and enforcement of the laws, (great applause and six cheers) and that as representatives of the Constitutional Union Party, and of the people, we pledge ourselves to maintain, protect and defend these principles, thus affording security at home and abroad, and securing the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity. The committee also reported other resolutions, one of them, that each State should determine for itself the mode of voting, whether as a unit or otherwise. This gave rise to considerable discussion, the minority delegations contending that its adoption would place them at the mercy of the majority, and stifle the expression of individual preferences. The convention then resolved to proceed to ballot for President and to continue balloting till some one shall receive a majority of votes cast. A resolution was carried for the appointment of tellers. The Chair appointed Messrs. Brooks, of New York; Pickett, of Tennessee; Watson, of Mississippi, and Rockwell, of Connecticut. The delegation from Maryland retired for consultation. Mr. Barnett, of Minnesota, asked to be excused from voting, as he was the only delegate from that State. [From the Cincinnati Commercial.] SHOWER OF METEORIC STONES. NEW CONCORD, MCKINCKON CO., Ohio, May 5th, 1860. Ed. COMMERCIAL: On Tuesday last (May 1st) at 25 minutes past 12 o'clock, M., a sharp report was heard in the heavens, very similar to heavy cannon firing, creating quite a visible shock, which was heard and felt by many miles distant, and which some persons actually avowed was the sounding of the last trump. Immediately succeeding these followed twenty-three distinct reports, following each other in quiet succession, and which made those who heard it stand aghast with fear.

The sound then seemed to gradually die away into a heavy roaring like distant thunder; succeeding this again, some who were at work in a field, heard a buzzing sound as of a body rapidly passing through the air, and giving their attention in the direction from whence the sound proceeded, they discovered a body dense, and strike the earth about one hundred yards distant, and upon making search, found a hole in the ground, from which, after some labor, they extracted a stone weighing fifty-one pounds.

The stone was of a quadrangular shape, and resembling in appearance a river stone, the surface being somewhat blackened as though washed by the waves, and then bleached by the sun. The surface, though generally smooth, was irregular in some places, such as small crevices which might contain to-day with a grain of wheat. The stone was found to be of grayish color, and somewhat gravelly; being interspersed with particles of metal, and by being brought in contact with some other solid substance it would ring like bell metal. After satisfying their curiosity with this, immediate search was instituted for more, and guided by the sound, they had not proceeded more than 200 yards before they discovered another, which was buried 20 inches in the ground, having been obstructed by striking a rail fence, breaking one or two rails. This stone was exactly similar to the first. It is evident from the glazed surface that they have not been severed from any other body.

The two stones above described both alighted upon the farm of Jonas Ampoker, who lives three miles east of Concord. Another was found to have fallen upon the farm of Mr. Law, one mile east of town. This is exactly similar in every particular to the others. A number of others, weighing from two to forty pounds, have been found within a range of five or six miles. Fine specimens of these mysterious visitors are in safe keeping here now, can be seen at any time by curious visitors. Yours, &c., J. R. BUCHANAN.

We add the following from the Columbus Statesman: We have received letters from the same region of country, which not only corroborate the statements, but add greatly to the singularity of the phenomenon. It appears that the noise is heard to be heard through a wide range of country, and that stones of the kind described were found freely imbedded in the earth in the same manner, miles apart. In Morgan, Muskogee, Choctawhatchee, Marrow, and Tuscaloosa, where the explosion was distinctly heard. Near McConellsville several boys observed a huge stone descend to the earth, which they averred looked like a red ball, leaving a line of smoke in its wake.

The phenomenon seems to be unprecedented. These stones were found nearly fifty miles apart, although the explosion was heard at all the places mentioned from the direction of New Concord. Houses were shaken by the shock, and in one or two instances the doors burst open. It occasioned a great deal of consternation in that section of the country, as well it might.

AD VALOREM. Abolitionists would make capital out of the discussion which the cotton proposition would excite, and if they could do so now or at any time, it is an argument to show that as long as the products of slave labor constitute the principal wealth of North Carolina, the proposition should not be brought up in the State.—Raleigh Register, Jan. 21st, 1860.

WAKE COUNTY ADDRESS ON AD VALOREM. "It cannot fail to be regarded as an illustration of the 'Irrepressible Conflict' which ever exists between Freedom and Slavery!" "It has the same general effect as Holper's 'Impending Crisis!'" "National Union Era." "The Greensboro Patriot publishes it with approbation." "And so the Irrepressible Conflict goes on!"—Hartford (Abolition) Press.

[This Address is now adopted by the Know Nothing party of this State and has been published in all their leading papers.] AN ABORTIVE SCHEME. Some days ago an effort was made in Washington City, and telegraphic dispatches on the subject went throughout the South, for the purpose of paralyzing the efforts of National Democrats to have a representation at the Baltimore convention on the 18th of June. The affair got into the hands of bunglers, and they only succeeded in making themselves ridiculous, without arresting the efforts of the people of the non-represented States to provide for the calling of State conventions.

A special dispatch to the Charleston Mercury says: "So far from the submission address to the southern delegates to the Charleston convention, being signed by every Democratic member of Congress, not a single member of the South Carolina or the Alabama delegations will sign it." Another dispatch says: "The Congressional address to seceding delegates from the Charleston convention, to induce a return to Baltimore, and union of action among the southern delegates, still hangs fire. Some revision has taken place, but no important changes in the programme. Strong opposition to it is found among the cotton State members."

A still later dispatch says: "Yesterday, another effort was made to put the compromising address on its legs again, but we are pleased to say that it will probably prove a fizzle. Several southern Senators signing State members repudiated it, and very properly, upon the declaration that principle should be maintained without compromise, and not make the defeat of Douglas the simple war cry. It is the question of the State equality which covers the whole question, Douglas and all like him." The members of Congress may save themselves some trouble about the course their constituents will pursue, for the people know what to do, and how to do it, without any advice from Washington.

Nothing is more odious than the face that smiles abroad, but flashes fury amid the carcases of a tender wife and children.

ATTEMPT AT CHILD MURDER.—On Saturday morning the cries of an infant were heard issuing from the vicinity of the sink in the rear of the tenement house No. 127 Greenwich avenue. Officer Ackerman, of the Ninth Ward, was summoned to the scene, and after making an examination, ascertained that the cries proceeded from the drain connecting with the water closet. Workmen were at once procured, and the drain opened, when a female child, still living, was found about 12 feet below the surface. It was taken to the Station-House and properly attended to, after which it was sent to the Alms-House. Efforts are being made to ferret out the parents of the child. N. Y. Tribune.

It is a great mistake to suppose that the Democratic party of the Union is broken up. The Charleston Convention deliberately adjourned to Baltimore, where it will meet on the 18th of June, to nominate candidates for President and Vice President. That Convention will be harmonious. Mark the Prediction. We know that many of the Oppositionists of this State would be delighted if the national Democratic party would divide and cease to exist; but their delight over such a result would not exceed that of the black Republicans. No, gentlemen the national Democratic party will live on. It seriously a vitality which no failure to act will not seriously affect, much less destroy. Standard.

How A MAN FEELS WHEN HE IS HUNG.—One would naturally suppose that a man who had suffered all the horrors of hanging, just short of actual death, would never ask the same again; but such, in one case at least, was not the result. A house breaker named Smith was hanged at Tyburn, Dec. 24, 1705, and when he had hung nearly fifteen minutes, the people shouted "a reprieve!" He was cut down, and begged to be reprieved, in substance, that "when he was turned off, he for sometime was sensible of very great pain, occasioned by the weight of his body, and felt his spirits in a strange commotion, violently pressing upwards; that having forced their way to his head, he, afterwards, saw a great blaze of light, and his spirit seemed to go out of his eyes with a flash, and then he lost all sense of pain. That after he was cut down, and began to come to himself, the blood and spirits forcing themselves into former channels, put him, by a sort of pricking or shooting, to such intolerable pain, that he could never afterwards, be hanged who had cut him down." Ever afterwards, he went by the name of "half-hanged Smith." This fellow soon returned to his former evil habits, and was again tried at the Old Bailey for house breaking, and the jury brought in a special verdict, leaving the case to the decision of twelve judges, who were in favor of the prisoner. Even this second wonderful escape did not deter him from resuming his malpractices, and a third time he was to have been brought to trial, but the prosecutor died before the day appointed, and thus he once more got free. Nothing is known of his subsequent history.—Chambers' Journal.
