"Don't give up the ship!" was the dying injunction of Captain Lawrence on one of the stormiest days in our national life. That cry bas been ringing in our ears for a couple of generations, and when the emergency is on us and our energies are taxed to their utmost those words make our hearts beat with renewed vigor.

During our civil war - now almost ancient history-we read of a regiment of worn out men on a tors and advertised remedies without benscertain occasion. They had trav. eled fast and far and were ready to drop by the roadside through sheer exhaustation.
