OUR LOCAL OPTIC.

In addition to his splendid restaurant, which is extensively patronized, Mr. J. O. Reynolds has put in a nicker lunch counter for the benefit of his customers.

We had a call to-day from Mr. L. C. Gillette, advance agent of the Sparks' Railway Show, which is billing the town for an exhibition here on Saturday of this week, the 4th of November.

Just think of it! Luscious, ripe, casaberry in abundance, second crop. This is what Mrs. Richard Macdonald is enjoying from her garden these days. Truly have we a blessed climate. The world holds no finer.

The work on the avenue leading to the O'pan Home has made it one of the prettiest drives in the section, and was a fit thing to do for the 43 O'pan chidren, who now have a good walk to school.

The great department store of Mr. Asher Edwards, since its recent remodeling and enlargement, is now doubtless the most commodious in the State, and is a model of architectural skill and artistic convenience. Every day from now till Christmas is "special sales" day at this store and the prices do not fail to attract the trading public.

Capt. W. R. Hinant, of Newbern, was in the city to-day. His many friends at his old home here will be glad to know that he has been retained by the new administration of the A. & N. C. R. W. as roadmaster, a position which has been held for several years with credit to himself and with entire satisfaction to all concerned.

The manufacture of Williams' "D. D.", the renowned dandruff destroyer, that was recently inaugurated in this city by Mr. W. V. Williams, an experienced chemist and licensed druggist, in the employ of Dr. M. E. Robinson & Brother's drug store, has now reached large proportions, and whole sale orders are being shipped weekly to other centres of trade. It sells on its merits and is reliable and satisfactory.

While he is not in the potato raising tournament, mention of which was made in the ARGUS several days ago, Mr. Jno. S. Davis, the farmer in charge of Mr. Tom B. Parker's model farm beyond the Eastern Hospital, has thus far "taken the cake" for the size and quality of his second crop Irish potatoes. John Sheard, "Bud" Andrews and Bilie Scott will have to plow a little deeper, and "hoe their rows" often next year to reach the head of the class.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Mr. Roland S. Broadhurs, a Goldsboro boy, eldest son of Capt. and Mrs. D. J. Broadhurs, who is now in business in Americus, Ga., to Miss Virginia Hill, of that city. The happy events to take place on the evening of the 8th of November. The prospective groom's many friends in this city and section, including the ARGUS, wish for him and his bride all that is bright and good through life.

The time will come when Goldsboro will be proud of her park—it will be a thing of beauty and will make glad many hearts of many generations. Did it ever occur to you what a great thing it is to make glad a human heart? There are many greater things in the world than money-making. In this age of push and competition and greed, it is easy for the young to erect as their standard of success in life the making of money and the accumulation of wealth, and they regard as a dismal failure the man who fails to measure up to their little, narrow standard of "money the true standard of success in life." While wealth brings its joys and its cares, many of the most successful men, in the true sense, that ever blessed the world were poor men and died in poverty.

A QUEER DRUMMER.

A Man Who Claims to Converse With Departed Spirits.

Newspaper readers everywhere are familiar with the firm name of H. E. Bucklen & Co., of Chicago, the proprietors and Manufacturers of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, Dr. King's New Discovery, and other medicines which they sell and advertise extensively. A member of the firm, Mr. L. S. Lewis, a man who travels this territory in making advertising contracts with the newspapers and selling their medicines to the druggists, to these two classes he is well and favorably known, but to others his annual visits are not known, as he is a very quiet, modest, unassuming gentleman, who would never be known for his much or loud talking.

On the occasion of his visit to this section last year some papers of the State gave accounts of his spiritualistic performances, and last week while in Goldsboro he was prevailed upon by a small company of friends to give an exhibition of his peculiar power in the parlors of the Hotel Kenon.

In the beginning the spiritualist gave an accurate description of the character and disposition of each member of the company that he addressed. He called to his aid departed spirits whom he knew and these he says give him information of past events in the lives of the living and also brings the departed spirits of our friends before his vision so that he can see them and converse with them. To several members of the company he pictured the circumstances and surroundings of important events in their past lives and gave the dates on which they occurred. He went much further and described minutely the features, form and color of hair and eyes of relatives of each of his subjects who have long since passed away.

All these and many other wonderful exhibitions of his spiritual power he made with such accuracy and detail that the person to whom he was talking readily remembered the occurrence or recognized the dead relative or person.

His entertainment was simply wonderful. He is a pronounced spiritualist and advocates a doctrine in opposition to the materialist. He expresses a belief in the frequent communication of intelligence from the world of spirits by means of physical phenomena manifested through a person of special susceptibility, such as he claims to be, generally known as a medium. To those who witness his performances it looks as if he makes good his claim.

ADDRESS

OF Sp cial Committee to Allie-men and Farmers of North Caro.ina.

To the Farmers and Former Members of the Farmers' Alliance in North Carolina:

Feeling that the time has come for a general revival and reorganization of the Alliance in this State, the undersigned were, at the recent session of the North Carolina State Alliance, appointed a committee to draft an address to the farmers of the State. This is an epoch of organization and no operation. The class that remains unorganized is at the mercy of those united in organization. Eleven years ago the farmers of North Carolina, realizing this fact, banded hands in an effort to promote their interests mentally, morally, socially and financially. When the jute bagging trust attempted to oppress us the farmers defeated it, and it was glad to sell its product at the old price or for less. We could deal with any trust now existing as we did with the jute bagging trust if we had the same united co-operation of the farmers of the country.

The social condition of the farmers and the period of neighborhood good feeling and association with each other which then existed has never been equalled in the history of the State. Families that had lived near each other for years became acquainted, unfavorable opinions of neighbors were found on acquaintance to be unfounded, and their worth learned and appreciated. The people, by associating together and exchanging ideas, were benefited in their business in all departments. By co-operation the 100 per cent. for a few months credit was destroyed, and needed supplies bought at reasonable prices for cash or good security.

The different state of feeling now existing among the farmers was occasioned to some extent by the different opinions on political questions. The merchants, bankers, railroaders, mill men, lawyers, etc., have organizations to promote the interests of their respective lines of business. When these assemblies convene no one is made to feel uncomfortable on account of a difference of political views, but their consideration is directed to the advancement of their business in which they have a common interest. Why should it not be so with the farmers? Is there anything beneficial gained by rejecting the example given us by the wild horses on the Western prairie, when attacked, turn their heads together and use their heels upon their enemies, and in imitating the conduct of an animal that "has neither pride of ancestry nor length of our enemies and using our heels upon each other? The evil of this course is now bearing fruit, and the Alliance has determined that the pledge that a member's religious and political views shall not be in any way interfered with shall be strictly enforced.

As to the course of our organ, The Progressive Farmer, we are assured by the business manager and the editor of the paper that it shall be an independent, unbiassed journal, and the Alliance journal, and while it will unhesitatingly commend the right and fearlessly condemn the wrong, it shall be done as to the matter in question, party without reference to the political party advocating it.

And financially the Alliance is in a healthy state. Although some mis takes have been made, our Executive Committee and Business Agency have straightened out our business, and we now have over $9,000 in North Carolina 4 per cent. bonds and cash, besides our property at various places near Hillsboro. The Alliance also owns the shoe factory machinery, costing over $6,000, and the building in which it is located, all unencumbered. This property, security and machinery, is for the benefit of all new as well as old members.

Evidence that the farmers are awakening to the benefits that such an organization as the Alliance should be, and would be to them, come to us from many sections of the State. We anticipate a considerable revival in the near future. There were other causes than political rancor which have been injurious to the Order, among them the membership of unworthy men. During the first year or so of the Alliance few except good men were admitted, and that one was an Alliamceman was generally evidence that he was a trust worthy person, but as the greed for membership grew nearly every one who applied was admitted, and many bad members were received. The conduct of some of these in business matters caused many good Alliamcemen to quit the Order for their own personal protection.

In reorganization there should be vigilance as to the reception of members. The Committee on Examination should examine carefully, and the Alliance protected from the entrance of unworthy members, who would be of no benefit, and whose membership would prevent desirable persons from joining.

The N.C.F.S. Alliance has for the present severed its connection with the National Order, and is governed solely by its own Constitution and regulations. Should it ever become desirable to resume connection with the National Alliance it can be done.

In some sections of the State there is a contention for a new farmers' organization. Under the liberal charter granted us by the State, the Alliance can be made to accomplish anything desirable we may wish. There is certainly no need for a new organization. It will be far better to reorganize the Alliance, avoid the mistakes of the past and live up to its principles in a spirit of fraternity and brotherly love.

Let it be understood that the farmer is in "business" just as the merchant, the banker, the manufacturer, or any other "business" man, and is entitled to the same consideration in the legal and economical regulations of the country. But the farmer, while an important class, is not the only useful class of our citizenship. Every legitimate business benefits the whole population. We therefore should labor in our sphere, not as enemies but as allies of other useful professions, and do nothing with the sole desire to injure others. There was a time when the farmers were the happy, contented class of our country and a yeomanry of prosperous home owners, no matter how humble the home, is the bulwark of a country. Our farmers are not in prosperous condition to-day. There are those who either deny this or attribute it to laziness of the farmers, but in the next breath condemn themselves by attributing it to over production.

The Alliance would afford opportunity for a study of the causes of this condition, and for exchange of views as to the best methods of producing crops, raising and fattening animals, preparation of fertilizers, improving lands and highways, marketing crops, and many details in farm work, etc., and the best ideas could be put into practical use. It could arrange programs for farmers' institutes to be held in the neighborhood. Among other things it might also arrange for a system of storage, warehouses, etc., or some market system by which crops would be thrown on the market in a lump, but the sales be regulated, so as to place the different non-perishable crops, especially cotton, on the market system at the same time each year. And last, but by no means least, and which we have not hitherto appreciated and developed as we should have done, is the social feature of the Order. We are more or less isolated in our political opinions for the best development of our young people into noble and useful women and men, as well as for the benefit of the older people.

We need few persons who were over members of the Order, who do not say that they are "as good Alliamcemen as ever, but—" They then relate some grievance which is frequently imaginary or the result of their own conduct, and which could be easily remedied by their own action.

The Alliance elevated the farmers as no institution ever has done. It taught them to think, and by it they learned more of matter in which they interested themselves than they had learned in all the years before. That there were some cranks and men hasty to act was to be expected. The interests of Caesar may in some instances have overshadowed those of Rome, yet the aim of the Alliance was the good of the whole, not of the few.

The necessity for organization and the advantages of co-operation have not only increased with each succeeding year since we first joined hands in 1888. Every other class, realizing that in union there is strength, is united. In this age of organization we, too, must organize.

We therefore cordially invite all eligible persons to unite with us in the endeavor to rebuild the Alliance, with the great objects set forth in our Declaration of Principles—to develop a better state mentally, morally, socially and financially; to educate ourselves upon all matters affecting our welfare; to maintain law and order; to suppress personal, local and national prejudices; and promote in every possible way the best and highest interests of our people and country.

TAX COLLECTOR'S APPEAL.

Why do you wait, dear brother,
And why do you tarry so long,
By putting off paying your taxes
You are treating me wrong.
The harvest is idly passing,
The summer is ended, they say,
The money is now circulating,
So why not come promptly and pay.
Our public schools are now running,
The teachers you know must be paid;
The children must be educated,
This matter must not be delayed.
Then, too, is our own peerless Graded,
Just think on the large plan it is run,
Some men with no children pay large amounts,
While many children pay none.
The well-to-do and the less favored
Together this righteous plan made,
The rich man's heart is drawn heavenward
When he sees the poor child in 9th grade.
A portion on each one is levied
To carry out this wonderful plan;
Now he who pays not his proportion,
Is he worthy the name of a man?
The county and State need his money
To meet their pressing demands,
And I have been made collector,
All this is required at my hands.
Therefore let each one come promptly
And pay his proportion assessed;
Wise men of all ages assure us
Those who do their duty are blessed.

Now with these words of kind exhortation,
At present I propose to close;
Trusting I'll not have to draw grass or stones,
Nor tread upon any man's toes.

W. A. DENMARK,
Tax Collector.

A LESSON OF THE HOUR.

Mr. Jesse Stanley Writes Interestingly on Several Topics.

Stauton Va., Oct. 20, '99.
DEAR ARGUS.—From the 11th to the 18th, just one week, I was in the "Queen City," with my employers. For more than a decade and a half Cincinnati, as a manufacturing city has stood about third in the Union; in population, about sixth, and for smoke and dirt runs a smart race with Pittsburg.

While there the Disciples' Church had their annual convention, with 3000 delegates from every point in the United States, and the Commandery Knight Templars for Ohio were also in their annual convocation, and this with the National Federal Directors of the United States, made up a concourse of people that few cities could entertain at hotels, but it was done and handsomely. While not a Mason, though I hope to be some day, I could not be lost in admiration as I saw commandery follow commandery in rapid succession past Fountain Square, and between every three an elegant band of music, twelve in number, and thirty-six commanderies, each numbering a hundred or more.

Factories of every kind are running on full time in the West, and many both night and day, and the country everywhere seems to be enjoying an era of prosperity. Our own dear Southland seems, were I have been the first ten days of this month and the last past three days, to be "fully in the swim" and to come nearer home—Goldsboro (The Scientific Chemical Co.) sent goods to Kentucky last week, while I see the Goldsboro Furniture Co.'s goods going on every hand. I told them up there that we had "the best town in the State" and the best State in the Union, and that with white supremacy and honest government we would show them that we would soon be the leaders in every line of manufacturing, as we were fast getting to be in cotton, tobacco, etc.

North Carolina, at every turn where sterling worth, integrity and patriotism count for ought can proudly step beside any sister State. But yesterday, the 19th, I was in Winchester, Va., where in "Stonewall Cemetery" there sleep more of our true and tried soldiers than there is from any other Southern State, and whose graves were marked three years ago, I think, by our own ladies. I left in company with some friends, members of "Turner Ashby Camp Confederate Veterans, who were going to Woodstock to an unveiling of a monument just erected there. Senator John W. Daniel, the silver-tongued orator of Virginia, was the speaker for the occasion. There were already assembled three thousand people and three bands of music, among them the famous "Stonewall Regiment Band, of Staunton, Va., "Daniel was Daniel," and that is saying enough. Some cried, some shouted and others smiled. As the veil fell, I looked at the beautiful shaft, commemorating deeds of daring and a death of love, and listened to Daniel, perfectly enthralled. The day was an ideal autumn day, and as the noon day sun kissed the autumn foliage it kissed also the cheeks of the Southern womanhood, the loveliest on earth. This writer went up and saw that there were representatives sleeping under the mound, sixty-six heroes and I felt like shouting when near one-eight were from North Carolina, v. z. George Roberts, J. E. Marsh, Private Turner, M. Black, J. P. Thomas, J. M. Sharp, S. H. Dixon and E. Griues—North Carolina leading all but Virginia, and some were unknown, and as North Carolina says but little but is always doing, she may have enough among the unknown to place her in the lead.

Let North Carolinians talk North Carolina everywhere, for none have more cause to be proud of the land of their birth and the heritage of forefathers; but, first of all, our home town.
J. W. STANLEY.

During the winter of 1897 Mr. James Reed, one of the leading citizens and merchants of Clay, Clay Co., Va., struck his leg against a cake of ice in such a manner as to bruise it severely. It became very much swollen and pained him so badly that he could not walk without the aid of crutches. He was treated by physicians, and also used several kinds of liniment and two and a half gallons of whisky in bathing, but nothing gave any relief until he began using Chamberlain's Pain Balm. This brought almost a complete cure in a week's time and he believes that had he not used this remedy his leg would have had to be amputated. Pain Balm is unequalled for sprains, bruises and rheumatism. For sale by M. E. Robinson & Bro., in Goldsboro, and Goldsboro Drug Co. in Goldsboro, and J. R. Smith, Mt. Olive N. C.

Brigham H. Roberts seems destined to be an issue in the presidential canvass.

Drying preparations simply develop dry catarrh; they dry up the secretions which adhere to the membrane and decompose, causing a far more serious trouble than the ordinary form of catarrh. Avoid all drying inhalants and use that which cleanses, soothes and heals. Ely's Cream Balm is such a remedy and will cure catarrh or cold in the head easily and pleasantly. All druggists sell it at 50 cents or it will be mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.

Goldsboro, N. C.

DEAR SIR:—In behalf of Cape Fear Chapter, U. D. C., I acknowledge with pleasure the contribution of Thomas Ruffin Camp, for the benefit of Mrs. Stonewall Jackson, and also express the sincere thanks and appreciation of Cape Fear Chapter for your generosity.

Every one seemed in sympathy with our movement and willingly aided us in this worthy cause. The entertainment proved a great success, we realizing $129.60.

We felt it a duty as well as a pleasure and privilege to aid in the support of Mrs. Jackson, the wife of our beloved Stonewall, and a native of this State.

Thanking you again for your kindness and trusting that we may be able, some day, to assist the Thomas Ruffin Camp in its work, I am,

On the 10th of December, 1897, Rev. S. A. Donahoe, pastor M. E. Church, South Pt. Pleasant, W. Va., contracted a severe cold which was attended from the beginning by violent coughing. He says: "After resorting to a number of so-called 'specifics,' usually kept in the house, to no purpose, I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which acted like a charm. I most cheerfully recommend it to the public. For sale by Goldsboro Drug Co. and M. E. Robinson & Bro. in Goldsboro, and by J. R. Smith, Mt. Olive, N. C."

The Board of Directors of the A. & N. C. R.R., at their meeting in Newbern last week, elected Mr. H. P. Dorch, of this city, general soliciting agent for the company; Mr. W. H. Humphrey, freight agent at this point, and Messrs. A. L. Dill, of Newbern, W. B. Coleman, of Kinston, and E. E. Sugg, of Snow Hill, conductors.

These are all excellent selections, and especially is the election of Mr. Dorch and Mr. Humphrey very gratifying to the Goldsboro public.

A Hindoo believing in the transmigration of souls, ate no animal food, because he was destroying even a worm he might be destroying the body occupied by an ancestor. A traveler coming upon the Brahmin taking his vegetable meal, told him it was impossible to avoid destructing fruit of animal life and, to prove it, focused a microscope on the fruit the Brahmin was eating. That pious person drew back horrified at the living forms he saw. What did he do? Throw away the fruit? No! He smashed the microscope and went on with his meal.

There are people who are suffering with weak lungs. They have an obstinate cough, are weak, emaciated, hopeless. They have been taught there's no hope for them. Some one puts into their hands one of Dr. Pierce's books or advertisements and through this medium they see healthy, happy men and women, who declare that their lungs had been weak, they had been racked by coughs, had been emaciated, feeble, hopeless, and were positively and permanently cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. These cures can be numbered by scores of thousands.
