WARD MEETINGS.

The Democrats Meet in the Two Wards of the City and Nominate Candidates for Aldermen.

Daily Argus, last Tuesday.

In response to the call issued by the Executive Committee of the First and Second wards, the Democrats met last night at the Court House and Opera House to nominate candidates for Aldermen for the ensuing year.

Both wards were represented by large crowds and the deliberations of each convention were carried out with the greatest harmony. The large crowds that were present at the municipal nominating convention this year is a source of gratification to every good Democrat, as is also the good feeling that has prevailed.

There never was, perhaps, a better list of names presented for the consideration of any municipal convention than those that were on the several tickets last night. An election of the required number of any of the names presented would have given satisfaction. The following are the names of the candidates from each ward:

FIRST WARD.
E. W. Cox, F. K. Borden, F. W. Hilder.

SECOND WARD.
R. A. Creech, J. R. Crawford, W. G. Britt.

The following resolution was introduced and adopted by each convention:

For the information of all those who feel an interest in the administration of the affairs of our city,

Be it Resolved, That it is the sense of the Democratic voters of the two wards of this city, that the Board of Aldermen to be elected on the 3rd day of May next, shall make provisions for the publication in one of our city papers, of the proceedings of all business meetings of said Board, which shall include the monthly reports of Mayor, City Clerk, Treasurer and other officials that are required to make monthly reports.

The old Executive Committee from each Ward were re-elected and are as follows:

FIRST WARD.
B. G. Thompson, R. B. Bassett, J. M. Hollowell, W. H. Higgins, M. L. Lee.

SECOND WARD.
Dr. W. J. Jones, L. D. Giddens, Jr., W. P. Granger, W. H. Sugg, W. H. Smith, W. A. Tudor.

Spanish Troops Leaving Cuba. Jacksonville, Fla., April 26.—Thomas G. Alvord, a newspaper correspondent just back from Havana, reports that the regular army of Spain is being deported at the rate of 500 men per week, and that the Government of Spain now owes its army $55,000,000. Two million dollars will have to be raised by June 1 to pay the interest of the war debt. The income from the island is not greater than $1,300,000 per month, and the expense of war is more than $11,000,000. It is believed that the Spanish Government, in view of the Greco-Turkish war, will be unable to borrow money from the powers. This is the reason for withdrawing the troops.

The most recent reports are that the insurgents are being mobilized in Havana province and that Gomez is in the southwestern part of Santa Clara with Gen Weyler in the vicinity. Quintin Bandera has planned to attack Weyler so that Gomez will have a chance of getting into Havana province.

During the past week another expedition, believed to be from the steamer Bermuda, has been landed on the Mantanzas side of Guanabaco. Pinar del Rio has been declared pacified by Weyler for six months, but there are still 3,000 Spanish soldiers there and skirmishes take place almost daily.

Santa Clara has been declared pacified, but armored cars and men to man them are sent through on every train. Every depot is fortified, and a garrison is stationed in each, there being about 500 of these stations.

BUSINESS SUCCESS

The Qualities that are Requisite to Attain it: What Mr. Asher Edwards Has Accomplished in Business.

We are literally living in a business age. None but business men succeed by their own efforts these days. Everything demands that strictly business principles be applied. The tendency of the times is to do away with everything on the elaborate order and come down strictly to business. The question of living has forced itself not to a question of how can we get the daintiest or the most fashionable to eat and to wear, but how can we manage to get along within our income.

When the boy reaches the age to go to school it is not a question of finding out what educational institution can give him the most classical education, but to what school can he go where he can be best fitted to fight the battles of life and be independent. The school teacher who gets up the most practical method of teaching, and a curriculum best suited to teach a boy what he needs to know to be a good business man, is the successful teacher. And this is true of all the professions and along all lines of business. The man who has good business sense and will use it cannot be prevented from succeeding. In all the professions and all lines of business there is always room upstairs, and the man who will use good judgment and perseverance can get there.

Such methods have characterized the business career of Mr. Asher Edwards, of this city, who has succeeded not only in mercantile pursuits, as his constantly increasing trade will show, but who has gained a wide reputation as a stock dealer, and is a farmer of no small pretensions.

To all his pursuits he has applied purely business principles, and the success to which he has attained must be gratifying to him now in his ripening years, as well as to his many admiring friends.

In business he is no less popular with the public than he is with his more intimate friends at his hospitable home. By his keen foresight and good judgment he has averted the financial reverses that come to a great many during the despondency of trade, and has at all times been able to supply the wants of his army of customers, and lend them succor in the hour of need.

What the world needs is not more religion but more Christianity.

THE NAVIES OF GREECE AND TURKEY.

Commodore Hichborn on Their Comparative Size and Strength.

Washington, April 26.—Commodore Hichborn, Chief Constructor of the navy, has prepared an interesting statement regarding the comparative size and effectiveness of the navies of Turkey and Greece. He says: "The Greeks have an effective naval force, consisting of three modern armored cruisers, the Hydra, built in St. Nazaire in 1889, the Spetsai, built in Gravelle in 1889, and the P-ara, built in Gravelle in 1890. They are sister ships, with a displacement of 4,845 tons, and a record speed of 17.5 knots, with 6,930 indicated horse power. They have a complete steel armor water line belt 11.8 inches thick amidships, tapering to 4.7 inches at the ends. The forward battery, consisting of two 10 inch 36-calibre Canet guns, is protected by an armored casemate 13 1/2 inches thick, and on the after deck is one 10 inch 30-calibre Canet gun in a barbette turret 13 1/2 and 11 inches thick. They also mount one 12-pounder, eight 9-pounder, seven 6-pounder, and sixteen 1-pounder rapid-fire guns and three torpedo tubes. They are rigged as three-masted schooners, with three fighting tops. Altogether they are very formidable vessels of their class.

"The second-class battle ship Maine is more nearly like these vessels than any other in the American Navy. They are fully as effective as the Maine, but would be no match for our first-class battle ships of the Massachusetts and Iowa type.

"In addition to the fighting craft I have mentioned they have two old ironclad ships, built about thirty years ago, of about 2,000 tons displacement, with 7-inch armor belts; one composite gunboat of 1,800 tons; two steel gunboats of 1,000 tons each, one of which is fitted as a transport; four steel gunboats of 420 tons each, one torpedo depot ship of 1,100 tons; two gunboats of 440 tons each; six old iron gunboats of 380 tons each; eleven first-class torpedo boats, and forty-five third-class torpedo boats.

"The Turkish navy consists of two composite gunboats of 1,900 and 2,300 tons, respectively; two wooden gunboats of 800 tons each, two steel torpedo gunboats of 900 tons each and one of 450 tons, two torpedo depot destroyers, twenty first-class and fourteen second-class torpedo boats, and two submarine boats. They have on their navy list thirteen obsolete ironclad ships, ranging in size from 6,000 to 400 tons, and in age from twenty five to thirty-three years, and eleven small wooden gunboats, some of which were built about forty years ago.

"The Greeks have no new vessels under construction, but the Turks have taken a decided step in that direction. The Turkish vessels under construction are one first-class armored cruiser of 40,650 tons, designed for 17 knots speed, with 11,500 indicated horse power, having a 14-inch armor belt reduced to 7 inches at the ends, and carrying four 11-inch Krupp guns in 13-inch armored barbette, and six 5 inch Krupp guns and ten rapid fire guns, two steel cruisers of 4,050 tons displacement, carrying two 8 inch Krupp guns, six 5 inch and four 3-inch guns; and two steel cruisers of 1,850 tons displacement, armed with six 6-inch Krupp guns. These vessels are being built in Turkey, and they have also under construction in Gaarden one torpedo gunboat of 900 tons displacement.

"It is generally believed," continued Commander Hichborn, "that the Turkish navy has had little intelligent supervision during the last decade, and that few, if any, of their older ships have any appreciable fighting value. All of their old ironclads were in existence and most of them were new and efficient during the Russo-Turkish war of 1877, but they performed very little real service, though their navy at that time was vastly superior to that of Russia. The Turks have little natural love for the sea, and rarely engage in seafaring life. In their war with Russia they were easily rattled and slow to take advantage of circumstances in their favor.

"The Greeks are naturally a seafaring people. You will find them serving as sailors on most of the vessels in Mediterranean waters. It seems probable that the three Greek armored cruisers I have mentioned are capable, if properly handled, of destroying the Turkish fleet. However, it is not likely that such destruction would have a serious effect on the present war. I dare say the mil-
