We used to think it was so strange That he should twist such hair to curls, And that his wrinkled cheek should change Its color like a bashful girls.

Our foolish mirth defied all rule, As glances, each to each, we stole, The morning that he wore to school

A rose bud in his button hole.

And very sagely we agreed That such a dunce was never known— Fifty! and trying still to read Love verses with a tender tone !

No joyous smile would ever stir Our sober looks, we often said, If we were but a Schoolmaster, And had, withal, his old, white head.

One day we cut his knotty staff Nearly in two, and each and all Of us declared that we should laugh To see it break and let him fall.

Upon his old pine desk we drew His picture—pitiful to see, Wrinkled and baid—half false, half true, And wrote beneath it-twenty-three.

Next day came eight o'clock and nine, But he came not; our pulses quick With play, we said it would be fine If the old Schoolmaster were sick.

And still the beach trees bear the scars Of wounds which we that morning made, Cutting their silvery bark to stars Whereon to count the games we played.

At last, as tired as we could be, Upon a claybank, strargely still, We sat down in a row to see His worn-out hat come up the hill.

'Twas hanging on a peg-a quill Notched down, and sticking in the band, And leaned against his arm-chair still His staff was waiting for his hand.

Across his feet his threadbare coat Was lying, stuffed with many a roll Of "copy-plates," and, sad to note, A dead rose in the button-hole.

But he no more might take his place Our lessons and our lives to plan; Cold death had kissed the wrinkled face Of that most gentle gentleman.

Ah me, what bitter tears made blind Our young eyes, for our thoughtless sin, As two and two, we walked behind The long, black coffin he was in.

And all, sad women now, and men With wrinkles and gray hair can see How he might wear a rosebud then, And read love yerses tenderly.

Ayer sparsaparilla

A compound remedy, in which we have labored to produce the most effectual alterative that can be mad . It is a concentrated extract of Para Sarsaparilla, so combined with other substances of still greater alcorative power as to allord an effective autidate for the discusses Sar a milla is reported to cure. It is b. h. v. l that such a remady is wanted by those who suff r how Strummes complaints, and that one which will decomplish their cure must prove of immense service to this large class of our a'll to I follow-citizen: How complet by this compound will do it has been proven by experiment on many of the worst cases to be found of the following complaints: -SPROPULA AND SCROPULOUS COMPLAINTS, ERUPTIONS AND ERUPTIVE DISEASES, ULCERS, PIMPLES, BLOTCHES, TOMORS, SALT RHEUM, SCALD HEAD, SYPHILIS AND SYPHILITIC AP-PECTIONS, MERCURIAL DISEASE, DROPSY, NEU-RALGIA OR TIC DOULOURRON, DESIGNARY, DYS-PEPSIA AND INDIGESTION, ERYSIPELAS, ROSE OR Sr. ANTHONY'S FIRE, and indeed the whole class of complaints ari ing from IMPURITY OF

This compound will be found a great promoter of health, when taken in the spring, to expel the foul humors which fester in the blood at that season of the year. By the timely expulsion of them many rankling disorders are nipped in the bud. Multitudes can, by the aid of this remedy, spare themselves from the endurance of foul eruptions and ulcerous sores, through which the system will strive to rid itself of corruptions, if not assisted to do this through the natural channels of the body by an alterative medicine. Cleanse out the vitiated blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in pimples, cruptions, or sores; cleanse it when you find it is obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it whenever it is foul, and your feedings will tell you when. Even where no particular disorder is felt, people enjoy better health, and live longer, for cleaning the blood. Keep the blood healthy, and all is well; but with this pabulam of life disordered, there can be no lasting health. Soon r or later something must go wrong, and the great machinery of life is disordered or overthrown. Sarsaparilly has, and deserves much, the reputation of accomplishing these ends. But the world has been egregiously deceived by preparations of it, partly because the drug alone has not all the virtue that is claimed for it, but more because many preparations, pretending to be concentrated extracts of it, contain but little of the virtue of Sarsaparilla, or any thing else. During are years the public have been misled by large bottles, pretending to give a quart of Extract of Sar aparida for one dollar. Most of these have been frauds upon the sick, for they not only contain little, if any, Sarsaparilla, but often no curative properties whatever. If nee, bitter and painful disappointment has followed the use of the various extracts of Sarsaparilla which flood the market, until the name itself is justly despised, and has become synonymous with imposition and cheat. Still we call this compound Sarsaparilla, and intend to supply such a remedy as shall rescue the name from the load of obloquy which rests upon it. And we think we have ground for believe it has been as the control of the co believing it has virtues which are irresistible by the ordinary run of the di cases it is intended to cure. In order to secure their complete eradication from the system, the remedy should be judiciously taken according to directions on
