NEW SHORT STORIES

Just Like Solomon.

Joe Weber tells this story of how the firm of Weber & Fields came very near being dissolved at one time. They were playing at the Bowery museums with indifferent success when they decided that their future lay in acrobatic work. So one day they went to the foot of East Twelfth street, where there were two large ash dumps. There they found James T. Powers and Peter Daley practicing acrobatic stunts. The latter two did not fancy the invasion of the two German comedians, who were their rivals for popularity along the Bowery, and drove them away with stones, one of which, thrown by Powers, struck Fields in the eye. His partner instead of sympathizing with him began to laugh. Fields got angry. "We quit," he said, "right now."

"All right, I'm willing," said Weber. They walked back to the Bowery together without speaking. A few days before the incident they had chipped in a dollar each and bought a trunk.

"Whose going to get that trunk?"

"You can have it," replied Fields.

"No; I don't want it. You take it," said Weber.

After quarrelling for some time over the matter Fields finally hit upon a Solomon-like idea. "We'll saw it in two, and we can each take half," he said.

Weber agreed to the proposition and, procuring a saw, started upon the division of the only valuable asset of the team. He had cut half way through the trunk when he finally turned to Fields and said:

"Say, Fields, I'm getting the worst of this deal. Do you think I'm going to saw your half too?"

Fields' indignation had by this time subsided, and he was roaring with laughter. They there and then patched up their grievance, and Mr. Weber still has the trunk, while Fields shows to visitors to his home as strongly illustrating the truth of his story.

The Professor Understood.

Professor Henry Morton, president of the Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken, recently honored by Mr. Carnegie, once had a church experience with two students. One Sunday a pair of freshmen wandered into the church, not knowing that it was President Morton's place of worship. They kept quiet and seemed properly devout throughout until the time the collection box was to be passed, when they saw to their horror that Professor Morton himself was passing the box.

"Got any money?" said Paulsen to Inglis.

"Quarter. You got any?"

"No."

Nearer and nearer came the collection box.

Finally when it was but one pew away Damon Inglis rose to the needs of Pythias Paulsen.

"I'll stake you, old man. That'll be all right. Watch me," he whispered, and as the box appeared before him he made sure to catch the president's eye. Up went the quarter conspicuously between Damon's thumb and forefinger; then he dropped it, and, with a sweep of the hand toward his companion, he held up two fingers.

"Two," said Damon, and the professor understood.

He Noticed Improvement.

A typical North Carolinian called at the senate lobby one day recently. He wore heavy boots and homespun clothes, his whiskers were of the Horace Greeley fashion, he did not wear a collar, and his hat slouched down upon his tousled hair. He sent in his name to Senator Pritchard, confiding to the doorkeeper that he had not seen Pritchard since they served together in the legislature twelve years ago.

Presently Senator Pritchard appeared. His North Carolina friend looked him all over.

"My country, senator," he exclaimed in a voice audible all over the lobby, "how you have improved!"—Washington Post.

Vest Meets Germ Sharp.

A young man more or less intimately acquainted with affairs at the capitol is a believer in the germ theory of disease and in the virtue of disinfectants. A few days ago he heard of a case of scarlet fever in his neighborhood, and he straightaway went to a drugstore and got a mixture of liquids with which to disinfect his clothes. He dosed the clothes liberally.

Shortly afterward he was riding in one of the senate elevators. Senator Vest came in, leaning on the arm of his faithful attendant, Jim Edwards. The senator elevated his Roman nose and sniffed the air. Then he said to Edwards, "Somebody in this car is dead."

Rheumatism

The liniment bottle and flannel strip are familiar objects in nearly every household. They are the weapons that have been used for generations to fight old Rheumatism, and are about as effective in the battle with this giant disease as the blunderbuss of our forefathers would be in modern warfare.

Rheumatism is caused by an acid, sour condition of the blood. It is filled with acrid, irritating matter that settles in the joints, muscles and nerves, and liniments and oils nor nothing else applied externally can dislodge these gritty, corroding particles. They were deposited there by the blood and can be reached only through the blood. Rubbing with liniments sometimes relieve temporarily the aches and pains, but these are only symptoms which are liable to return with every change of the weather; the real disease lies deeper, the blood and system are infected. Rheumatism cannot be radically and permanently cured until the blood has been purified, and no remedy does this so thoroughly and promptly as S. S. S. It neutralizes the acids and sends a stream of rich, strong blood to the affected parts, which dissolves and washes out all foreign materials, and the sufferer obtains happy relief from the torturing pains.

S. S. S. contains no potash or other mineral, but is a perfect vegetable blood purifier, and most exhilarating tonic. Our physicians will advise, without charge, all who write about their case, and we will send free our special book on Rheumatism and its treatment.
