DAILY AND WEEKLY.

PAY UP

Say, dear reader of the ARGUS, do you owe us for subscription?

If you do, we would thank you to come in and pay us—or send what you owe, if it is not convenient to come. We need the money, otherwise, as you well know, we would not make this notice, for we do dislike to dun our patrons.

Look at the date on the label of your paper and you will see exactly from date you owe, and we ask you to please settle up.

JOS. E. ROBINSON.

OUR LOCAL OPTIC.

The death of Louis Matthews, a colored brick layer, occurred here this morning and his remains were taken to Clinton, his home, for interment.

The firm of Baker & Eason will dissolve on the 1st of January. Mr. Geo. W. Baker will retire from the business and Eason and Son will continue the business at the same stand.

The appointments read out by the Bishop at Fayetteville will remain the same for Goldsboro, except St. John, which charge will be filled the coming year by Rev. J. E. Thompson.

Capt. R. C. Jenkins had the misfortune to mash his left hand right badly on Thursday while on duty, and while the wound is not serious, yet it is painful and will keep him off his engine for several days.

The debating society of the graded school boys held another contest last night on the subject "Which are the greater benefactors to Society the Lawyers or the Doctors?" The Doctors won out, and they do say the speech in their behalf by Master John M. Robinson was simply "great."

Extensive enlargements are in vogue at the Goldsboro Furniture Factory, already one of the most commodious in the South, whose trade extends to the Gulf, the Pacific slope, North to Jersey and even into the far West. The output of this factory sells on the superior merits of the material used and its perfect workmanship. But this is the common record of all Goldsboro's manufacturing enterprises.

The Junior Order of United American Mechanics in Goldsboro wish to secure the orphan home which the State Council will erect somewhere in the State during next year. The State Council will meet in Wilmington during the month of February, at which time it is intended to send in the inducements which Goldsboro will offer. It is probable that Goldsboro could get the home by giving a site and a few hundred dollars.

Mr. J. W. Perry, of Princeton, was here to-day, and tells of a threatening letter which he received last night. He says that an effort is being made in Bock Hill township to secure the no fence law for a certain section, and the letter he received last night, which was anonymous and threatened to kill him, was on that account. He did not seem to be alarmed and said that he had no fear of the coward who wrote the epistle.

Mayor Hood has requested the ARGUS to state that under the ordinance passed by the Board of Aldermen, the merchants can handle the following fire works for sale: Fire crackers, Roman candles, spit devils, squibs and other like explosives the discharge of which is not attended with any more danger than those named. No cannon cracker or fire ball will be allowed handled by merchants under a penalty of fifty dollars, and a penalty of ten dollars will be imposed against any person exploding a cannon cracker on the streets. Cannon crackers will be constructed to mean any cracker larger than a small ordinary sized fire cracker.

"Uncle Josh Spruceby" will be the offering at the Opera House Friday Dec. 13th. Much interest is being taken in the production, as it is said to be very similar to "Way Down East," which is having a successful run in New York. "Uncle Josh Spruceby" cannot be accused of pirating or copying any of the numerous "rural" plays that are now so successful as it is now in its tenth season on the road. The great realistic saw mill scene in the third act is said to be one of the most realistic stage effects ever produced. Prices 25, 35 and 50 cents.

Mr. J. H. Tucker, who committed the assault on "Uncle Jimmie Heath" some days ago, for which cause he fled the town to evade arrest, died Monday in Marion S. C., so a telegram to Mr. Jno. M. Grantham states, and the remains will be brought to Goldsboro for interment. It is reported that he died from something similar to appendicitis. The funeral was held Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock, from St. Mary's Catholic church, of which he was a member. Rev. Father Quinn was with him in his last moments.

Eugene Shaw, a colored brakeman on the A. & N. C. R. R., was struck by the covered bridge over Stoney creek on Saturday night and was not discovered until some hours after the arrival of the train here. Mr. John Stanley, the night watchman, saw the brakeman's legs hanging over the side of the car and got him down in an unconscious condition and sent him to the Emergency Hospital. He was sent home to La-Grange Sunday morning and will be able to be out in two or three weeks.

The Charlotte Observer of today has this to say of a Goldsboro man: "Col. John R. Morris reached the city last night, accompanied by 20 residents of Honolulu. The colonel stopped. His companions went on to Charleston, where they will form a Hawaiian village at the exposition. Speaking in the purest Honolulu language Colonel Morris asked the foreigners if they thought annexation was a good scheme, and they replied that they did. They expressed their entire approbation of America, and Col. Morris returned thanks for his country."

The Southeastern Tariff Association will soon establish a stamping office in the Eastern part of the State and Goldsboro is making an effort to get the office, urging our splendid railroad and mail facilities together with the many other advantages which we possess as an argument in favor of locating the office here. The business of the stamping office is to inspect all insurance policies written by agents in a given territory and stamp approved or disapproved. The office would increase our postoffice receipts considerably.

Thos. McDaniel, colored, who has been driving a yellow mule to a dray on the streets for some time, traded his mule on Saturday for a horse, and while he was delivering a trunk at the residence of Dr. J. M. Parker on Saturday night the horse left and carried the dray with him. Tom has spent much time looking for his property which so suddenly disappeared, but up to this time he has not heard or seen anything of the lost horse or dray. The horse came from the Bentonville section and may have gone to his old home. The dray had a number 7 on it.

In regard to the new hardware company for Goldsboro the ARGUS is now able to announce on authority and with certainty, that articles of incorporation have been drawn up and a charter applied for to the secretary of State. The new company is to be known as the "Wayne Hardware Company," and the following is the official list of its stockholders: Messrs. W. H. Smith, B. F. Aycock, J. B. Edgerston, N. O'Berry, Chas. Dawey, E. B. Borden, Jr., Geo. C. Royall, J. M. Powell, B. H. Griffin, Chas. B. Aycock and F. A. Daniels. The paid up stock is $30,000, with privilege of increasing to $100,000, and the period of incorporation is 60 years. The company will conduct a wholesale and retail hardware business in all its branches. As soon as the certificate of incorporation is received from the Secretary of State the company will organize and elect officers, and then a more extensive notice will be made in these columns.

EXCUSED ON ACCOUNT OF SICKNESS.

Baltimore Sun.

The torn and tattered remnant of a Confederate regiment one day toward the close of the war was lined up by its colonel, and was told that the commanding general was to pay a "visit of inspection" on the following day. The soldiers were admonished to "do their prettiest."

"Just brace up as though your clothes were brand new uniforms and as though you had the best on earth to eat and plenty of it. We haven't any bugles left, but Smith there has got a drum, and it's a plumb fine one—big as a barrel. Now, Smith, when I give you the word to-morrow you let her go for all she's worth." Thus spoke the colonel.

The next day came the general to inspect the poor, half-starved fighters, and as he appeared in the distance, the colonel gave the order to "line up." As the commanding officer drew near, the colonel shouted, "Now, Smith, let her go!" and turned to salute the general.

But not a note came from the big barrel drum.

The colonel, red in the face, turned toward the drummer and again shouted his order for "music."

But still the drum remained as mute as the harp of Tara's Hall fame.

Infuriated at this open disobedience of orders, and in the presence of his commanding officer, too, the colonel rode down the line, and as he reached the re-factory drummer, cried out:

"Say, Smith, what in the blazes do you mean by not beating that blankety-blank drum?"

"I can't Colonel," whispered Smith, "The old drum is full of chickens, and half of them are for you."

The colonel paused for a moment before he shouted so that the general and the soldiers might hear:

"All right, Smith, but if you are too sick to play the old drum, why in blazes didn't you say so?"

CITY HALL LOCATION.

Not Yet Decided Board Will Meet Again To Night.

The Board of Aldermen met last night to open the bids for the location of the city hall and market. Nothing was done at the meeting last night and the board met this morning and decided not to build the hall and market on the same lot. There will be separated. This action will be commended. It was a very wise step.

The Board then visited the various sites suggested, without arriving at a decision, and adjourned to meet again this evening in the Mayor's office, when the matter will possibly come up for a final settlement, which will relieve the tension on the nerves of a great many of Goldsboro's citizens, who are so much interested in the location of the city property.

EXCITEMENT IN SENATE.

McLaurin Attempts a Play to the Galleries and Gets Called Down.

Washington, Dec. 9.—The scene in the Senate when Senators McLaurin and Tillman had their set-to was one of intense excitement. The chamber was well filled, nearly every senator being in his seat. A great crowd thronged the galleries and the audience drank in every word of the speakers. The incident itself was a surprise.

Mr. McLaurin arose to a personal explanation, which is always in order. As soon as he was on his feet senators and others knew intuitively what was up. The papers had said that McLaurin would be excluded from the Democratic caucus.

As McLaurin unfurled a bundle of typewritten manuscript senators settled themselves in their seats, Senator McLaurin's seat is immediately in front of that of Senators Simmons, and right in front of him was Senator Jones of Arkansas, at whom he hurled some of his most vigorous thrusts. At his right, within ten feet, sat Senator Tillman, his colleague. Senator Pritchard moved over near McLaurin to hear better what he would say.

McLaurin read his speech from manuscript, but he knew it so well by heart that he frequently spoke for minutes without referring to the copy. His gestures were vigorous and his voice clear and resonant, being easily heard over the chamber and in the galleries.

It was when he got through and Senator Jones arose that the excitement increased. Senator Jones flatly contradicted McLaurin's statement about wanting to get into the Democratic caucus last Congress and subsequently, when McLaurin replied and said he would accept Jones' disclaimer, Jones got on his feet and, with clenched fist and with a voice tremulous with emotion, said: "I made no disclaimer; I contradicted you."

McLaurin sank into his seat after this, and Tillman then entered the arena. His pitchfork was ever present and its tines were sharpened. He drove McLaurin to cover with the his offer to resign then and there if McLaurin would do so, in order that people of South Carolina could decide between McLaurin and himself, in order that they could decide whether they wanted two Democrats to represent them or two Republicans.

When the incident ended the tension was much relieved, as some feared that blows might result from the personal bitterness existing between the two men. Tillman circulated about among his colleagues smiling. McLaurin remained in his seat as white as a ghost, and his presence was ignored by even those who sat next to him. McLaurin's course has estranged from him all his Democratic political friends and many of his personal foes also.

Eruptions

Dry, moist, scaly tetter, all forms of eczema or salt rheum, pimples and other cutaneous eruptions proceed from humors, either inherited, or acquired through defective digestion and assimilation.

To treat these eruptions with drying medicines is dangerous.

The thing to do is to help the system discharge the humors, and to strengthen it against their return.

Hood's Sarsaparilla permanently cured J. G. Hines, Franks, Ill., of eczema, from which he had suffered for some time; and Miss Alvina Walter, Box 212, Algona, Wis., of pimples on her face and back and chafed skin on her body, by which she had been greatly troubled. There are more testimonials in favor of this great medicine than can be published.

SYRUP OF FIGS
NEVER IMITATED QUALITY.

An Excellent Combination.
The pleasant method and beneficial effects of the well known remedy, Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO., illustrate the value of obtaining the liquid laxative principles of plants known to be medicinally laxative and presenting them in the form most refreshing to the taste and acceptable to the system. It is the one perfect strengthening laxative, cleansing the system, effectually dispelling colds, headaches and fevers gently yet promptly and enabling one to overcome habitual constipation permanently. Its perfect freedom from every objectionable quality and substance, and its acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels, without weakening or irritating them, make it the ideal laxative.

In the process of manufacturing figs are used, as they are pleasant to the taste, but the medicinal qualities of the remedy are obtained from senna and other aromatic plants, by a method known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only. In order to get its beneficial effects and to avoid imitations, please remember the full name of the Company printed on the front of every package.
