BRYAN ON THE HOME.

Says Every Man Shou'd Own
One. What He Thinks of Civilization.

Mr. Bryan's recent utterance on the home and civilization deserve to be read by all. Here is what he says:

"I have my idea of what civilization should mean. I want to see if it is your idea. Some people say that we Democrats are enemies of property. It is not true. I have a home. I hope I may some time have a better one. I would that every head of a family had a home, and the better the home the happier would I be.

"I want property to be the reward of industry, and I want every citizen to be secure in the enjoyment of the proceeds of his toil.

"I do not envy the rich. I am not desirous of pulling them down. I want a civilization that makes every poor man hope to be better off and relieves the rich man of the fear that his children will be trampled on if they ever become poor. I want a civilization that embraces within its benefits every deserving member of society. I do not want a civilization that will prevent a man from riding in a carriage, and I want a civilization that gives hope to the driver of the carriage as well as the man who rides in it. I want a civilization that gives hope to a girl who works in the kitchen as well as the one who sits in the parlor.

"I want a civilization that makes life worth living to every human being. And when I speak thus I am not an unselfish man. I am selfish. I do not know what may be my life in the years to come. I do not know what will be the lot of my children, and if I dared to favor a system that helped the few at the expense of the many, my children might be among the many who would suffer rather than among the few who would profit by the law."

Sentenced to Hang.

Washington, August 29.—James Jones, colored, was to-day convicted of murder in the first degree and sentenced to be hanged. Jones was charged with the brutal murder of Alexander Woostle, a white man, at Stockdale, on September 30, 1900.

Woostle was a German miner and storekeeper. Jones, with Ward and Beard, entered the house to rob it. In the attempt to rob, Mrs. Woostle was shot through the breast, but recovered, and her husband was killed. Ward was convicted and is under sentence of death.

Jones is the second to be found guilty. Beard, the other burglar, is still at large. The case closed last evening and all the evidence against Jones was purely circumstantial.

GEN. CARR A CANDIDATE.

Address to Democratic Voters in Which He Makes His Announcement.

To the Democratic Electors of North Carolina:

At your last State Convention you declared through your delegates, in the platform adopted, in favor of a primary election on November 6, 1900, to decide your preference for Senator of the United States for the term beginning March 4, 1901. I favored this action then, and heartily endorse it now. The primary will be held. Our party is not afraid to trust the wisdom of the people. All the supporters of our cause in the August election are invited to participate in the primary. For many years the conviction has come home to many of the best thinkers of our country that the election of United States Senators should be committed directly to the people, the source of all political power. In the absence of the necessary and needed constitutional change, the primary affords the nearest possible approach to an election of Senators by the vote of the people.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for United States Senator and ask your support in the primary. My record as a citizen and a Democrat is fairly well known to many of you. I ask for it no greater consideration than is justly accorded the records of those able and honorable gentlemen whose names have been mentioned for this high position. In this contest I shall not attempt in any way to detract from the merit of any competitor. We are all Democrats; we are all members of the same great political household; we have fought side by side in our great battles; we have by united effort and undivided strength achieved its great triumphs.

In the recent election, the uprising of Anglo-Saxon manhood, we achieved a notable victory, fraught with far reaching and important consequences; imposing upon you the entire responsibility and burden of State government, and as a part of this the imperative duty of providing adequate educational facilities for the boys and girls of our State. You will meet these greater responsibilities bravely and fearlessly, and discharge these duties patiently and wisely. We are no longer, as in the past, to be kept busy with the cares of preserving our homes safe, but will reach out and participate more freely in the policies of the nation. We shall now strive on the higher plane of effort and statesmanship.

My political principles are those of the Democratic party. They find excellent and thorough expression in the National and State platforms. I need not summarize their declarations. To each of them and both of them I yield most ready and unswerving support. They are the voice of my party speaking in its appointed channels. I obey that voice; and if your choice shall fall on me I shall in every way endeavor to have these declarations become the law of the land by appropriate statutes.

The industrial and educational progress of North Carolina will command my earnest and zealous service. Its large agricultural interests will receive my watchful care and I will ever strive to foster and protect the same from hostile legislation. I have endeavored, as best I could, to aid in the agricultural, industrial and educational development and advancement of our State. I have endeavored to aid the public and private schools as far as I could. I believe, with confidence, I can accomplish more in these directions in the enlarged field of high official position, and aided by my experience and knowledge attract greater attention to the resources and opportunities offered by our State. The general upbuilding of our commonwealth will command all times my earnest and loyal endeavor. I shall strive to protect our people from the dangers and disasters of force bills and preserve from Federal interference our new constitutional amendment, the submission and adoption of which by such an overwhelming majority adds new glory to the Old North State.

The earnest solicitations of my old comrades in arms have influenced me no little in deciding to submit my name for your suffrages. The old Confederate veteran realizes that the young men of a new generation will soon have entire charge of the old ship of state; a few years more and the last one of them, with a halo of precious memories around him, will have fought his last fight and departed from the scene of action. But while he yet lives and lingers in sweet and sad memories of the glorious past, he will feel a brighter satisfaction to be again represented in our highest council by one of the "Boys that wore the Grey."

Fellow Democrats: My services have been yours in every campaign since I came of age; services gladly given, without desire for, or expectation of reward; save only the gratification of a deep and abiding love of my native State, my people, my party and its glorious principles. My only ambition is to serve better my native State, to aid more in its agricultural and industrial upbuilding and its educational advancement; to promote the welfare and happiness of its people, and should you choose me to serve you in the Senate of the United States my loyalty and devotion to my State in the past, in war and peace, can give you assurance that you shall have the same measure of both in the future.

Yours very truly,
J. S. CARR.

Cannot Govern China

London, August 29.—Mr. St. John Brodrick, Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, speaking this evening at Thorncombe, said the situation in China was considerably involved because there was no Chinese Government with which to negotiate.

"Great Britain," continued the Under Secretary, "while prepared to support the loyal Viceroy of South China who have stood aloof from this insurrection, and while to preserve British trade with China, will claim some penalty or indemnity for the damage wrought.

"Nevertheless we cannot undertake to govern China ourselves, or with the assistance of other powers."

WE GO FORWARD

The Record This State And South Carolina is Making.

The past week in industrial circles in North and South Carolina brings to light new enterprises as follows: A $300,000 brewery projected at Charlotte by the Wilhelm Griesser Construction Company, of New York, the Goldsboro, N. C., Table Company capital stock $12,000, the Henderson, N. C., Cotton Ginning Company, capital stock $8,000; the Equitable Building and Loan Association of Sumpter, S. C., capital stock $200,000 has been commissioned, also the Charleston Iron Works, Charleston, S. C., capital stock $5,000.

The stone work on the big Neuse River Cotton Mills near Raleigh has been completed; the building is three stories high 60 by 200 feet, the dam will be 500 feet long.

Morrow Bros. & Heath Co., of Albemarle, N. C., have had their charter amended, increasing the stock from $30,000 to $100,000 and giving them the right to erect and operate cotton mills.

The Alpine Cotton Mill, No. 1, at Morganton, N. C., is having new machinery add which will double the present output.

The Pelzer Company of Pelzer, S. C., has been awarded the grand prize and a gold medal for the best cotton goods exhibit of the class at the Paris exposition. This competition was open to the world.

The Raleigh, N. C., Hosiery Yarn mills are putting in new spinning machinery and will make a finer grade of yarn.

An entirely new industry which it is said will soon be started will be a match factory to be erected in Western North Carolina by the Eureka Lumber Company, of Passaic, N. J., which has just purchased 16,000 acres of land in Graham and Cherokee counties.

Vice President Jas. U. Jackson, of the Chattanooga, Augusta and Charleston Railroad states that the road will be built this winter. It will cost about $300,000.

It has been demonstrated by experience that consumption can be prevented by the early use of One Minute Cough Cure. This is the favorite remedy for coughs, colds, croup, asthma, grippe and all throat and lung troubles. Cures quickly. J. H. Hill & Son.

Continued cheerfulness is a manifest sign of wisdom.

A gentleman recently cured of dyspepsia gave the following appropriate rendering of Burns' famous blessing: "Some have meat and cannot eat, and some have none that want it; but we have meat and we can eat—Kodol Dyspepsia Cure be thanked." This preparation will digest what you eat. It instantly relieves and radically cures indigestion and all stomach disorders. J. H. Hill & Son.

BRYAN IN INDIANA

Enthusiastically Received and Addressed Large Audience
at South Bend at La Porte.

South Bend, Ind., September 1.—Hon. W. J. Bryan, Democratic candidate for the Presidency, today made his second brief visit of the campaign to Indiana. He arrived at this point a few minutes past 4 o'clock this afternoon, speaking briefly at La Porte, en route, and here more at length tonight. He was enthusiastically received at both places and both at La Porte, and South Bend the audiences were large in size and complimentary in attention, as well as in their manner of receiving the speeches.

At South Bend Mr. Bryan was escorted to the residence of Hon. B. F. Shively, where he was introduced to members of the reception committee and other prominent citizens.

At La Porte, Mr. Bryan's arrival was announced by firing of anvils and the shouts of a multitude of people who had gathered at the railroad station. A platform had been erected near the depot and from this Mr. Bryan talked for about ten minutes while the train took on a dining car. He did not attempt to make a set speech in this brief period, but contented himself with pointing out what he denominated the inconsistencies of the Republican party and the means of meeting their arguments.

BIG DIPLOMATIC BATTLE.

Washington, Sept. 1.—The entire course of negotiations on the Chinese question is now dependent upon the response of the powers to the Russo-American proposals. It was stated authoritatively at the close of official hours to-day that no answers had been received from any source other than those of a preliminary and inconclusive character heretofore announced. Moreover, it is stated by responsible administration officials that not until the last answer is received will the negotiations assume any definite form, as the last answer may prove to be dissent from any international accord toward which all efforts are now bending. Much interest was aroused to-day by the dispatch from St. Petersburg giving the full text of the Russian proposal as it cleared up some discrepancies which had existed, owing to the oral nature of the community made to this government by the Russian charge. By far the most important correction it makes is disclosing that Russia has not ordered her minister and troops to withdraw "from China," as was stated in the American paraphrase of the proposal, but that she intends to recall M. de Giers and his staff "to T'ien-Tsin" where they will be accompanied by the Russian troops. In short Russia has not announced a purpose to withdraw from China, but only from Peking.
