AN OLD CITIZEN GONE.

The death of one of Goldsboro's oldest citizens, both in years and duration of residence, occurred at his home on East Centre street last Saturday at 12:20 o'clock. Mr. Jas. G. Smith, of paralysis, aged 78 years, 9 months and 22 days.
 He was an Englishman by birth, but came to Goldsboro in the earliest years of the town, and was always a quiet, unostentatious citizen. He leaves a wife and five sons, all grown and with families, to mourn his demise.

A Horrible Affair.

Winston, N. C., Nov. 22—The particulars of a shocking affair which occurred a few nights ago in the mountain section of Stokes county were brought here this morning. Thomas Mabe was running a brady distillery and when he went to "a double" and filled a 140 gallon kettie with singings and backings, it commenced boiling over, ran down, caught fire as quick as powder and took the still. The cap was blown off and the building was soon filled with flames. The owner was standing near the still where his two sons lay asleep on the floor. The burning liquid ran over the boys. The father and his sons made a rush for the door but it was locked and by the time they succeeded in opening it the three men were burned so badly that they will die. The house and its contents, including several hogs—heads of fruit, were burned.

IN MEMORIAM.

The cradle is empty
 That mother's hand rocked of yore;
 And He called the infant's name,
 Called baby to the celestial shore.

The pale messenger of Death visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Smith, in this city, on November 9th, and removed therefrom to the brighter world beyond, their infant daughter, Bertha Olivia, aged 2 months and 2 days.

Weep not, fond parents, for while there is an aching void in your hearts that cannot be erased by time, yet the child is happier in its new-found home. She has gone to help make up the jewel that constitute the heavenly throng. God, in His all-wise providence, has ordained that the little darling should remain no longer here in this world of sorrows to drink of the bitterness of its fruits, as you have done, but should be transferred in her infancy to a home of eternal rest, and where, you, like her, if your walks in this life shall be with God, can enjoy the rich blessings to which she has been called in advance. None but God knew the suffering the little one bore—no earthly hand could administer the balm of relief. God only could relieve the pain, and He called the little one unto Himself.
 How sweet to know that when we shall "fall on sleep" we will meet on the other shore the companions of our youth and the tender, loving friends of our declining years, but happier still must be the knowledge that there shall be waiting at the heavenly gates to welcome us, the child of our bosom. There shall be no parting there, but we shall live on through eternity in a state of ecstasy that knows no description. Who would not part for a little while here below with the most cherished of little darlings—the soul comfort of our fire sides, the very joy and inspiration of our lives—and bow in humble submission, when we remember the words of Him who died to save us all: "Suffer little children and forbid them not to come unto me, for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

CHAS. A. BROWN,
 Goldsboro, N. C., Nov. 22, '95.

THE OUTLOOK.

As the Baltimore Manufacturer's Record says, the development of the West is to be far more than duplicated in the South. Here nature has given a combination of advantages nowhere else equalled on the face of the globe. Here are found coal, timber, iron, cotton—the foundation of nearly all manufacturing wealth—and nowhere else are these four found in the same region.
 The wealth of New England and Great Britain, created out of cotton manufacturing; the wealth of Pennsylvania, made out of coal and iron; and the wealth of the Northwest, made from lumber, are all to be duplicated and concentrated in the South. Add to this, possibilities in agriculture that guarantee that this section can produce out of the soil more than the farm interests of the entire country now yield; that this favored climate will be worth millions in annual increase of wealth because of the thousands—and soon to be hundreds of thousands—who seek the South in winter for health and pleasure, and we can possibly form some idea of what will be seen during the next quarter of a century.

The whole trend of population is now Southward. Thousands of Northern and Western farmers are moving this way.
 The West has for the time being been over-populated; economic changes beyond the control of man are forcing manufacturing interests to the raw material; the South is the most inviting field in the world to the agriculturist, and it has the raw materials for industrial pursuits in greater abundance and more cheaply utilized than any other equal area on earth.
 All these things are uniting to inaugurate a change in the South, which will be world wide in its effect.
 What are you doing to attract the development to Goldsboro and this delightful and fertile section? Are you at work, or are you a drone? May we be asked of every man in this city and vicinity. What is your answer?

Boston, Nov. 21.—The American board this afternoon, by the way of Philadelphia, Bulgaria, received a cablegram saying that the missionaries and friends at Masovian are safe.

Prague, Nov. 21.—The final results of the elections for members of the Bohemian Diet show the elections of 48 Young Czechs, 27 German Liberals, 2 German Nationalists, 2 Czech Peasants 1, Old Czech and 1 Clerical.

CALVERT VAUX DROWNED

The Body of the Famous Landscape Architect Found in New York Bay.
 New York, Nov. 21.—The body of Calvert Vaux, the famous landscape architect, who mysteriously disappeared on Tuesday from his son's home at Bensonhurst, Brooklyn, was found this morning floating in the bay at the foot of Bay Seventeenth street, Bensonhurst, by Francis D. Fry, who saw the body floating in the water and dragged it ashore. The body was dressed in the same clothes as when Mr. Vaux left home, except that the hat was gone and the shoe from the left foot was missing.
 No marks of violence could be discovered in a hasty examination of the body, and it is supposed that Mr. Vaux wandered down to the shore and was accidentally drowned. He was in the habit of walking on the beach and sometimes sat down to rest on the piers that extend at several points over the water. It is thought that in his weak state on Tuesday he was seized with a fainting spell and fell into the water.

A Million a Month.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—The Times-Herald today devotes two columns to a carefully prepared report on Cripple Creek and the gold fields of Colorado. It says in part: "A million a month. This is the precious product of Cripple Creek district, big as it seems, is inside rather than beyond the monthly gold output, a conservative rather than a liberal statement. The shipment for October were 14,800 tons of smelting ore of an average value of $65, and 6,000 tons of milling ore ranging from $8 to $35 per ton, with an average of $15. The total value of high grade ores for October was $962,000, and of the low grade ores $102,000. The grand total of the product reaches $1,064,000. The November product will show an increase."
 "For the first fifteen days of November the shipments of high grade ore to the smelters have averaged 350 tons daily over the Colorado Midland and 250 daily over the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad. These ores held up to the October average of $65 per ton and returned to the shippers a gross of $55,000. The low-grade ores averaged higher. Figuring freights, milling fees, and mining, the extraction of gold from $8 ore means a loss of $3 to $6 per ton to the producer. November's low grade ore has averaged $20 to the ton.
 "Of this class 265 tons daily have been moved, making for the first half of the month a value of $159,000. If the tonnage continues for the remainder of the month the gross product will be $1,329,000.
 "The original discovery of gold in Cripple Creek, or, perhaps, the discoveries which led to the present development, would fit the case better were made in 1890. The Creek country was then known as Pisgah Park, and was regarded as fitted for stocks raising purposes only. It is ascertained by the miners that this country containing twenty-four square miles, holds more riches than any other region of the world. There is some basis for this assertion. Of the many claims staked out, hundreds are held by the assessment work only. The owners lack funds to develop or hold their claims for speculative purposes.
 "It is probable that fewer than 100 mines are the regular shippers of ore, and perhaps half the number are dividend payers. One may count on his fingers the companies and private owners whose shafts and tunnels are deeper than 200 feet. The production thus far has been wholly superficial and incidental only to the search for the principle vein. As to the work on the leads progresses the ore becomes richer. The value is almost susceptible of exact calculation when the original assay at the surface and the depth of the shaft are known."
 Harrison's Daily Leaves.
 New York, Nov. 21.—Senator Sherman left for Washington today. There was considerable talk among the politicians gathered at the Fifth Avenue Hotel concerning the Senator's statement in his book regarding the attitude of the New York delegation at the convention of 1888.
 Ex-President Harrison is still holding his daily leaves in his room in the Fifth Avenue Hotel. Ex-Secretary Noble, Cornelius N. Bliss and Ex-Minister Charles Emory Smith, of Philadelphia, were the most conspicuous of his many callers.
 General Harrison hopes to finish his visit by to-morrow. He will take a train for Saratoga, where he will spend a day or two with "Little Ben" McKee, who is now fully recovered from his recent illness.

Gen. Alger's Dental.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 21.—Gen. R. A. Alger has written a lengthy letter to the Tribune in reply to Senator John Sherman's charges against the General's friends, as contained in the second volume of Sherman's recollections.
 The writer quotes Senator Sherman's language in which he referred to the circumstances attending the contest in the Republican National Convention of 1888, wrote: "I believe, and had, as I thought, conclusive proof that the friends of General Alger substantially purchased the votes of many of the delegates from the Southern States, who had not been instructed by their conventions to vote for me."
 In answer to the charge, Gen. Alger says: "No delegate or friend who went to Chicago in my behalf or voted for me at the convention ever asked for or received a single pledge from me for money or for any office."
 General Alger relates instances of the friendship between himself and the Senator of late years and of assurances given him by Sherman that while his disappointment had been great, he did not believe that Alger had any part in the scramble for votes, etc., in 1888. Alger also quotes an autograph letter written him by Senator Sherman in 1892, in which the latter asserts: "I cherish no prejudice or unkindness for the incident of the National Convention of 1888."

Does It Mean Business?

Mr. John R. Bartlett, president of the Nicaraguan Canal Co., and Hon. Smith M. Weed, of the same company, sailed from New York for Europe on Wednesday in response to cables from parties in London in regard to pending financial negotiations.
 It will be remembered that C. P. Treat, a Chicago contractor, who built the railroad for the canal company, wrote the Manufacturers' Record last winter that after thorough personal investigation of the route of the Nicaraguan Canal, he would be willing to contract to build it for the amount estimated as its cost by the canal company's engineers. Mr. Treat was then in London, and the supposition was that he was having some negotiations with English capitalists looking for building the canal.
 About ten days ago Mr. Treat left Chicago for London, and it is rumored that his visit is about canal matters. This, in connection with the sailing of Mr. Bartlett and Mr. Weed, seems to indicate that there is some deal on hand which may lead, as has been predicted several times, to the building of the canal without regard to government aid. The Manufacturers' Record wants the canal, but it believes that the United States government ought to control it in some way.—Baltimore Manufacturers' Record.

Senator Alison would like it,

but he won't "scramble" for it. He is as modest as a young woman with her cap set for the first young man that happens along her way.
 Patrick B. Delany, who shares with Edison and Tesla the honors of a front place in the world of electricity, says that the business correspondence of the near future, will all be done by telegraph and that, as it will be sent by the automatic machine at the rate of 1,000 words a minute, it will be practically as private as a sealed letter. Stenographers will learn and employ the Morse alphabet, of which he says: "The language of dots and dashes is the only real Volapuk, the universal sign language, the knowledge of which would enable a deaf mute to make himself understood from Kansas to Klartout, wherever he found a telegraph operator."

"Lounger" in the Critic tells of a publishing firm "which once sent a poet a check for $300 for a poem, and he promptly returned $100 saying that even what he kept was really more than the poem was worth—an opinion with which the publisher did not agree, however." Where and when did this all happen? Publishers who offer three hundred dollars for a poem! Poets who return a third of the amount, feeling that they are being overpaid! Where are we at? Arcadia, Altruria or Utopia? The ordinary every-day poet seldom, or never, sees three figures on the check sent him by the publisher, and the publisher who should receive $100 in the shape of conscience-money from an overpaid poet would be justified in dying of surprise on the spot. Please give us that extraordinary publisher's name. Mr. Lounger, that he may be rewarded by a ton of poetry from hitherto unappreciated bards.
