Bradstreet's Report.

New York, July 5.—Bradstreet's to-morrow will say: There are 17 business failures reported throughout the United States this week.

The upward tendency in prices while not as marked as a month ago, is still striking, because of additional advances, those of lumber, tin plate and print, cloths being new.

No material improvement is reported from the South, rains continuing to be damaging to agricultural interests and to check business in Texas.

THERE is a great deal of complaint in this section about cotton still dying. The lice have nearly ruined the prospects.

TRADE AND FINANCE.

The second half of the year has opened with business in better condition than it has been at any time heretofore since early in 1893.

This increase in wages has been made since April, and four-fifths of the 250,000 men, reproducible inquiries as to his health which began to pour in, and which nerved the old man to shove death aside and take a new lease on life.

Damaging Testimony Against the Fair Widow.

La Plata, Md., July 5.—The evidence produced at to-day's hearing in the trial of Mrs. Belle Farrall for poisoning her husband was more damaging to the handsome defendant than anything that has preceded it.

A Card.

Morohead, City, July 6, 1895. Editor Argus:

Secretary Herbert's Letter.

Washington, July 4.—Secretary Herbert addressed the following letter to the Tammany Society, of New York, incident to the patriotic celebration of to-day:

"Hons. Frederick Smyth, Richard Croker, Anos J. Cummings, and others, committee, Tammany Society, New York: GENTLEMEN: I beg to thank you for the invitation to address the Tammany Society at its coming celebration of the one hundred and nineteenth anniversary of American independence, and to express at the same time my regrets that I cannot be present.

The Democratic party has been sorely tried during the past two years. It came into power at the beginning of a financial crisis, which was the logical outcome of many years of Republican legislation. For a time there was a disposition to hold us responsible for existing conditions, notwithstanding the fact that for thirty-two years the Democracy had never been, for a single hour, able to legislate at Washington.

Prosperity is returning, and voters are beginning to take the sober second thought which so invariably leads the American people to correct conclusions. If we would put the Democracy in power again at the coming presidential election, we have only to forget our factional quarrels; come together for sound money; as our fathers did in the days of Jackson; stand together against the robberies of a high tariff, and continue to adhere to these vital principles that have made the Democracy a living force.

Chillicothe, July 4.—Augustus Fields, formerly editor of the Post in Caldwell county, murdered his wife and child this morning and committed suicide at Wheeling, near this city, where he was, visiting his mother-in-law, Mrs. Thompson. He cut the throats of his wife and child and then cut his own throat. No reason can be assigned for the action. He was a prominent business man.

Killed His Family and Himself.

Chicago, Ill., July 4.—Mrs. C. O'Leary died yesterday. She was the owner of the fractious cow which, in a barn in the rear of No. 137 De Koven street, on a memorable night in October, 1871 kicked over a lamp and started a blaze which cost Chicago $190,000,000.

Since the night of that historic conflagration Mrs O'Leary's life was embittered by the popular belief that she indirectly was responsible for the loss of life and enormous destruction of property, and to the committee which investigated the fire and caused made affidavit that the allegations about herself and the cow and lamp were not true.

Highwayman Shot to Death.

A special to the Chronicle from Nogales, Ariz., says: Four of the five men who held up the paymaster of the Nacacari copper Company June 13th were captured by the authorities of the State of Sonora, Mex., and Sunday they were taken to the scene of their crime and shot to death, under the new law providing for the punishment of train and stage robbers in Mexico.

REPUBLICAN DEFICIT.

The St. Louis Republic says, when Tanner said "God help the surplus," he fastened by confession on the Republican party all the blame for the deficit which Secretary Carlisle finds at the close of the fiscal year.

Treasury embarrassments caused by the mortgages of the Reed Congress predestined the panic of 1893 and the deficit of 1895.

It was an embarrassed Treasury which engendered the distrusts of the Government's ability to continue redemption of currency notes. It was a McKinley tariff which hampered trade and prevented a normal increase of customs revenues. Long before Harrison vacated the White House every financier in America perceived that trouble was impending and that the Government must issue bonds or default in its payments.

Republican extravagance made a deficit and a panic which, by reducing trade and revenue receipts, prevented the immediate success of Democratic efforts to administer the Government economically and honestly.

A Democratic tariff is encouraging trade. The Government's receipts are increasing. Wages are rising. Mines and factories are busy. The farmer is getting better prices. The merchant is selling more goods. Exports are more active. American securities are attracting purchasers. A Republican administration left financial confusion and universal gloom. The Democratic administration will leave confidence in the good faith of the Government, a balance in the Treasury, a prosperous condition of business and a hopeful people.

If the policy of the Harrison administration and the Fifty-first Congress had continued to this date, it would have increased the national debt by hundreds of millions, if it could, indeed, have avoided the disgrace of a suspension of specie payments. We are dealing with a Republican deficit. Under Democratic management we shall wipe it out and recuperate from its effects, as we overcame the Republican panic and restored the activity of business.

Chillicothe, July 4.—Augustus Fields, formerly editor of the Post in Caldwell county, murdered his wife and child this morning and committed suicide at Wheeling, near this city, where he was, visiting his mother-in-law, Mrs. Thompson. He cut the throats of his wife and child and then cut his own throat. No reason can be assigned for the action. He was a prominent business man.

THE report of the United States Geological Survey on the precious stones for the year 1894, compiled by Mr. George F. Kuntz, reports the developing of a new ruby mine near Franklin, N. C., the finding of emeralds at Mitchell Peak and near Darles Station, N. C., and that a new locality of true emeralds was found near Bakersville, N. C.; a big output is predicted upon development of the vein. Western North Carolina is a country of such great mineral wealth that these discoveries will doubtless be followed by many more important ones as that region is more thoroughly investigated.
