

THE JAPANESE EMBASSY THROWN INTO THE SHADE!—ARRIVAL OF THE GREAT EASTERN.
 New York, June 28.—The Great Eastern arrived today on the Light Ship Station.
 The vessel which she attained was 144 knots. Her speed was very fast, and an allowance of at least two knots a hour should be made for her. The voyage was full of interest, and her superiority as a sea-going vessel and the reliability of her machinery were fully demonstrated.
 The distance usually steamed from Southampton to New York is 3150 miles, but she went further south to avoid the ice.
 [SECOND DESPATCH.]
 The Great Eastern left the Needles at 10 o'clock on the morning of the 17th, and reached the light ship at 7 o'clock this morning.
 The weather was fine all the way except for two days.
 She brings only 42 passengers.
 Her engines were not stopped for soundings until she was off St. George's shoal.
 As soon as she arrived at the Light House Station, salutes were fired, and all the vessels in sight displayed their lanterns.
 She will anchor at the bar at 3 o'clock.
 She draws 27 feet and will be trimmed to an even keel before crossing the bar.
 Her log exhibits the following diary of her performances:
 June 17—285 miles.
 " 18—270 " "
 " 19—274 " "
 " 20—276 " "
 " 21—304 " "
 " 22—280 " "
 " 23—302 " "

LATEST EUROPEAN INTELLIGENCE FROM THE GREAT EASTERN.
 Messina, June 10.—A secret committee here is in correspondence with Garibaldi.
 An insurrection has broken out in Calabria.
 Tunis, June 16.—M. Thouvenot and Count Cavour are negotiating a line of policy to be followed by France and Sardinia, with reference to Italian affairs.
 The Weekly London P. M. says that Napoleon is about to claim as a compensation due to France for the new territory which Garibaldi's success will add the House of Savoy, that Genoa, the province of Nice and the Island of Sardinia shall be annexed to France.

FOUR DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.—PER ADRIATIC.
 New York, June 30.—The Adriatic brings intelligence that the church-rate-abolition bill was thrown out in the House of Lords by a great majority.
 The Emperor Napoleon returned to Paris on the 15th. It is said that the German Princesses are remaining at a preliminary conference on questions referring to their relations with foreign powers, and that Napoleon repeated his peaceful assurances at his interview with the Prince of Prussia, which was a most cordial one.
 The Neapolitan fleet had captured two steamers bound to Sicily, one bearing the Sardinian and the other the American flag. They contained 25 thousand muskets, 32 cannons, 2,000,000 pounds of powder, and a considerable amount of specie.
 The 800 armed passengers found on board were made prisoners, and everything was conveyed to Genoa. The Sardinian minister had demanded their restoration, and the English an assessor supported his demand.
 The concentration of the Piedmontese army in Ferrara is confirmed.
 Heenan, the pugilist, did not come passenger in the Adriatic, as was announced, but will probably return to the States in a few days.
 Count Mercier, the new French Minister to the United States, came as a passenger.
 The "Diplome National" has received a second warning for publishing Victor Hugo's speech containing a violent appeal to the revolutionary party.
 Thirty villages had been burnt on Mount Lebanon. The Turkish soldiers sent thither to protect the Christians joined the Druses, and participated in the movement.
 Mazzini had not gone to Sicily as was reported.

ARRIVAL OF ANGLIO-SAXONS.—GARIBOLDI PREPARING FOR AN ATTACK ON THE MAIN LAND.
 Father Point, June 21.—The steamship Anglo-Saxon from Liverpool, 20th, via Londonderry, 21st, has passed this point on her way to Quebec.
 The Baden conference adjourned on the 17th. It is said that the German Princesses are remaining at a preliminary conference on questions referring to their relations with foreign powers, and that Napoleon repeated his peaceful assurances at his interview with the Prince of Prussia, which was a most cordial one.

COMMERCIAL.
 LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET.—The sales of Cotton in the Liverpool market for the three days, added up 25,000 bales, of which 8,000 bales were on speculation and for export. The market was dull, but the prices unchanged—closing, however, with a better demand for speculation and export.
 To CORRESPONDENTS.—Write not with lead pencils, dear friends, we beseech you. Ink is so cheap and pens so abundant, that there is no earthly excuse for using a lead pencil, to the serious detriment of printer's eyes and the very great annoyance of this much imposed upon class of God's race. We have inserted communications written with pencil, but when we are guilty of a like offence, the subject matter must possess a vast deal of interest.—About this we are not joking—we are in real earnest—as much as we were when we stopped the papers of all delinquent subscribers, or asked an exhorter at a butcher to moderate his charges.—P. E. Express

LATER FROM HAVANA.
 New Orleans, June 30.—The steamer Philadelphia, from Havana on the 26th, arrived last night. The general news is unimportant. The health of Havana was excellent.
 The U. S. war steamer Pocahontas sails for Vera Cruz to-day, taking the latest mails and important dispatches from Washington, which were received this morning.
IMPORTANT FROM MEXICO.—REPORTED CAPTURE OF MIRAMON.
 NEW ORLEANS, July 2.—Brazaos dots of the 28th ult. have been received per steamer Arizona. Private letters from Miramon and Matamoros say that General Zaragoza, commanding the Liberals, had defeated and taken General Miramon prisoner near Salamanca.
 Genl. Ramonenz commanding the Matamoros troops, had been defeated by Genl. Ortega, and civil war was raging in Nueva Leon and Northern Mexico, were making in favor of Gen. Comonfort's return.
 The Arizona brought $75,000 in specie.
TWO DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.
 New York, July 5th, 1860.
 The steamship Golden Fleet has arrived from Liverpool with letters to the 23rd ult.
 The Neapolitan fleet has captured two steamers. Garibaldi is forming twenty regiments for main land operations.
 All the Sicilian Communes request annexation to Piedmont.

REMARKS OF GEN. LANE.—AT PHILADELPHIA.
 Fellow-citizens, you must be a little quiet, for I have not the voice to speak so as to be heard by all this immense crowd. Give me your attention for a moment, gentlemen, as it is not my purpose to undertake to make a speech. I made up mind before I came here that I would make no speeches. In fact, my being here tonight is entirely accidental, and I do not know whether I shall ever again have the opportunity of seeing so many of the good people of Pennsylvania. [Here the speaker was interrupted by the most uproarious applause, and it was several minutes before he could proceed.] Give me peace, gentlemen—I am a man of peace. [Cheers] I am glad of having the honor of being on the ticket with such a man as John C. Breckinridge. [Cheers.] In his hands the country will be safe—the Union will be preserved, and the Constitution maintained in its purity, letter and spirit, and equality will prevail among the States. [Great cheering.] Your rights will be protected, and those of every other State in the Union. [Cheers of "That's so."] There is no sectionalism in that ticket. This is the time, my friends, you should divest yourselves of all prejudice and all ill will, and go to the ballot-box with a view to secure the election of a man with whom you know this country will be safe—and the National Democratic Convention has presented you the man.
 My friends, allow me to say that the people of this country have equal rights in the Territories. The people of Pennsylvania, or of any other State, have the right to go there, take their property with them and there enjoy it. It belongs as much to you as to the people of any other State, and no rights. [Cheers.] It is the price in blood, and all have a right to go into the Territories and take with him that property from whence he goes. For that right I would rush the very moment that the rights of any Pennsylvania should be violated or infringed upon. I would rush to the rescue and see that Pennsylvania is protected in his property. And so I would with the citizens of every other State of this country. [Cheers.] I do not wish to enter this canvass, but I will say, my friends, that we will maintain this Union, and we must maintain and preserve the Constitution. We must be just and fear not, and victory will take upon our banners. [Applause.] If it was any other occasion than this I would say much more, but as it is I cannot say much.
 It was not on the ticket with this good man—Mr. Breckinridge—I would urge upon you to render to him your most cordial support. It is said that he will come to Pennsylvania with 127 electoral votes—now give him Pennsylvania and he will have votes to spare. [Cheers.] Will you now hesitate in the performance of your duty? [Loud cries of No! No!] Then why hang to a ticket which has no earthly chance of success? Why divide the Democratic party and defeat one of the purest men in the Union? [Cheers.] One whose heart rests in every inch of American soil. [Cheers.] Now, my friends, in taking upon our banners, [Applause.] site you to divest yourselves of all trouble growing out of the Convention at Charleston, and take that man whom you can elect and in whose hands you know the country will be safe.
 Gentlemen, I now leave you to my thanks for the attention you have paid me to-night. [Loud and long continued cheering.]

LUMBERTON BAND.
 While at Lumberton we were delighted with the performance of the Brass Band under the leadership of Prof. Bond. It is certainly a great credit to the Town and shows the young America is fast getting possession of our Scotch friends in Robeson County.
 One of our compositors is sick, to-day hence the late hour of printing and the small amount of matter.

BECKINRIDGE AND LANE POPULAR AT THE NORTH AS WELL AS AT THE SOUTH.—We are glad to see that the Birmingham, N. Y. Democrat, the home organ of Hon. Daniel S. Dickinson, has hoisted the names of Breckinridge and Lane to its mast-head. The Editor says: "We believe Mr. Douglas, for whose benefit the Convention was broken up by machinery, and management, will not receive a single electoral vote in the Union."

Read! Read!
 We make the following extract from a speech delivered by Gen. Joe Lane, the candidate of the National Democratic party for Vice Presidency, in the United States Senate, on the 19th of December, 1859, on the territorial question:
 Mr. LANE. My proposition is that Congress has no power over the question of slavery; that they cannot, under the constitution, establish it in a territory, nor prohibit it; and a Legislative Assembly, in a territory, deriving its power from Congress, cannot do what Congress itself cannot do.
 Mr. PUGH. Then you hold that a territorial legislature has no power to establish slavery?
 Mr. LANE. No power to establish it, and no power to prohibit, but that the property goes there like all other property, and while in the territorial condition it has that protection which the constitution extends to it, and which an honest court would give it, and the common law of the country secures to it.—Wilson Star.

BLACK REPUBLICAN EXTRAVAGANCE.—The late Black Republican House of Representatives, with all their protestations against extravagance, ordered a much larger amount of printing—much of it mere Abolition trash—than has ever been ordered at any previous session. Not satisfied with reprinting Stevens' report, at a cost of over $100,000, for which there was not the slightest pretext or excuse except to make a "fat job" for somebody, Mr. Hale now proposes to print an additional number of the 11th volume (consisting of maps and charts) of the Pacific Railroad reports, a "job" that will not come under the 40 per cent. reduction. The fact is that the heavy "pickings" in the printing department have been in engraving and lithography, and yet so far from Congress having applied the pruning knife to this branch of "plunder," they have allowed the enormous contracts for the Mechanical Patent Office Report, Coast Survey Report, Stevens' Report and Delafield's Report, to be made without competition or reduction, and Mr. Hale now proposes an additional job for the benefit of some of his "wounded" partisans.

SENATOR CRITTENDEN SAID TO BE FOR BRECKINRIDGE AND LANE.—It is rumored in political circles here, in respect of the late A. H. Crittenden, who leaves a family and large circle of friends and relations to mourn their loss.
