GOLDSBORO, N. C., NOV. 21, 1895

Since the advent of horseless carriages, putting the cart before the horse as the ideal of incongruity may be laid aside with other proverbs this age has exploded.

Human nature is such a contrary article. The friends of a man who buys a bicycle abuse him for getting the wrong kind, but never hesitate to turn round and borrow it.

If the Spanish had won as many victories as they claim, all Cubans would have been gathered to their fathers, Cuba would be a graveyard, and the crown of Spain would be perched on the highest brow of the Cobra.

Representative Hartman, of Montana, sticks to Senator Cameron as a proper Presidential candidate for the silver cause. Cameron probably isn't troubling himself much about the Presidency in these times, but the gloomy prospects of his re-election as United States Senator give far more concern, since Boss Quay turned reformer.

Acting under the advice of Governor Culberson, the people of Texas will make a suitable presentation to the battleship Texas in recognition of its compliment paid to the State by naming the vessel after it. This spirit is commendable; but the people of Texas should go slowly until it is determined whether the battleship Texas is, in her construction, by the flag or display the service presented by any State of the Union. The outlook at present is that she is not.

It must be remembered that battleships are not built as rapidly in this country as they are in Great Britain. English yards are able to launch a 15,000-ton vessel within one year of beginning her, and in two years she can be put in commission. We cannot complete one of our fighters of the first class in less than four years—the delay being largely due to the slow production of armor. It is important, therefore, that Congress should authorize the beginning of work on half a dozen additional battleships as early as possible.

If Lord Salisbury keeps his word the Turk will have to go. He was never governed by Christians justly. He never will. His nature, which is that of a beast of prey, his traditions, which are his traditions, which are the traditions of the time of Othman: his religion, which is the greed of the fire and the sword for infidels, forbids it. So long as the race of Amurath governs Turkey, destruction and murder will be the chronic symptoms of its rule. If the Turks are to be overthrown, by concerted European action, Constantinople becomes the prize of the strongest, and the whole balance of power is swept away.

Colonel A. J. Warner, of Ohio, is the Mark Tapley of the free silver crowd. "The elections have benefited the cause of silver from my point of view," says the cheerful advocate of light-weight dollars, "for they have emphasized the fact that the money power and the gold men are east control both the old parties." As the two old parties comprise nine-tenths of the voters of the country, the man who can see victory for free silver in this condition of popular sentiment could extract unbeans out of the bottomless pit. Colonel Warner really beats Mark Tapley as an example of cheerfulness under discouraging conditions.

It is said that Theodore Roosevelt has the ambition to succeed Mr. David B. Hill as United States Senator from New York. Mr. Roosevelt has a good deal of talent and an unbounded individuality. He would be heard from in the Senate if he got there. But he must be sanguine, indeed, if he supposes that this is practicable for him to achieve.

Vice-President Stevenson says he will not be a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination, and declares that President Cleveland "will be accorded a re-nomination if he wants it." While his statement is simply the individual opinion of Mr. Stevenson and is beyond his knowledge, it nevertheless signifies the growth of the third term idea.

The Democratic party was never licked with one licking; never killed with one killing; never died with one death, and was never buried with one funeral. It has been known to kick the lid off its coffin and score victories in the face of defeat.

The Philadelphia Times says truly that, the exportation of gold will do no harm if it will only force a recognition by Congress of the cause of this movement. It is a principle as well established as the law of gravitation that when there is a redundancy of currency in any country, that portion of it that is most valuable or most generally desired—that portion that will pay debts abroad as well as at home—will find its way elsewhere.

While our paper currency was confined to the three hundred and sixty millions of greenbacks, with such volume of national bank notes as the banks found it profitable to keep in circulation, the maintenance of a gold reserve intended to give security to this circulation was not a difficult matter. The addition of the hundred and ninety millions of Treasury notes under the Sherman act of 1890 overturned all this. Though the banks have withdrawn a considerable part of their circulation, there is still more paper money afloat than is required for active use. Consequently the holders exchange it for gold and send the gold away.

Of course, if business were very active and we were selling large quantities of produce abroad the currency would not trouble us. But we should always be liable to this trouble, as we have been ever since 1890, and we shall never get business upon a really stable foundation till Congress can bring its mind to legislate for currency reform. This is a duty that ought not to be obscured by prattle about the tariff, or any other irrelevant issue.

THERE is talk of the President appointing Secretary Gaisale to the vacancy on the Supreme bench, caused by the death of Justice Jackson. No better selection could be made.

New York is having her annual spasm over a horse show. The Duke of Marlborough, who was a visitor to it the other day, proved a greater attraction than did any of the equine exhibits.

The settlement of a $10,000 claim by John Wanamaker with the Indiana Republican State Committee after three years' delay is interpreted to mean that John expects another Cabinet portfolio to be placed upon the bargain counter for his benefit in case the Republicans win next year. This pious merchant-politician is not going around the country settling campaign claims solely as a matter of honor.

"LAUGH AND GROW FAT."

Mr. B. W. Spilman will deliver his celebrated lecture at the Opera House on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Benevolent Society of Goldsboro and the Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist church. As an introduction to the evening's entertainment the "Lilliputian Wedding," rendered so acceptably at the First Baptist church November 7th, will form an interesting feature.

Mr. Spilman has been made famous by his witty, humorous and philosophical lecture. The theme and the thought are original with the man. It is "laugh and grow fat." Come and see and hear him. The Louisville Courier-Journal calls him "the Burdette of the South." Says another: "Mr. Spilman's lecture is equal to that of the famous Eli Perkins." Says the Daily Progress, of Suffolk, Va.: "It is a literary feast." Tickets 25 and 15 cents. The lecture is a gift to the societies by Mr. Spilman.
