SILVER AND THE PLATFORM.

The following is the financial plank of the platform adopted by the National Democratic convention at Chicago, in

"We denounce the republican legislation known as the Sherman act of 1890, as a cowardly makeshift, fraught with possis bilities of danger in the fature, which should make all of its supporters, as well as its author, anxious for its speedy repeal.
We hold to the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country, and eral Democrats who styled them to the coinage of both gold and silver without discrimination against either metal, or charge for mintage, but the dollar unit of coinage of both metals must be of equal intrinsic value or be adjusted through international greement, or by such safeguards of legislation as shall insure the maintenance of the parity of the two the maintenance of the parity of the two safeguards and this little knot of come metals and the equal power of every dollar at all times in the markets and in pays ments of debts; and we demand that all able to do a deal of mischief. paper currency shall be kept at par with able to do a deal of mischief. Some of them are on the finance commitupon this policy as specially necessary for tee and thus had an exceptional the protection of the farmers and laboring advantage in their assaults on the classes, the first and most defenseless vic-currency.

Before the adoption of the platform r. Thomas M. Patterson, of Colorado. secured the floor and moved to amend the above by the insertion of the word FREE between the words 'the' and "coinage" in the eighth line, so as to make the platform reac :

"We hald to the use of both gold and silver at the standard money of the couns try and, to the FREE coinage of both without discrimination against either metal or charge for mintage, etc.

The Official Proceedings of the Chicago convention, page 95, show that, on call for the yeas and nays, the motion of the gentleman from CoE'ado (Mr. Patterson) was lost. So the convention des clined to put a declaration for FREE coinage in the platform.
