LADY SAW BLOW STRUCK.

STATE INTRODUCES VERY MAJORITY EVIDENCE OF FULLER, OF IRHAM.

Miss Pace Told Jones Fuller She Saw a Quarrel, and Saw Skinner Strike Haywood On The Chin. The Prosecution Rests Its Case.

Raleigh News-Observer (Sunday.)

The most interesting, as well as a very material fact, in the Haywood case, was developed yesterday morning while the last witness for the State, Mr. Jones Fuller, of Durham, was on the stand. It is that Miss Mattye Pace, of this city, witnessed all that took place between Ernest Haywood and Ludlow Skinner on that fatal afternoon of the 21st of February, in front of the postoffice, says she saw an angry conversation, a blow struck by Skinner, and Haywood fire twice.

Miss Pace was at the window on the third floor of the Yarborough House, over the main entrance, conversing with Mr. Fuller, who was a step or two back from the window. She told Mr. Fuller she saw Ernest Haywood and Ludlow Skinner standing close to the bottom of the southern steps of the postoffice, engaged in what seemed to be a very heated conversation. Mr. Haywood was apparently impressing something upon Mr. Skinner, for he was tapping him on the breast with his forefinger as though emphasizing his remarks. In a minute Skinner struck Haywood on the chin, as she thought, and she exclaimed: "There's a fight" or "There's going to be a fight," or "There are two men quarreling," or something to that effect, and in a second, "He's going to shoot him." This brought Mr. Fuller to the window, and as he looked he saw Mr. Haywood fire the first shot at Mr. Skinner, who was leaving Mr. Haywood, with his back toward him, as it seemed to Mr. Fuller. Then Mr. Skinner half turned and went diagonally northeast and Mr. Haywood fired again. Mr. Skinner then threw both hands to his left side, circled and fell over the car track. That is in substance what Miss Pace and Mr. Fuller saw, as stated yesterday on the stand by Mr. Fuller: the part about Miss Pace while under cross-examination.

Miss Pace has not been summoned by the prosecution, for the reason that Mr. Fuller, when he gave his statement to the attorneys for the State, about a month and a half ago, did so only upon the condition that Miss Pace should not be called as a witness. The defense is unable to subpoena her now, as she is out of the State.

It was twelve o'clock yesterday when the State announced that it rested its case. In reply to a question by Mr. Pou, Mr. Daniel stated that the prosecution would ask for a verdict according to the charge in the indictment, which is murder with malice aforethought.

It is thought by counsel on both sides that the trial will be concluded by next Saturday, allowing three days for the introduction of evidence by the defence, and one day for evidence of the State in rebuttal.

Letter to Enterprise Lumber Co.

Goldsboro, N. C.

Dear Sirs: If you paint two houses alike with two different paints, and one takes twice as much paint as the other, you know which paint to buy after that—so far as go-far goes—don't you?

One of these paints is Devoe; the other is any average paint. The worst are worse than that; the better are not much better; no other paint than Devoe is anywhere near Devoe in go-far. Devoe is go further; the rest are go-shor, tgo-middling and go-three-quarters.

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & Co.

ANOTHER SOUTHERN WRECK

NEAR THE SOUTHERN PART OF THIS CITY.

Two Engines Were Smashed Up and Traffic Was Delayed Until Noon.

The Southern Railroad had a wreck on Tuesday, less than a half mile from this depot. Engineer Harris of 107 jumped and sustained slight injuries in the back. Fortunately none of the passengers of either train were injured. A young man named Elmore, from Mt. Olive, saw the approaching train and jumped. He lost his gold watch.

The wreck occurred between the passenger train due to leave here at 7:20 and the passenger train from Greensboro due here at 7:30. Both the engines were damaged considerably and were thrown from the track. Traffic was delayed until noon to-day. The engines were not damaged to a very great extent. The pilots were broken off and the front part of the boilers were broken in.

The wreck occurred at an early hour, but in less than a half hour hundreds of people were on the scene. It was first reported in the city that several passengers were injured and this caused numbers of people to flock to the scene in vehicles hoping to render assistance. The place where the wreck occurred is at the sharp curve just outside of the corporate limits. There is a deep cut at this point and it was impossible for the engineers to see each other until the trains were within a few yards of each other.

There are several rumors afloat as to the cause of the wreck and as is usual with railroad men they refuse to talk, hence it is impossible to verify or contradict the rumors. It is known, however, that the incoming passenger train had orders to meet the outgoing train at Grant's brick yard, which is just about one mile from the city. When this train reached the meeting place the crew discovered that a fire last night at Griffin's brick yard had burned the wires down. The outgoing train had not shown up and it is supposed that the incoming crew thought that the outgoing crew had not received orders on that account. Engineer Piper sent his flagman out and proceeded slowly around the curve. Passengers who were on the train say that the flagman was only two telegraph poles ahead of the engine and therefore the engineer of 107 could not have seen the flagman until the two engines were right on each other.

On account of the wires being down the crew of the train due to leave here at 7:20 had not received orders at the regular leaving time and pulled down in front of the Hotel Kennon to load the baggage and take on passengers. When this had been accomplished the train went back again to the freight depot to get orders. Whether or not they got orders cannot be found out. In a few minutes the train came by the regular starting point without stopping and went on down the road to the place where the wreck occurred. While the train was gone to the freight depot orders were received over the Atlantic Coast Line wires by way of Contentnea stating that the incoming train had orders to wait at Grant's brick yard. These orders were not delivered because they were received while the train was passing the telegraph office. These are the grounds for the conclusion that the incoming crew did not comply with their instructions, but took it for granted that the outgoing crew could not receive orders on account of the wires being down and sent out a flagman and tried to get into the city.

There were not many passengers on either train. Mr. W. R. Simmons and his family, of Seven Springs, were on the outgoing train. He says that the first intimation that he had of the collision was from a fellow passenger whose name he did not know. He saw the approaching engine of the other train and turned very pale. He settled himself in his seat and braced himself against the back of the seat in front of him. At that time the crash came and the women and children began to scream. All were shaken up very badly and some of the passengers were thrown against the side of the cars.

The engineer of the incoming train first saw the other train and applied his brakes and reversed his engine. When the crash came the incoming engine was standing still and the driving wheels were revolving backward. The other engineer had also applied his brakes and reversed his engine, but the speed at which he was running together with the momentum of the heavy train would not permit much decrease of speed in so short a distance.

DISPENSARY FOR RALEIGH.

AT 4 O'CLOCK THERE WAS 107 MAJORITY FOR DISPENSARY.

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 5, 1903.

A special telegram to the ARGUS from Raleigh at the hour the paper is put to press this afternoon gives the following figures:

For dispensary 558; for saloons 451; a majority of 107 for dispensary.

It is claimed that the saloon forces have polled their strength and the vote from now until the polls close will largely increase the dispensary majority.

LATER:—The Dispensary was carried by 194 majority.

WILL GIVE GUARANTEE BOND.

J. H. Hill & Son Gives Signed Agreement That Mi-o-na

NATURE'S OWN CURE.

Hyomei Cures Catarrh Without Dangerous Drugging of the Stomach.

Not until Hyomei was discovered has it been possible to truthfully say that a remedy for catarrh was known.

This remedy is breathed through the Hyomei inhaler for a few minutes four times a day, and during that time every particle of air taken into the air passages and lungs is impregnated with the germ killing and health giving Hyomei. It is the only treatment that cures catarrh.

Stomach drugging often causes disordered digestion or brings on some other diseases and never makes a permanent cure of catarrh. Hyomei not only kills the germs in the throat and nose but penetrates to the minutest air cells in the lungs and enters the blood with the oxygen, killing the germs in the blood. It frees the mucous membrane from poisonous microbes and gives perfect health.

A complete outfit costs but $1.00, and includes an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomei for several weeks treatment.

J. H. Hill & Son have so much faith in the merit of Hyomei that they agree to return the money to any purchaser who may be dissatisfied.
